Burlington Gives $6 Million To Education In Decade

Burlington Industries reported in a 10-year summary this week that under its Aid to Education Program contributions of $6 million have been made to more than 500 institutions in 40 states.

The financial support of education is in the form of direct grants, fellowships, scholarships, matching gifts and other donations to colleges and universities, as well as individual student aid, including a loan program to assist children of employees to pursue education beyond high school. Its annual grants, which have more than tripled since the formal program was initiated in 1955, place Burlington high among American corporations investing in the development and growth of higher education. Its program is administered by the Burlington Industries Foundation.

Burlington has provided educational loans to 2,000 children of Company employees under the student aid program. These educational loans totaled $114,000 last year alone. Its J. Spencer Love Fellowship program at the Harvard School of Business Administration, named for the Company's founder, offers fellowships ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 annually to graduates of southern institutions who pursue a masters degree in business administration at Harvard.

The Company also encourages employees and directors to support schools of their choice by providing matching grants on a dollar-for-dollar basis for gifts of from $10 to $2,500 annually. The Foundation's contributions matching these gifts totaled $102,000 last year.

The Burlington Aid to Education Program extends assistance to both liberal arts and technical colleges alike. Its benefits are not restricted to larger state and private colleges; many local community colleges and technical institutes also are recipients.

FIRST TO BEGIN BAE North Carolina was the first state to begin Basic Adult Education programs in 1964. Since then more than 45,000 North Carolinians have enrolled in BAE classes.

WHERE? It was her first visit to church and the little child was somewhat awed by the solemnity of the occasion. "Mamma," she whispered during a brief pause in the service, "does the minister live here, or does he come down from heaven every Sunday?"

Your Social Security QUESTIONS and ANSWERS By D. C. NICHOLS Field Representative

Q. If I understand it right - when I failed to file for Medicare during the big "sign up campaign" last year for people over 65, I lost my chance to get the medical insurance protection. But can I still apply for the hospital insurance part of Medicare?

A. Yes. There's no sign-up deadline for that. You lost the opportunity only for the medical or "doctor bill" insurance part - until the next "general enrollment" period (October - December, 1967). You may still file for hospital insurance at any time. But if you intend to do this, why run the risk of further delay?

Q. Don't you think it's important that we farmers keep good records of our income and expenses? A farmer friend of mine pooh-poohs the idea of record keeping - says it's too much red-tape to bother with, and is something for the birds. I think he's wrong. Am I right?

A. You're right; he's wrong. Birds don't need to keep records. Farmers do. Agricultural agents and other farm management specialists have for years stressed the importance of good farm records. Record keeping is a good business practice.

Also, records are needed for taxpaying purposes. All self-employed people, including farmers, who have net earnings of $400 or more in a year must report such income to Internal Revenue and pay the social security tax - even though, because of low income, some of them do not have to pay the regular income tax.

Under certain conditions farmers may use an optional method and pay the social security tax on a percentage of their gross farm income, instead of on their net earnings. But only if they have kept the necessary records of farm income and expenses can they tell if this optional method is advantageous to use.

In cases where the self-employment tax reporting was incomplete, or where (in some instances) no return was filed, substantial social security benefits have been lost. Sad to say, there have even been cases in which, due to the self-employed farmer's failure to keep records and make proper tax reports, their surviving widows and children have been unable to get any benefits at all. So it's extremely important to file complete and correct tax returns (as the law requires), reporting all self-employment earnings, since future benefits payable will be based on the amounts of income reported. For this purpose it is essential to keep current records of all farm income

Minutes from The Bible

GOD'S ETERNAL PURPOSE fully the opening words of the Bible: "IN THE BEGINNING GOD CREATED THE HEAVEN AND THE EARTH." Why doesn't it simply say that God created the universe? Why the HEAVEN and the EARTH?

As we go on reading we find the answer to this question, for the Bible clearly teaches that God has a TWO-FOLD purpose; one having to do with the earth and the other with heaven. The former is the subject of prophecy, while the latter is the subject of "the mystery," or secret, revealed to and through St. Paul. See Acts 3:21; and cf. Rom. 16:25). The former concerns Israel and the nations; the latter "the body of Christ," the Church of heavenly calling.

