PAINFUL BUT VALUABLE LESSON

It is only natural for high school cheerleaders to stand on the sidelines and give out with yells and encouragement to their favorite players. It is part of the game and not only gives a "lift" to the players but also adds "color" and enthusiasm to the game. It wouldn't be a football game without the cheerleaders. However, a painful but perhaps a valuable lesson was learned last week at Clyde when a Hot Springs cheerleader suffered a dislocated knee cap when players from both teams went out of bounds on a play, striking the attractive cheerleader. It was an unusual incident. We were directly in front of the play and saw the entire action.

The Hot Springs cheerleader, like cheerleaders from every high school, were near the sidelines when the play developed. The only trouble was that the cheerleaders didn't realize the players were going to crash out-of-bounds right at them. Too late, the girls started running from the sidelines but before they could get far enough away, the heavy football players in their hard pads and helmets struck the cheerleader. She fell to the ground with a dislocated knee cap which necessitated hospitalization. Fortunately, her knee was not broken.

This isn't the first time a cheerleader has been injured on the sidelines and probably will not be the last time. However, we urge the cheerleaders to pay close attention to position of the ball in regard to possible sideline plays and when the play starts developing toward them, to give immediate flight away from the field.

Not only painful, but often serious injuries could result from contact of players with cheerleaders. Don't let this happen again if it can possibly be avoided.

DR. SCHWEITZER'S FIELD WAS LOVE AND SERVICE

As close an approach to actual sainthood as mortal man may come in his own lifetime was achieved by Albert Schweitzer, the "white doctor of Africa," who is dead now at 90 in the hospital he founded in Lambarene in Gabon.

To millions of people of all faiths around the world, Albert Schweitzer was the living symbol of the compassionate love of man for his suffering fellow man. Winner of the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize, as a young man his intellectual and artistic talents were so great and so varied that he could have had an outstanding career in Europe as a theologian, as a musician or as a medical scientist.

Instead of a brilliant European career, he chose to become a medical missionary in Africa, and founded the Lambarene hospital to bring help to the uneducated tribesmen of the area.

The great career came to him anyway. Through his books the whole world came to know not only of the plight of the Africans Dr. Schweitzer was giving his life to alleviate, but of the beliefs of a great man who saw true achievement only in service — a man who in the dedication of his great gifts took with absolute literalness the admonition of Jesus Christ to his disciples that "the first among you must be last, and the last first."

Albert Schweitzer, in his long and transcendently useful life, became a missionary of vast power not only to the desperately poor and ignorant villagers whom he served, but to men and women of conscience in all parts of the world. In the field of love and service, he was the greatest man of his generation. Death cannot end the good he has done for all mankind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Route 2,
Marshall, N. C.
August 30, 1965

Editor,
The News-Record,
Marshall, North Carolina

Dear Editor:
Fighting communism is the great task that the Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation is engaged in today.

Since their foundation they have been engaged in the tremendously ambitious cause of demonstrating to the American people the great stake that we have in Asia today and the enormous importance of strong, anti-communist pro-western allies such as the Republic of Korea.

Their program is an active one, and one which informed and dedicated anti-communists would like to support.

One of the chief ways in which they plan to encourage a more responsive anti-communist feeling among Americans is through an effective and activated program of informing Americans about the progress of the fight against communism, not only in Viet Nam, but throughout Asia. What happens there affects us as well as things next door.

They have joined with dozens of anti-communist groups all over Asia to lend moral and material assistance in their vital battle with the enemy. They have enlisted the support of many of America's most distinguished men and women to their cause, such as General Dwight Eisenhower, Admiral Arleigh Burke, (USN, Ret), Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, D. D., Hon. James A. Farley, Mrs. Pearl Mesta, and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord.

The Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation urgently needs your support if it is to continue its efforts both in the United States and Asia in rallying anti-communist efforts wherever they may form in a sweeping offensive against communist imperialism.

They have a program, and the necessary contacts and people ready and willing to work. They need financial help, however, to do the task well.

Those interested in anti-communism and the freedom we all love and cherish, may send a tax exempt contribution to advance the great work of the Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, Inc., 1028 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., 20036.

The Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, Inc., was established to deliver to the American people, the reasons why communism must be stopped from spreading throughout Asia and the great value and importance of American allies in this part of the world.

We hear Americans calling for complete withdrawal of military forces from Vietnam and the rest of Asia as well. It is the voice of appeasement, back again to give us reason why American foreign policy should be changed from one of resistance to communist aggression to one of appeasement and conciliation with communist aggression.

Those who wish to fight communism and preserve the freedoms of these great and proud Asian peoples must answer this challenge loud and clear.

The Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, Inc., was conceived as an anti-communist organization whose primary purpose is that of reaching all Americans at every level, both public and private, in support of an anti-communist foreign policy in South Vietnam, and for stronger ties with our staunch allies who are willing to stand with us and die with us if necessary for freedom.

However, to get this message out every available means of dissemination must be used. Every form of mass communications must be used to implement this program.

The Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation's program is an active one and which reaches in to every facet of anti-communist activity.

The detailed objectives of the Foundation are:

1. To disseminate fully and factually to the American people the progress which anti-communist nations are making in their war against communism and to initiate support for anti-communist nations and efforts throughout Asia.

2. To encourage continued of...
