Father's Day

It's real easy to write an editorial for Mother's Day. The very thought of "Mother" brings forth volumes of adjectives based on the love, devotion, characteristics and sacrifices she has made. The word "Mother" is usually spoken in soft, caring tones which fills a heart with feeling and respect.

But for one special day our attention turns toward honoring our Fathers. This Sunday—June 20—is "Father's Day. Don't let's forget it.

Just pause and think about the sacrifices and love he has shown throughout the year. Surely he deserves consideration and gratitude one day out of the year.

He has worked to provide shelter and food for his loved ones. He has helped mother mold the character of his children. Yes, he definitely deserves to be honored.

Remember him this Sunday and do something special—at least express your appreciation for him.

Be Careful Near Water

The tragic drowning last week of Joe Denton, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Denton of Marshall, Rt. 2, saddened the entire area. The youth, with seven of his friends, had been on a fishing and camping trip in the Sandy Bottoms section on Saturday night. It was early Sunday morning that his companions discovered Joe missing. A frantic search was started and finally on Monday afternoon his body was discovered in the French Broad River by the Buncombe County Rescue Squad.

It was a tragic ending to what was meant to be a happy and thrilling weekend.

A young, popular, well-behaved, Christian boy has been taken away. We will never know the circumstances which took place that early Sunday morning but certainly a lesson should be learned.

Whenever there is a group of young boys on a fishing trip or an overnight outing near a river or any body of water, no one boy should leave alone without notifying the others where he is going. It is far better to go in pairs. This is sometimes referred to as the "buddy system". Regardless of how fine a swimmer a person might be there is always a chance of developing cramps or accidentally slipping on a rock and falling into dangerous water.

We urge everyone, especially youths, to be extremely careful during these summer months when so many are fishing and swimming.

Look to "See" Your Focal

Now that your yard and garden are in full summer growth, take a few minutes from gardening chores to take a critical look. Each section of the grounds should have one feature which dominates the scene—too many such features may add confusion, even clutter. For example: The focal point of a backyard well may be such as one handsome tree... a piece of statuary... a bird-bath... a grouping of lawn furniture... a showy flower bed... a vine-covered arbor... or a massive crepe myrtle tree. Yet, all of these within the range of one "scan of the eye" can be too much. Too many features can yield an overdone landscape.

Think of each section of your yard (the front or public, private or "outdoor living room", and back service) as a separate room. Just as with a room of the house, don't overfill it with too many features, accent pieces, decorative objects and knick-knacks.

We Must Demand Better Labeling Of Foods

Food labeling: Clear dating of all perishable foods is a popular consumer issue. Several stores and chains are abandoning the cryptic codes which hide the dates at which certain foods become stale and are experimenting with "open dating" systems and "freshness codes" we can understand.

Calorie Counts: I cannot exaggerate the frustration I feel when I buy food labeled "diet" and then cannot find out how many calories there are in a slice or cup or tablespoon. This should be mandatory on at least the diet foods. We also should be able to tell how much lower in fats the so-called lower fat foods are.

Net Weight: If we know the net weight of soups, for instance, we could compare the value of real food—meat, vegetables, etc.—in various soups. In many cases, we would find a concentrated, thick meaty soup is a much greater value at 45 cents a can than a watered-down equivalent at 30 cents.

Key Ingredients: Labels should tell us what proportion of "beef stew" actually is beef, and what proportion of fruit is in a fruit drink. Or how much chicken is in a frozen breaded chicken as against bread, flour or whatever.

Simple Meat Labels: Each label should disclose the "primal cut"—the origin of each piece of meat (rib, loin, chuck, flank).

International Sunday School Lesson

GOD REQUIRES ECONOMIC JUSTICE

International Sunday School Lesson for June 20

MEMORY SELECTION: "Learn to do good; seek justice, correct oppression; defend the fatherless, plead for the widow"—(Isaiah 1:17)

LESSON TEXT: Micah 2: 3.

The Book of Micah is perhaps one of the shortest books in the Bible as we know it today. Yet it is one of the most telling when it comes to preaching Divine doctrine. For Micah's message contained the embodiment of Christ's life on earth...justice for the oppressed, compassion for the poor and the sick.

Micah—as were so many of God's advocates—was a man of humble beginnings; perhaps they were chosen for this very reason, for they were simple, unsophisticated men whose compassion and sensitivities had not been blunted by affluence. Living close to the earth, they saw beauty in God's handiwork instead of the tinsel and glitter of things artificial. They respected themselves, and therefore respected others.

Christ, Himself, was an ardent defender of the poor and the oppressed. The prophets followed suit. Men of conscience, they were sorely needed in the days and times in which they lived.

A conquered country always faces reparation to the victor, both socially and economically, and Judah was no exception to the rule. Heavily taxed by Assyria, her people, rich and poor alike, lived in difficult times. The rich, however, were able to replenish their depleted coffers in various ways...the most common of which being further oppression of the helpless. Lands and households were often seized forcibly, and many a family was rendered homeless by humanity's most besetting sins—greed and self-aggrandisement.

These were the circumstances in the midst of which Micah's voice was raised in protest. A dedicated and ethical man, he must have carried great weight with the ruling classes, for it is on record that through his ministrations Hezekiah heeded his counsel and saved Jerusalem from judgment. (Jeremiah 26:18-19).

Micah denounced exploitation in any shape or form. He warned that as man devised evil against others, so would God deal with the evil-doer. Man was fighting a losing battle when he dared to pit his puny efforts against the majestic processes of Divine justice.

Man's capacity for self-deception is aptly illustrated in the fact that those very people who incurred Micah's wrath considered themselves religious in every sense of the word. They strictly observed the rites and formalities of worship, yet repeatedly rendered their actions meaningless by acting contrary to their professed creed. But, as has been pointed out before, mere lip-service will not appease God; He sees into people's hearts, and is moved accordingly.

