Few trout changes proposed

Trout fishermen who like the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission's present trout program and regulations should be happy.

The Commission has propsed only four changes in mountain trout fishing regulations for 1973. The most significant proposal is to open those stretches of streams now under "trophy" trout fishing regulations to year-round fishing. This would give anglers a chance to fish during the off-season on the approximately 18-miles of "trophy" regulated streams. The propsed regulation-if adopted-is not considered by the Commission to be detrimental to the populations of wild trout in these "trophy" streams because anglers can only keep one trout per day browns and rainbows 16 inches or over). Also, "trophy" stream regulations prohibit the use of any lure or bait except artificial flies. The Commission is also proposing to relocatewithout a loss in total mileage-part of the "trophy" stretch of the South Mills River downstream. If adopted, the new "trophy" stretch would extend from Cantrell Creek to the lower Game Land boundary, while the section of the creek above Cantrell Creek would be under 'native" regulations. Because a new lake-Lake

Jocassee-will flood all but two miles of the Horsepasture River in Transylvania County the Commission is proposing to drop the river from the list of trout streams under "native" trout regulations and place it under open or general trout regulations. Access to the remaining two miles is difficult, and the limited fishingpressures not expected to hurt the trout population. The only other proposal affecting trout streams is being made to correct an error made last year when Park Creek was accidentally included under "trophy" regulations. The creek is small, and the Commission is proposing that Park Creek be under "native" regulations. Under the proposals, other regulations affecting trout would remain the same as in 1972.

The public hearings on these and other proposed changes in the fishing regulations for 1973 will be held October 9 at the Buncombe County Courthouse in Asheville; October 11 at the Rowan County Courthouse in Salisbury and on October 12 at the Beaufort County Courthouse in Washington All hearings will begin at 7:30 p.

Steer Sales Have Started

The fall Yearling Steer Sales have started and many Madison County farmers have marketed their steers. Prices have been very good in the two steer sales to date. In the first sale, prices for good and choice cattle under 500 lbs. ranged from $44 to $46.80 per cwt 500 to 600 lb cattle $42 to $45.40, 650 to 800 lb. cattle ranged from $36.756 to $42 Heavier cattle ranged in price per cwt. from $32,20 to $37,25. Light medium cattle ranged from $45 to $47 and 600 to 800 lb medium cattle ranged from $38 to $43 per cwt. A total of 1.143 head were sold in this sale, 743 or about 60per cent graded choce or good. Prices were higher on the second sale. Good and choice cattle under 500 lbs. ranged form $43.50 to $47.25, 600 to 700 lb. cattle in the good and choice grade ranged from $41.50 to $44 and 700 to 800lb.

cattle ranged from $36 to $37.80. Medium cattle were higher this wek than last, light weight cattle ranged from $47.75 to $49.50, 500 to 700 lb. medium cattle ranged from $41.50 to $46 and heavier medium cattle ranged from $31.50 to $41.10.

The market outlook for the remainder of the fall season looks good with no sharp change in cattle prices expected in the near future.

Extension News

Cattle prices continue to be higher than any in recent years. The outlook is good for the remainder of the fall season and little variation in prices expected for spring. Farmers planning to buy cattle back to winter should plan to carry on a better than average nutritional management program if they expect to make a profit from feeding steers next year.

There will be three sales this fall for feeder calves. These sales will be held on October 3 October 24, and October 31.

death can be the winner

School days...the smell of new blue jeans, warm milk through a paper straw, and a row of bicylces lined up in front of the school house. The picture hasn't changed too much for many years, but the row of bicycles has become longer and longer.

Bicycles in the United States numbered 75 million this year, an increase of 50 million bikes over 10 years ago. The projection is that 11.5 million will be sold this year alone The figure reinforces the contention of cycle enthusiasts, both young and old, that theirs is becoming the fastest growing sport and exercise form in the United States.

Bicylce sales are increasing; but, unfortunately, the tremendous growth in the use of the bicycle has been accomagnied by a similar increase in biking accidents and fatalities, says the Insurance Information Institute. In North Carolina last year, 699 bike accidents, resulting in 705 personal injuries and 28 deaths, were reported.

Statistics show that in most bicycle accidents the cyclist violates a traffic law. Inattention or failure to yield the right-of-way accounts for the largest number of mishaps, according to the Institute. In less than one-third of bike accidents, the motor vehicle driver violates a traffic rule or regulation.

Rural bicycling accidents generally are the more severe type. Though most accidents occur on city streets, more than 50 per cent of the fatalities and a large percentage of the serious injuries occur in rural areas.

The Institute suggests that bike riders should obey all traffic laws, signs and signals; signal turns clearly and properly; ride in a single file on the side of the road with the traffic; use lights, reflectors, and light colored clothing when riding at night; obey all rules that drivers of motor vehicles must observe, especially those pertaining to right-of-way; and maintain the bicycle in good condition so that it won't cause any accidents.

The most important rule for bicyclists is to remember to take the bicycle seriously. The bike is a form of healthy, and not a toy or a plaything.
