Proper Addresses Must Be Filed Now With Draft Board

Any Failure To Adhere To Requests Might Hasten Induction

Madison County Local Board No. 59, Selective Service System, is in the process of updating files of many registrants. In a number of instances, correspondence mailed to these registrants is being returned by the Post Office Department undeliverable because of improper or incomplete addresses. Any registrant who has moved and has not advised the local board of his current address should do so without delay.

If a registrant fails to keep the local board informed of his proper mailing address, and for this reason, does not receive correspondence mailed to him, the Local Board is empowered to declare him delinquent. Selective Service Regulations provide that delinquents shall be ordered to Report for Induction ahead of other registrants, and that a delinquent who fails to respond shall be reported to the United States Attorney for criminal action.

It is not the desire of the Local Board to declare registrants delinquent. However, if they cannot be located, and therefore do not keep their files in this office current, there is no alternative under the law, an official stated here today.

CORN SILAGE FOR WINTER FEEDING CITED BY AGENT

According to Harry G. Shiver, county farm agent, the production and use of corn silage represents the greatest change in winter feeding of livestock in Madison County of any change in the feed program in recent years. Fifteen years ago Madison farmers produced and fed less than 600 tons of corn silage. This year it is anticipated that over 32,000 tons of corn silage will be produced in the county.

Basic changes which have come about in the production and harvesting silage has made this great increase possible. Farmers have learned how to produce corn silage without any labor after the corn is planted. A number of farmers are applying all fertilizer, including nitrogen, to the soil before the corn is planted. Following planting they use atrazine

ASC COMMITTEE NOMINATIONS BEING ACCEPTED

Slates of nominees for membership in ASC community committees will soon be established at the ASCS county office.

Emory Robinson, chairman of Madison County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today that farmers who are eligible to vote in the committee elections also have the right to nominate candidates by petitions for committee membership. Such petitions are limited to one nominee each and must be signed by at least six eligible voters, however an eligible voter may sign as many nominating petitions as he desires. Nominations made by petitions must be submitted to the county ASCS office not later than August 20. The incumbent ASC committees will complete the slate of nominees after August 20. The names of persons duly nominated will be placed on the ballot if they are eligible and willing to serve. As a general rule, all persons of legal voting age who have an interest in a farm as the owner, operator, tenant or share-cropper may vote or hold office as a committeeman.

Robinson emphasized the importance of nominating and electing the best men available to serve on ASC community boards because the committee system is the backbone of farm progress dealing with conservation of our soil and water resources as well as the production adjustment and price support programs. In conclusion, he stated that ASC community committee elections would be conducted by mail in all counties within our State during the period of September 1 and September 10.

GRASSHOPPERS ARE DAMAGING TOBACCO CROP

Grasshoppers are doing considerable damage to tobacco fields in some areas of Madison County, Wiley DuVall, assistant county agent, said this week. Where these pests have been a threat, best results have been obtained by spraying with a 72% Chlor-dane liquid. This should be used at the rate of one tablespoon per gallon of water. Good results have been obtained by spraying the border rows and several feet into each end of the field. It might be necessary to spray the entire field later on if this initial spraying does not control the grasshoppers. Care should be taken not to spray this material onto pasture that is being grazed or onto a crop to be used for hay.

Messer received lacerations, bruises, chest injuries and a fractured knee when his car, a 1963 Ford Galaxie, was struck by a 1-ton truck driven by Glamer Carlton Worley, of the Big Pine community when Worley attempted to pass a car driven by Simm Thomas of Arden, which had stopped momentarily in an effort to turn left. Worley apparently did not see the incoming Messer car and the two vehicles crashed head-on. The Worley truck was badly damaged as was the Messer car.

Messer was alone in his car and Worley had his two sons and a niece as passengers. There were also two children in the truck but everyone escaped injury except Messer. Messer is now recuperating in Memorial Mission Hospital.

Don't Discontinue Present Insurance For "Medicare"

Raleigh — The President of the State Medical Society today cautioned persons over 65 years of age against abandoning or reducing any existing hospital or health insurance plan they may have in effect solely on the prospect of immediate assistance under the so-called "medicare" legislation recently enacted by Congress and signed into law by the President.

