HEARD AND SEEN By "POP"

Dean Lander, of the French Ford Chevrolet Co., here; Ed Roberts and Ray Cox, of Park Road in Asheville, were among those attending a Parts and Service Manager's meeting in Myrtle Beach, S. C., recently.

Understand the fellows had a great time and found time to do a little fishing. I also heard that Ed turned out to be the sorriest fisherman in the group. Wonder if it's true. Gosh, the new brick water fountain at the depot is a great improvement. Getting the grass-off certain lots and the sidewalk here is also an improvement — and raising the 5-minute parking sign in front of post office is an improvement.

— thank goodness for the improvements — nearly everyone has an idea about the Nancy Morgan murder — it's the talk of the town and county — here's hoping the FBI and other investigating officers will come up soon with the answer — congratulations to Tommy Nix, Claude Flemmons, Ralph Candler and Richard Meadows for helping the boys at baseball this summer.

Wonder what's happened to the Home-ong Project? Hope things will soon be that everyone can start on them — also anxious to see some ground broken at the consolidated school site near by-pass — sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Wm. V. Farmer — he was highly esteemed in our county and had lived a most useful and fruitful life — congratulations to the Lions of 31-A for the pre-school age screening mobile unit — the rains last Saturday made it pretty bad for parents to bring children out for screening but the unit is still in the county and a schedule is published in this issue.

Mary Jones, the registered nurse with the unit, is a most attractive girl, isn't she? — I think I'd get screened if I was between 3-6 years of age — "Bub" I've said he's glad they've lowered the voting age to 18 — says he can vote now — Sgt. Thomas S. West, just back from Germany and expressed his appreciation of The News-Record while he was in Germany — thanks, Thomas — it's always nice to know the paper is enjoyed.

JUST A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS By DOROTHY B. SHUPE

Had a nice long chat with Cousin Hazel Ramsey this week and learned that Lane is back home from service and will be a senior at Mars Hill next year. I forgot to tell her how much I appreciated her note to the editor one time about Lane being a dirty hippie-looking fellow, but the reason was that he was out on the battle field fighting and not that he was, by choice, in that shape. In today's mail I got a cute poem from her about reading Pop's and my columns and I'll send it along to him and he may print it. He could leave out his column if he was short of space.

We missed Jimmie and Linda's wedding cause we went to Wytelville to see the Shupes up there, but everyone says it was a beautiful wedding and Linda was so lovely in her gown. I wish them every happiness and know they will enjoy a long life together. I'm going to try to get to Linda Bryan and Ray Buckner's wedding Friday night. Ray seems to have settled down quite a bit from school days and I saw Linda last night and she looked so happy and beautiful as brides usually do as they anticipate a full and happy married life.

Have you ever wondered how these revolutionists support themselves in their activities? In this week's Time magazine there is a story telling how they will work just long enough to get some money for pot and necessities, then back on the road. Too, some of them get on as witnesses for the House Un-American Activities Committee which pays them enough to stay in Washington a couple of months — on their expense. They also sell underground newspapers and a couple of them have written books and really got into big time money — but they put it back into the cause. Some parents help them out? That is the worst part of it all, I think.
