Just A Woman's Observations

BY DOROTHY BRIGMAN SHUPE

Well, this rain is surely the beginning of April Showers and May Flowers, don't you hope so? Oh, my pretty lilac bush did not get killed and is such a pretty sight! My azalea bushes got nipped and the japonica bush did also, but they bloom a little and then gone and since they are so close to the house one can't really see them as well as my pretty lilac bush.

I did get up to visit the new United 5 and 10 and was pleasantly surprised. They have a nice, clean large store with just goods of things one could use. I ran into Fred Haynie up there, guess he was getting some things lined up for his big wedding that will be soon. I'm anxious to meet his bride to be because she will have a time straightening that boy out! I hope both of you will be very happy though, Fred, and have a long beautiful life together.

Went down to Greensboro last week to the state NCAE Convention, along with President Bobby Gunter, Mrs. Renee Shelton, and Principal Fred Dickerson. I must say the organization is proposing many good things for our group and I do hope they will be successful. The bid for unification did not pass, but there will be another effort next year which I hope will be successful. I saw just a bunch of people that I knew including Aileen Burnette Bourne, Jerry Rice, Bill Brigman, Emily Wallin, and we ate lunch with Bobby Terrell's sister, Eddie, who teaches in the same school with Aileen Ole Wall. There was there who used to do our pictures here, so was Bernard with his Perfect School Plan—

Snatched another electric yo-yo from Bill Phillips—The one he gave me before wasn't any good cause Sprinkle and her Juniors had worn it out!

I also saw Howard Barnwell and Raymond "Seabiscuit" Rhodes who used to be so fast on the basketball floor at Western that one had trouble getting the ball in front of him, hence the name of the horse! One of the fellows working with Bernard made me think of Bat Wing Queen, but we couldn't think of the right guy while I was with Bernard. We had quite a lively session that was supposed to end at lunch, but wasn't even finished by 4 o'clock when I gave up and left!

I spent Thursday night with Charlotte—that is, part of it—she left at 3:55 that next morning for a regional contest of her Sweet Adelines singing group by plane in Florida—By the way, she called Sunday night and said her group won one contest in the event—don't know if it was for singing or traveling so far! She may shoot me for that! She did what everyone does on going to Florida—got a bad burn!

Saturday night, I attended the annual Junior-Senior banquet. Waldrop, Sprinkle and Cole and Juniors had done a beautiful job of decorating the gym and it was a lovely affair. I was thrilled that I could get into one of my smaller dresses and go to dance one dance—with Harlon, who couldn't dance with the pretty girls cause—well, I'd best not go into that—He is a fine young man and everyone likes him very much here at Marshall School—And so do his followers at WMMH.

OBSERVED—Harry Brazil is always opening the door for me of a morning and I do want to thank him very much—One appreciates the good manners of the well-bred students at any time—Oh, I forgot to tell you how pretty the junior and senior girls looked at the banquet, and the boys looked darling too—some of the girls had to leave early because their fellows were jealously waiting outside, they said—

The band was good—and loud—which is as it's supposed to be. I think—Running out of time—and space—Have a happy day!

Local Girl Stars In Motion Picture

Elizabeth "Betty" Ray, a native of Marshall and a graduate from Marshall High School in 1962, has gained prominence in Washington, D. C., as a model, receptionist, airline stewardess, and more recently a film actress.

The 27-year-old blonde, blue-eyed beauty is the daughter of Mrs. Norman Roberts, of Route 1, Marshall, and the late Oliver Ray.

After graduating from Marshall high school, Miss Ray attended Blanton's Business College in Asheville for two years.

Betty has a busy schedule. Mornings are reserved for modeling assignments and noon until eight is when she meets and greets visitors to Rep. Ken Gray's (Illinois) office. In her spare time she is working on a book.

For three years she was an airline stewardess. "I flew the Miami - Washington - New York run," she said. "One day I decided to stay in Washington."

Since embarking on her part time modeling career, she has been featured in an airline trade magazine and has been modeling fashions for a Washington department store fall-winter catalogue, as well as other commercial assignments.

The curvaceous blonde (36-22-35, 110-lb., 5 feet 2 1/2 inches) has also been tested for a role in a new television series patterned after the popular, Laugh-In, Hee-Haw shows, and a spot in a national television commercial. "But, she added cautiously, "the tests will have to be scheduled around her fulltime job." Professional modeling can be too insecure, she stated.