George W. Paschal, Jr., M.D., of Raleigh, president of the Medical Society of the State of North Carolina, pointed out that the government's hospital and medical plan for the non-assisted aged under the Social Security system will not provide any benefits until July 1, 1966 at the earliest.

Mr. Kent is manager of the Standard Agena program of Lockheed Missiles & Space Co., which has achieved more than 140 successful flights.

Mr. Kent, 46, graduated from high school as a member of the National Honor Society at the age of 16 and entered U-T's College of Engineering under its cooperative program working three months and going to school the next three.

LUNSFORD TO MISS FOLK FESTIVAL

The man who knows most of the ballad singers, square dancers, banjo pickers and fiddlers of the Southern Highlands will not be at the microphone for the first time in 38 years, when Western North Carolina's Mountain Dance and Folk Festival opens tonight (Thursday) "along about sundown" in the Asheville City Auditorium.

Bascom Lamar Lunsford, the 83-year-old dean of American folklorists, is presently recuperating from a slight stroke at his home on South Turkey Creek.

However the three day festival will go on in the long established Lunsford tradition.

Bascom Larmar, Jr., and Joe Bly will guide the performers through the three-hour, unprogrammed evening, which Mr. Bascom has been working toward for the past five months.

Johannie Crooke, an old time mountain square dance caller, is in charge of the square dancing competition.

According to Crooke the cream of the smooth and clog square dance teams of the area that lies between the Blue Ridge and the Great Smokies will again be on hand to put on a dancing show the likes of which have not been seen in the county.

On Thursday night the Mars Hill-California Creek-By Ivy sections will be represented by the Bailey Mountain Cloggers. Huge Shed Now Open Every Day, Night Except Sunday

MATO officials this week expressed satisfaction with the quantity and quality of tomatoes now being graded and packed at the huge shed near the Marshall By-Pass.

Although the peak of the tomato season is expected early next month; from daily increases it would appear that the "peak" is almost here at the present. Hundreds of trucks loaded with vine-ripened tomatoes are finding their way to the modern tomato plant and employees have been increased to take care of the huge deliveries and processing.

It will be recalled that the shed opened late last year but even so, the initial year was considered most successful. This year the first of a full season's operations, the outlook is even better. One official stated this week that a 50% increase, at least, is expected and perhaps an even higher percentage over last year.

He cited as an example that the largest single day's output last year was 4,000 cartons of 20-pound No. One tomatoes. He compared this figure with last Monday's output of 4,958 cartons of 20-lb. No. 1 tomatoes.

Each day the number of tomatoes increases and there are now 78 employees working every afternoon and night except on Sundays. "So far, we have operated until about 9 o'clock each night but last Monday the shed didn't close down until about 11 p. m. and stayed open."

Shed growers are assured that the demand is good and they will be served as quickly as possible.

As Usual, County's Entries Among Best Shots At Cataloochee Event

A record 219 targets were perforated Wednesday in the 25th annual muzzle-loading Cataloochee Beef Shoot, in which the beef gets off lucky.

A pot of $185 was divided among winners in four men's classification after the steer put up by sponsor, Tom Alexander was auctioned off. Nobody ever wants to quarter the animal, which is usually burned back to pasture by the buyer.

Jack Warlick of Waynesville was high gun in the involved muzzle-loaders' measurement system, which adds up to the total number of inches strayed from the cross-hairs of the target in three shots. Low score wins, and Warlick was only 1.35 inches shy of perfection.

The score has been lower, but there was a little wind Wednesday, Alexander said.

Winners by classes:
Under 20 — 1st, David Jones, Lake Junaluska; 2nd, Jerry Adams, Marshall; 3rd, Dean Warlick, Waynesville.
20-30 years — 1st, Jack Warlick, Waynesville; 2nd, Charles Adams, Marshall; 3rd, Don Jones, Waynesville.
30-40 years — 1st, Jack Warlick, Waynesville; 2nd, Charles Adams, Marshall; 3rd, Don Jones, Waynesville.