Some people are surprised to learn that there is not one promise in the whole Old Testament about going to heaven. There the whole outlook is earthly, with Messiah reigning as King (Jer. 23:5, et al). When our Lord appeared in the flesh the angels cried: "Peace on EARTH" (Luke 2:14). He Himself said that "the meek shall inherit THE EARTH" (Matt. 5:5). He taught His disciples to pray: "Thy will be done IN EARTH, as it is in heaven" (Matt. 6:10). Even at Pentecost Peter declared that after "the restitution of all things" God would send Jesus back to earth and the times of refreshing would "COME FROM the presence of the Lord" (Act 3:19-21).

Not until the raising up of Paul do we learn that now all believers in Christ are "baptized into one body" (1 Cor. 12:13), and Col. 1:5 and many other Pauline passages speak of "the hope which is laid up for you IN HEAVEN." Indeed, before God believers are already given a position "IN HEAVENLY PLACES" and are "blessed with all spiritual blessings IN HEAVENLY PLACES in Christ" (Eph. 1:3; 2:4-7).

The prophecies regarding the kingdom, however, will still be fulfilled and Christ will reign on earth and bring the promised "times of refreshing." Thank God, this world will not forever and expenses - and to save all sales receipts, paid bills or invoices, cancelled checks, etc.

Any simple record is satisfactory if all items of income and expenses are clearly, correctly, and completely shown. The itemized record of income should show what and how much was sold; when it was sold, to whom, and for how much money.

Good records make possible complete and correct tax returns that will ensure full social security credits, which in turn will result in higher benefit payments later on.

Day Care Centers Are Planned For County

Volunteers Are Needed To Care For Mentally Retarded

The Marshall office of the Opportunity Corporation and the North Carolina Council on Mental Retardation have announced plans to organize a series of Day Care Centers for handicapped children in Madison County. The centers will serve physically and mentally handicapped children between the ages of 2 1/2 and 16 who are not in public schools. Initially the centers will provide educational and recreational activities three mornings a week, but hopefully will expand to five mornings a week as volunteer staffs are found.

The Opportunity Corporation and the North Carolina Council on Mental Retardation hope to establish day care centers throughout the county wherever there are four or more handicapped children, and wherever a volunteer staff and donated space can be located. The centers will be staffed entirely by volunteers, but will receive as much professional guidance as is necessary. Volunteers will be trained by the staff of the Pre-School Training Center of the Opportunity Corporation in Asheville.

Volunteers are needed from all parts of Madison County. The only requirement is that volunteers be sincerely interested in helping handicapped children. Volunteers may donate as little as one or two mornings per month, or as much as three mornings per week. It is hoped that enough volunteers are found to make it possible to rotate the staff each day of the week. Civic or church groups may also wish to take on part of the work of a center as a project. Volunteers are also needed to help transport children. Play materials such as pots and pans, small chairs, blocks, mats, mattresses, and other play equipment are also needed. Any interested person or group is invited to donate any useable equipment.

Interested people may also assist in the establishment of Day Care Centers by helping locate handicapped children who might use such a service.

Any person willing to donate time or equipment or who knows of handicapped children who might use this service, please contact one of the following persons:

Mrs. Dorothy Arrington, The Opportunity Corporation, Box 472, Marshall, N. C., Phone 649-6561, 689-5842 (home). Mr. Robert B. Brunk, The Opportunity Corporation, Box 472, Marshall, N. C., Phone 649-6561. Mrs. Beatrice Walker, 13 Newwood Ave., Asheville, N. C., Phone 254-4190.

The diversion payment for small farms is equal to 20 percent of the total support for the first 20 percent of the base acreage diverted and 50 percent of the support on any additional acres diverted, up to the total base.

The price support payment (30 cents per bushel for corn) is earned on the projected production from an acreage up to 50 percent of the farm's total feed grain base. The price-support payments are assured no matter what disposition is made of the crop.

The Chairman said that a change had been made in the manner of computing and issuing final payments this year where-by county ASCS offices will submit the farm data to the New Orleans Commodity Office which in turn will compute the payments and prepare the payment drafts. The drafts will be mailed to County ASCS offices which in turn will issue them to the farmers.

In a statement after Sandburg's death, President Johnson said:

"He needs no epitaph. It is written for all in the fields, the cities, the face and the heart of the land he loved and the people he celebrated and inspired."

The president added that Sandburg "gave us the truest and most enduring vision of our own greatness."

Survivors besides the widow, who was at Sandburg's bedside when he died are three daughters, Mrs. Barney Crile, wife of Cleveland, Ohio, surgeon, and Margaret and Janet Sandburg, who live in their parents' home.
