LUXURY TOWELS

Recent years have brought fashion and glamour to the bath; now, true luxury is added as well.

A new towel line features the first three-fiber towel blend of 35 percent rayon, 50 percent cotton and 15 percent polyester. The combination produces soft drapability and a velvety sheared rayon face with an unsharpened cotton back. Towels are available in solid colors with a Greek key border and a jacquard geometric in Grecian squares, say extension house furnishings specialists, North Carolina State University.

You and your pet

By TED KAVANAUGH DIRECTOR ALPO PET NEWS BUREAU

Traveling With Your Dog

Wondering about taking your pet along on a vacation trip? If this is the dog's first long trip, he should be used to riding in the car, well housebroken for the motels en route, and in good health.

A car-sick, unhappy dog would make the trip miserable for both of you. Better to board him with friends who love him or with a clean, well-run boarding kennel. Let's say your dog, like most, meets the travel test and you decide to take him. Good! As a member of the family, he deserves to share the fun. All you have to do is include him in the advance planning and you will all have a good time.

Most motels have pet facilities or allow you to keep the animal with you. But some do not. To avoid frustration, make arrangements before you get to your day's destination. To make this easy, the American Automobile Association has a nice booklet about it. Visit or write your local AAA and request one. Also, be prepared to post a $10 deposit for your pet's good manners in the case of a reluctant inkeeper.

If you're planning a stay in a state park, check in advance for their rule on pets. Unfortunately, many do not allow them.

Some Health Tips
For Canadian travel, make sure your pet's rabies vaccination is up to date; that's a must. Further, most states require some type of health certificate. So if your trip will cross state lines, better check your veterinarian.

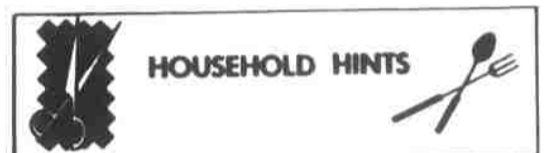

Your dog's eyes can be damaged or inflamed by grit and the wind if he rides with his head outside the car. Close the windows enough to disperse this.

If you cannot avoid leaving your pet while you are sight-seeing, be sure to park the car in the shade with the windows open enough for good ventilation.

Bring along his own bowl for water and food. Also, a favorite toy or two, and his own sleeping mat for his place in the car and the motel. Little things he's familiar with add to his sense of security.

Remember an opener for his favorite brand of canned dog food. It is best to schedule feedings at least 6 hours before each day's travel. And don't forget such things as a sturdy collar with his I.D. tag (better take a spare with a tag, too), a roll of paper towels, a can of flea powder for unwanted visitors along the way. And have a good time!

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By United Press International
Start every day the cleanest way you can. Take a bath or shower. Use plenty of soap-suds.

Remove the drip pan from the cooking range periodically and wash it. Between washings, keep it clean by wiping with well-lathered cloth or sponge.

When shampooing carpeting, place foil or waxed paper under legs of furniture that cannot be taken from the room. This will prevent rust marks.

Spot-clean pastel and white leather belts with thick suds. Work quickly, using a sponge or small brush. Rinse-wipe with a clean, damp cloth and then with a dry cloth.

Teach children to brush their teeth after every meal.

Before repainting steel casement window frames, wash them.

If your complexion is oily, soap and rinse twice every time you wash your face. Then pat with witch hazel to tighten up any large pores.

Make way for the edible bottle. It's for soft drinks, reports Dairy Research Digest. The bottles are made from a cellulose-based protein similar to that used in making artificial cream. The bottles are being filled by an American soft drink manufacturer. This raises a question: After you eat the bottle, what do you use for a chaser?

Getting the kitchen organized for action isn't always easy but it pays off to concentrate on convenience.