The true Christian never loses sight of the fact that there are those less fortunate than he, who need a helping hand, a championing voice. The soul in man is love; is compassion...is truly God in mankind!

Just A Woman's Observations

By DOROTHY B. SHUPE

Do you realize that June is half over? My, three weeks of my vacation is already shot and I haven't done anything exciting! Well, I did go to see the Tourists play last night and the first three runs were made by homers! Guess who I saw when we ate supper at Bailey's? None other than Della Marie Smith Dillingham and her husband! Gee, it had been—well, a long time—since I saw that gal. She is just as slim and pretty as she was years ago! She told me she has three children, two boys and one girl. Her daughter is a teacher in the Asheville school system.

And at another table there was Ruth Baker Fisher and Frank! They looked fine and healthy and just as gracious as always! Which reminds me, I must congratulate Harold and Belva Worley Baker on their two fine children who graduated from college recently! My, doesn't time fly—seems only a very few years ago we were all laboring up at Walnut High having that fun we now call "the good old days!"

I forgot to tell last week that my nice cards were from Mrs. Carlie Meadows and her son, Theron, whom I taught more years ago than even he wants to admit! In the mail today came a cute card from Pansy Ball from over at Elowah—Thanks, Pansy, that made me get busy to the typewriter and get right to the typewriter and get busy. I had a headache today and thought I might just miss this week, but if you care, I'll just rattle on-and on-and on! Do you ever see Ted and Ruth Davis over there? Guess they have been busy this week with the Kemper Open—having parties and stuff, huh? I'm still waiting for more cards from my readers cause my rib is still sore!

I don't know how I'll get this to Marshall. I somehow seem to forget to write until the very last minute and with no car, I have a time getting this to town.

Last week I walked up to Knox's store, no one there going to Marshall, and I started over to Bobby Johnson's when Jeter Cantrell came along and I climbed into his jeep and discovered he would be going to town after he got some tobacco plants—well, anyway, he took it! I loafed at Bobby's for about two hours and had fun talking to Juanita Treadway and all who came in to make purchases. She was nice enough to bring me home!

Mrs. Owen (Sally) Thomas came in while I was there and she had enjoyed Pop's puzzle and asked me why didn't I just make up one like that! Boy, was I flattered for someone to think I could make a Bible puzzle that would be difficult for anyone to do. However, I think I might try a cross word puzzle one of these days, Mrs. Thomas, just to try to live up to your opinion of me!

OBSERVED—We enjoyed having Charlotte home for a short visit Saturday night from Winston-Salem—She got here at 10 p.m. and left the next day at 4:30 p.m.—Too short—She has seen Kathy Briggs and Clara Ramsey Bennett in her Thalhammer's Store and she's enjoying her work there—You know how some Northerners make fun of us Southerners—Well, I was quite amused when Dick Clark's program when he had a girl who couldn't even average two figures on his program Saturday—Did you watch Tricia's wedding?—I thought it was very nice—Georgia and Marvin McClure are sporting a pretty green brand new station wagon, still waiting for that ride, Georgia—Say, I got one of those spray jet guns to wash cars and windows with—Believe it is a pretty good buy—Jeff Treadway was all thrilled the other afternoon when his Babe Ruth team had beat someone—He's going to make a good athlete at Marshall High—Have a good day!

HEARD AND SEEN

By "Pop"

I didn't get to attend the Mars Hill Lions Horse Show last Saturday but glad it was successful...an estimated 2,000 persons enjoyed the afternoon and night shows...a lot of people like to compete while others just like to see beautiful and well-trained horses...when events such as the Marshall and Mars Hill horse shows are held, you can expect hundreds to attend...Coley and I attended the Russell-Hipps wedding in beautiful Memorial Chapel at Lake Junaluska last Sunday afternoon...Vernon is a member of the Canton Enterprise staff and a very close friend of ours...he's a wonderful guy and believe you me he married a pretty, sweet gal...the Chapel was beautifully decorated and the wedding was one of the most impressive I've ever attended...after the ceremony we attended the reception at Katy's (the bride's) home and enjoyed it thoroughly...I missed the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Lane Ramsey Saturday night at Ralph's and Hazel's but by golly, Hazel brought me a slice of the cake...thanks, Hazel...went over to the Island last Saturday afternoon and watched the Little Leaguers play ball...they've got a fine club and Cloice Plemons and Ricky McDevitt should be commended for coaching the boys...also intended using a picture of the Babe Ruth team, coached by Johnny Fisher and Roger Haynie but four of the players were absent so I'll wait till all of them are present...congratulations to the Dewey Fosters on their 50th wedding anniversary...Mrs. Clyde Denton, of Rt. 2, Marshall, mother of Joe Denton, a victim of drowning last week, came in the office Saturday and she's one of the finest persons I've met in a long long time...her outlook on life is tremendous especially since she's just lost a 16-year-old son...and her daughter, Helen, is so attractive and sweet...a blue-eyed blonde who will soon be in high school at Mars Hill...during the past weekend several other people have sent in answers to the Bible quiz...I'm going to list them because they received their paper too late to get in last week's column...others who found the 15 Books of the Bible are: Ruth Taylor, Miami, Fla.; Bill Hampton, Hazel Park, Mich.; Mrs. John S. Messer, River Rouge, Mich.; Mrs. Charles R. Cabiac Carrow, Rochester, N. H.; Mrs. Cleo Jackowski, Allen Park, Mich.; Ray, Eunice and Brenda George, College Park, Md.; Ken Reeves, Port Huron, Mich.; and Mrs. Julia Flynn, Keyville, Va...so ends an interesting "brain-teaser" which caused a whole lot of fun...maybe I'll have another some day....
