L. H. Cutshall Again Jailed In Marshall

Leonard H. Cutshall, an East Tennessean whose murder trial was declared a mistrial in June after evidence showed juror tampering, was returned to jail without bond Thursday after he was arrested in Tennessee for attempted murder of the brother of the man he is accused of killing.

Cutshall had been free on $50,000 bond since June after Superior Court Judge W. K. McLean declared a mistrial when evidence was presented showing that juror Charles Wayne Goforth of Madison County had met with the defendant during the trial.

Other evidence at the hearing then showed that Cutshall had association with the husband of another juror at a Hot Springs restaurant.

Cutshall was charged with the murder of Richard W. (Jack) Reeves late on the night of Jan. 30 in Madison County. Reeves was shot as he rode in a car in the company of Cutshall's ex-wife.

At the time he was released on bond in June, Judge McLean filed an order, consented to by Cutshall, that the defendant not approach his wife or any of the Reeves family.

According to the Greene County, Tenn., Sheriff's Department, Cutshall was arrested Thursday on a charge of assault with intent to murder after a bullet struck the windshield post of a car operated by William Reeves, 34, of Marshall Rt. 3, a brother of the man slain in January.

Madison County Sheriff Dedrick Brown returned Cutshall to jail in Marshall.

Nancy Morgan Probe Continues

Two State Bureau of Investigation agents remain on the unsolved death of VISTA worker Nancy Morgan, but P. R. Kitchen, regional SBI supervisor said nothing new has developed.

Miss Morgan, 24, was found dead June 17 in a government car she used. The car had been pulled off the highway going from Marshall to Hot Springs and the body was found hog-tied with parachute cord.

A native of Baton Rouge, La., she had been working with the underprivileged in Madison County.

THE FIVE-ROOM HOME OF MR. AND MRS. GEORGE TREADWAY, owned by C. E. Mashburn, was completely destroyed by fire on "Mashburn Hill" in the city limits here Tuesday morning. Firemen were hampered by lack of water since there are no hydrants close by. Most of the household furnishings were destroyed although several small items were saved. The home may have been saved if Mr. Treadway could have notified the fire department quicker but two persons refused to hang up on a party line when Mr. Treadway told them his home was on fire. After 10-15 minutes the line was clear and he finally contacted the fire department. (Staff Photo)

Mars Hill Begins 115th Year

The hum and whirl of modern data processing equipment was heard this week as Mars Hill College began its 115th year of operation as a Baptist educational institution.

The equipment will relieve some of the headache in registering over 1,300 students who arrived on campus for the start of fall semester. Approximately a third of the students are from Western North Carolina.

Sunday afternoon, college president Dr. Fred B. Bentley and his wife hosted the students and faculty members at a reception in the parlor of Edna Moore Dormitory. Classes began Monday and will continue until the semester ends Dec. 18 and Christmas holidays begin.

In just over a century the college has grown from a single two-story brick academy to a four-year senior college with 22 major buildings spread over an 150-acre campus. Established in 1856 when there were no public schools in the mountains, Mars Hill offered the children of the community the rudiments of reading, writing, history, mathematics and religious instruction. Now the school offers instruction in 14 diversified academic departments.

According to Dr. Richard Hoffman, vice president for academic affairs, an unique feature of education at Mars Hill is that it isn't limited to textbook knowledge and classroom teaching, but goes on in tobacco fields, churches, courtrooms, community centers, playgrounds—anyplace where people work and live and play.

For instance, he said, last year several business administration majors spent 40 hours observing the operations of a textile manufacturer in Weaverville. 10 political science students interned with various city and county governmental agencies

Cane River Defeats Hot Springs, 38-0

The Cane River Rebels utilized its depth and experience to ramble to a 38-0 victory over Hot Springs in a non-conference football game at Hot Springs to initiate its 1970-71 grid season Friday night.

The Rebels dominated ground yardage with 149 yards while allowing the young Blue Devils only 70 yards. Cane River also took an edge in the air with 45 yards to 25 for Hot Springs.

The scrappy Rebels began their rampage as Ossie Parker hauled in a 15-yard Jeff Parker pass to notch the first touchdown early in the first quarter. Pate ran the conversion to make the score stand, 8-0, Cane River.

The Rebels again stung Hot Springs in the first stanza as Ossie Parker reached paydirt on a 25-yard gallop following a triple reverse. He also ran the point after.

Danny Ray scored on a two-yard plunge after a sustained drive and Ossie Parker again tallied on a run for the extra two points to give Cane River a comfortable 24-0 halftime advantage.

Maney tossed a three-yard pass to David Henson in the third quarter to register the Rebel's fourth TD of the night. The run failed for the points after. Jerry Parker intercepted a Hot Springs aerial and returned it 40 yards for the final Cane River touchdown in the latter half of the third period. Pate threw to Peterson for the two-point conversion to make the final score 38-0, Cane River.

Mars Hill Crushes Marshall By 44-0

Ken Castelloe ran for five touchdowns and picked up 173 yards in 12 carries to lead the Mars Hill Wildcats to a 44-0 triumph over Marshall in a non-conference football game at Mars Hill Friday night.

Castelloe, a veteran halfback, scored his first touchdown on a 10-yard sweep, the second on a one-yard plunge, the third on a 35-yard run, the fourth on a two-yard plunge and the final one on a 75-yard scramble.

Mars Hill's other two TDs came on a four-yard run by Datrell Boone and a 26-yard pass from quarterback John Roberts to Charles McGee. Aeon Bell scored the only two-point conversion on a run.

The victorious Wildcats compiled 288 yards rushing and 77 yards on passing compared to the 70 rushing and 10 passing for the Tornadoes.

Marshall never did seriously threaten and only once managed to cross the 50-yard line into Wildcat territory.

Mars Hill coach J. C. Moss said "Castelloe deserves a lot of credit, but I also had four other boys who played vital roles...guard Jim Eller, tackle Joey DeBruhl, end Bruce Murray and linebacker James Shook. They did a whale of a job."

The only bright spot in the game, as far as the Tornadoes were concerned, was the second quarter when the Wildcats were held scoreless.
