Mountain Music Festival At Mars Hill Saturday

Induction of the first five persons named to the Mountain Music Hall of Fame will be the highlight of the third Baseom Lamar Lunsford Mountain Music Festival, to be held at Mars Hill Saturday, starting at 6 p.m.

The five mountain musicians to be honored are Lunsford, known as the "minstrel of the Appalachians," the late Sam Queen, Ozzie Helton, Fiddling Bill Hensley and Aunt Samantha Bumgartner.

The Mountain Music Hall of Fame will be located in Settler Village, a reconstructed log cabin village at Wolf Laurel in the shadows of the Big Bald Mountain. All relatives of the nominees have been asked to contact Ed Howard, chairman of the Mountain Music Hall of Fame Committee, Box 568, Mars Hill.

This year's music festival will be held in the Mars Hill College auditorium.

Among the individuals and groups scheduled to perform are: Mrs. Betty Smith of Marietta, Ga., Byard Ray and Obie Ramsey of Marshall, Virgil Sturgill of Asheville, Bill McElreath of Swannanoa, Jacob Fisher of Asheville, The Hornpipers of Waynesville, Cecil Biggs of Asheville, Linda Metcalf of Spillcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Watson of Sugar Grove, the Canton Oldtimers of Canton. Chick Martin of Siler City.

Mose-Chandler Road Improved

RALEIGH Area Highway Commissioner Novile C. Hawkins announced this week that the three-tenth mile section of the Mose-Chandler Road (SR 1560) goir.g through Mars Hill College property is slated to be improved by the North Carolina State Highway Commission Forces, and re-imbursed 100% by the college. The road will be widened to 20 feet and paved, according to Hawkins. Specifications also call for the portion of SR 1560 through the college property to be relocated in order to move traffic away from a congested area of the campus. All right-of-way will be donated by the college, and the State Highway Commission will be re-imbursed 100% for all construction costs, according to Hawkins.

Tornadoes Defeat Bulldogs, 18-14 In Final Seconds

The Marshall Tornadoes that capped a 60-yard drive in stalled on the ground but quarterback Wayne McDevitt compiled 246 yards in the air to lead his team to an 18-14 victory over Bowman High of Bakersville Friday night.

THE FIRST VISIBLE evidence of construction of the Madison County High School was shown Monday morning adjacent to the Marshall By-Pass, site of the school. The clearing of the undergrowth is essential for preparation of core-drilling equipment that the board of education expects to be moved in within the next few weeks. The citizens of Madison County voted overwhelmingly last May to approve a Bond Referendum of $950,000 to consolidate the five existing high schools into a single comprehensive high school.

The Tornadoes scored in the first period on an 80-yard pass from McDevitt to end Larry Wright but the P.A.T. failed and Marshall had an early 6-0 lead.

The Bulldogs came back in the second period to go ahead. A 25-yard pass from John Craig to Larry Boone and a two-point conversion run by Craig gave Bakersville the lead, 8-6.

Marshall retaliated in the third quarter on a two-yard run by halfback Danny Freeman following a fumble recovery on the Bakersville 45 yard line. The pass failed for the extra point and again Marshall led, 12-8. A four-yard run by Craig
