HEARD AND SEEN

Strange things happen these days - and awful things also happen - never was afraid to travel by plane but I got a little shook up when I read of all these terrible plane crashes - the latest crash which happened Monday near New York in which 84 persons died was horrifying to say the least - but then, it's dangerous to travel by car, too - in fact, it's even dangerous to walk - especially in front of the office here where so many cars disregard the signal light and frequently run the red light just like it's not there - I can imagine the anxiety of McKinley Ramsey, Pat and others up at Rollins last week when they discovered a high-voltage line had snapped during the near-zero weather in their yard - flames and sparks flew - fortunately, they realized the danger and didn't touch the fence that the broken line landed on - they phoned the authorities and after searching for a long time found the cause and fixed it - it was then that the Ramseys learned that the broken power line had 4,000 volts running through it - in his yard - across a fence - it's a good thing none of them touched anything - you can also imagine Shorty Norton's surprise Tuesday when he opened up a shipment of Delco Regulators for 1963-65 Chevrolets and discovered that the printing on the boxes read GEGULATORS instead of REGULATORS - whoever printed those boxes goofed - sorry to hear about Yates Ward being so sick - hope he soon gets well - so - Sunday is Valentine's Day - goosh, I can remember when I was a very little tot how I used to make my own Valentines - even composed poems to my sweetheart - it was then the custom to slip up on the porch of your "favorite" - put the Valentine under the door - tap on the door and then run for dear life - we didn't sign our Valentines - the girl was supposed to guess who her valentine was - now, valentines are all printed nicely and the youngsters sign 'em and mail 'em - I think they're missing a lot of fun - anyway, here's hoping YOU have a happy Valentine's Day - the Intermediate girls and boys of our Sunday School are planning a Valentine's Party up at our house Saturday night - guess I'll see how the youngsters do in this day and age - I think they still enjoy spinning the bottle, playing post office, wink, and all the other little games I used to enjoy way, way back when -

Just A Woman's Observations By DOROTHY B. SHUPE

Are we going to have an early spring? Some of the flowers and shrubbery are already "putting out!" I saw a bunch of Phlox in my yard this afternoon that had blooms on it! Of course, crocuses have been in bloom for a few weeks, but they seem to thrive in cold, snowy weather. Did you see in one of the weekly magazines about the Governor of Georgia honoring one of his former teachers? Now, let me see, which one of my boys will soon be governor of North Carolina? There's all my Ronnies, but most of them are interested in bricklaying or girls; there's my Rogers, but they are too interested in geometry, chemistry, and girls; then there I have Steve, Rodney, James, Ellaberry and their interest is, you guessed it - girls, girls, girls - guess I'd better look forward to some other kind of honor!

Our magazine sales event ends tomorrow (Wednesday) and it looks like Mrs. Sprinkle and Mrs. Lewis will top my group in selling, but we have had fun and made some money for our junior-senior banquet and that was the over-all idea in the first place. That Ronnie Shelton is really a salesman. I recommend that he take for his life's work some field that is related to selling and he'll make a million by the time he's 30 years old! I do want to thank the kind people who bought from my students - I appreciate it very much. An old landmark is going down in Walnut this week. We are razing the old store house on the Barnard road. It sure will look strange without that old building in that curve. I don't know if Daddy and Uncle Moody built it or not - I do know my family came to Walnut 46 years ago and it has been there all my life-time. Gee, the fun we used to have when I was a child sitting around the stove in the winter time listening to the grown-ups telling tall tales until bedtime after supper.

Observed - I've written such long columns lately, I'm gonna try to cut this one a bit - Sorry Charlotte and I missed the Tupperware party at Mrs. Bill Rice's the other night, but they had fun - Glad to get a call from Mrs. Ralph Thaddeus Barnes the other day; says she keeps right busy with her Avon selling and promised to come see me soon - not that I need make up, just for a chat - Knox said Verna was afraid that people would think they just had 35 year old merchandise from my column last week, but I can vouch for them that their supply is as up to date as you'll find in Madison - altho I ought to kid them and say something real mean - We teachers sort of surprised Mrs. Fred Anderson with a belated gift Tuesday - she was a bit puzzled as to how she qualified after the preceding ceremony - See you next week!

Miss Doris Ward Is Bride Of Sp/4 Leonard Connor

Miss Doris Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward of Marshall, became the bride of Sp/4 Leonard Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Connor, of Marshall Rt. 2, Saturday afternoon, February 6, 1965.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ray Roberts at his home. Mrs. Connor is a student at Western Carolina College, Cullowhee, and Sp/4 Connor is stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Connor has returned to Fort Knox and Mrs. Connor will continue her studies at WCC.

With The Sick

Clyde McClure, of Walnut, is a patient in Aston Park Hospital where he is undergoing treatment.

Mrs. Lloyd Slagle, of Marshall, is a patient in Memorial Mission Hospital. Her condition is satisfactory after surgery last Friday.

Mr. Talmage McLean has been confined to his home several days this week due to illness.

Mr. J. N. Penland, of Marshall, returned to his home last Saturday from the Memorial Mission Hospital where he had been a patient. His condition is improving.

Household Shower In Honor Of Mrs. Kenneth Chambers

On Saturday evening, Feb. 6, at the Beech Glen Community Club House, a household shower was given for Mrs. Kenneth Chambers of Rt. 2, Mars Hill, the former Miss Golda Shepherd of Woodfin. The hostess was Mrs. Paul Moxley.

The club house was beautifully decorated with white candles in crystal holders, crystal bowls of roses and sprays of nandina berries and winter greenery.

The hostess presented the bride with a corsage and then everyone enjoyed playing several games of bingo. After the many beautiful gifts were opened, refreshments were served to the fifty friends and relatives attending.

Miss Dianne Moxley presided at the gift table and Mrs. Paul Carter and Mrs. Robert Gardner assisted Mrs. Moxley in serving.

Methodist Group Met Here Sunday; Varied Program

The North Buncombe-Madison Cooperative Methodist Ministry held its meeting in the Marshall Methodist Church last Sunday.

The meeting was presided over by Don McCurry, of the Salem Methodist Church, and devotions were led by the Rev. W. C. Clark, host pastor. The Rev. L. B. Lave, pastor of the Weaverville Methodist Church, led a group on Membership and Evangelism; and the Rev. Durward Hoffer, pastor of the Mars Hill Church, led a group on Youth Work and the Church School.

Various reports were presented and the committee on Evangelism recommended that Lent be a special period of evangelistic efforts by all churches and urged revivals be held after Easter.

Ned Jester, of Marshall, spoke on Soil Stewardship Week which will be observed in May.

Col. Hewitt, of the American Red Cross, told the Council how churches could play an important part in assisting in the Red Cross Blood Program.

The next meeting of the Council will be held the first Sunday in May.

Marshall Gun Club Met Here Tuesday; Elects Officers

The Marshall Gun Club held its annual meeting at Sluder's Jewelry Store in Marshall Tuesday night and much optimism was expressed for the future of the club and its benefits to the community.

Officers were elected as follows: The Rev. Jack Davis, president; Jim McIntire, vice president; Lee Sluder, secretary; and Jackie Davis, executive officer.

The need for a better range was expressed for skeet and trap shooting as well as rifle and pistol shooting. President Davis seeks information from the public as to where a suitable range could be found. "If anyone has a tract of level land with a hill for a backdrop, please notify me," President Davis said. The club plans to sponsor frequent shoots as soon as a suitable place can be located.

Anyone interested in joining the club should contact Mr. Sluder at Sluder's Jewelry Store.
