EXTENSION
NEWS

During the fall months has proven to be the best time to treat plant beds with methyl bromide. Soil conditions and temperatures are usually favorable for good results during October, and November than in February and March. Plant beds treated in the fall should have a good fence around them to keep livestock out, and be well ditched to prevent surface water from running over the treated area. Fall weeds near treated beds should be cut down to eliminate weed seeds from being carried to the treated area by wind.

"Expand 4-H" is the focus of this year's National 4-H Week observance, October 6-12. Emphasis will be on 4-H benefits reaching more young people through the Head - Heart - Hand - Health program.

During 4-H Week, appropriate activities will be arranged nationally, in state, county, and many communities. Boys and girls will be invited to "Join 4-H - A World of Opportunity," whether they live on farms, in towns, cities, or suburbs.

Adults, too, are advised that 4-H is for them. If they become volunteer leaders they can enrich their own experiences in guiding and serving youth. Watch for special publicity next week!

We all are interested in seeing new industries that are located in our areas. You will have the opportunity to visit Hyalyn Pottery Plant, Hickory, N. C., on October 15. This tour is being planned by the Extension Homemakers Clubs in the county and the public is invited to attend. This will be an all day tour. You need to call or come by the Extension Office for reservations and details.

A county-wide housing tour is planned for October 24, 1968 to include new and remodeled homes. Details will be published next week.
