HEARD AND SEEN By "POP"

It's so much nicer to say something complimentary about a person than to find fault — I've always been a strong believer in giving a person a pat on the shoulder rather than criticizing them — two weeks ago I complimented the Grace Restaurant on the recent remodeling — I certainly expected nothing in the way of a "pay off" for the little squib in this column — but the few lines resulted in a fine anniversary dinner for Bill and me — George Katsunis, one of the owners of the restaurant, said he appreciated the kind words and wanted me to bring the wife over for a "meal on the house" — so, last Thursday night Bill and I celebrated our wedding anniversary by eating a delicious steak supper at the Grace Restaurant — Virginia Rogers, one of the friendly waitresses, went "all-out" to please us — told us to order anything we wanted and even referred to me as "a sweet person" — (I've got her fooled, haven't I?) — George came over to our table and extended greetings and everything was just fine — thanks a million for the setup and it added greatly to our anniversary — several newly-installed street lights in various sections of town have improved several "dark corners" — congratulations to those responsible — one of the finest and cutest youngsters I know is Ted Monroe Sprinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sprinkle who is spending the summer here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Eads — Ted Monroe often rides his pony up to the house and we have had some fine visits together — he loves ponies and horses — even more than girls — I asked him recently if he had a sweetheart and he remarked emphatically, "Shucks no, girls just 'goof off' — and then he added, "...and they can't do anything as well as a pony can" — oh, well, Ted Monroe, I believe you'll change your mind in a few years — it's a good thing that Pat Boyd, Daisy Worley, and Grace Connor have good dispositions 'cause we really kid them a lot while eating at Roberts Pharmacy — Edward McLean is the main "tormentor" down there but he usually concentrates on aggravating Edna Hensley and Venie Davis — it's real good to see Edith Cody back in circulation after being confined to the hospital — don't know what Kermit would do without her keeping books, etc. — HA Joe Penland, Jr., stationed at Great Lakes, Ill., missed a copy of the paper recently and didn't like it — Joe, I hope you get a copy every week — we mail 'em and hope you get 'em — be sure to tune in TV Channel 13 Sunday morning at 7:30 and watch the Hayes Run 4-H Mountain Cloggers perform on "Aspect" — glad that Dot Shupe is back normal again after a day in the hospital — can't keep a good gal down, can they Dot? —

JUST A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS By DOROTHY B. SHUPB

Do you get a sort of scary feeling when you enter a hospital? I guess I'm the biggest hypochondriac in the world and every time I'm sick I presume it's the worst, and nothing good can happen! But I lived through the tests and got back home almost before the paper came out saying I was gone. Guess who my roommate was? Pearl Brigman! And I believe she had about as big a case of fear as I had. She was Mrs. Floyd Brigman, wife of a former principal of Red Oak School. She was a very nice person. The young man that "stuck" me for blood — it seems like they take a gallon — looked for the world like Ray Kirby, and was just as much fun — He said Aunt Julia Brigman was his favorite patient, and then he said that Mrs. Kate Reed was his best patient! He wore his hair as long as the hospital allows and said he had a beard, but they made him cut it off. Also saw Gaynelle Buckner Sams who works there and told her about Ray and Linda courting. Odessa Henderson was there, too, and we compared ills and had the same test the next morning for which we took ten pills at five-minute intervals which I thought would never come to an end. Then I got scared that I was going to have to drink that chalky like stuff, the nurses would evade answering me, and I didn't sleep worth a hoot. Anyway, I didn't have to drink it, and I got to come back home. I had about resigned that they would cut my throat (for thyroid) but they didn't for now, so I guess I'll make it for a while longer.

So much for my hospital visit — Thanks to all who thought of me. Miss Jennie Lee said she and Miss Lulu were about to send me a card and surely someone else said, "Poor Dorothy." Well, after reading my column last week, I said, "Poor Dorothy," cause I had made the same mistake three times in a row — and surely it was due to my high nervous state! If you noticed, you egg-heads, please remember I was in a high state of tension and most anything can come from one's typewriter in such an instance! Anyway, I'll bet Bill got the best present she ever had after what I said! And it was Ronnie Graham who brought me the tomatoes — I'm sure I didn't make that mistake — Guess it was Coley.

Say, you must get a copy of the August Reader's Digest and read how they captured Ray, it have to drink it, and I got to
