

Sunday School Lesson

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL FOR AUGUST 12, 1973

LESSON TEXT:
 Leviticus 19:18;
 Deuteronomy 6:4-5;
 Mark 12:28-34;
 Luke 10:25-27;
 Romans 13:8-10.

The basis of this Lesson is LOVE—love for God and love for our fellow men—as exemplified in the life of the Saviour of mankind. For such love evidences true Christian motivation.

"Love makes world go round" how often have we heard that? Somewhat trite, certainly, but with what a ring of truth! For love was the basis of Christ's life—and therefore of God's.

There are many definitions of love in the world today; some are other things masquerading as love—it really depends on personal stature, maturity or immaturity and lack of perceptiveness of those who attempt to define the emotion, that color our understanding of the word.

Regardless the Christian concept of love is personified in God's sacrificing His beloved Son that man might find forgiveness of his sins and come, repenting, to life everlasting. It is personified in Christ's acquiescence to the Divine Will, and His acceptance of an ignominious death on the cross, that man might be saved. Perhaps the nearest and most pure exhibition of unselfishness is exhibited in the natural love of a mother for her child. True, there are exceptions, but they are really the exceptions that "prove the rule." On the whole, there is the same unselfishness exhibited in mother love that were evident in the relationship of the Father of the Son.

The true Christian loves God with all that is in him; he is therefore constrained to live his life according to God's own standards. He cannot be anything but outreaching when it comes to his dealings with his fellow man.

The true Christian loves God with his spirit. He gladly recognizes the divine intangibles with which he is endowed, and affiliates himself with the Holy Spirit.

The true Christian worships God with the greatest of God's gifts—his mind. Through the wonders and complexities of his intellect he admits the gift of intelligence, and submits it to the Divine will.

"And with all thy strength..." Christian love of God dare not be passive or vacillating. It is called upon to be active, to be aggressive, to be firm. Truly, when one comes to God through faith in Christ, then God's love can be extended to others through the auspices of our personal selves. We are His witnesses. We are vessels, molded by His hands!

These Christian duties that we have so willingly accepted in the act of embracing the Christian faith, entail a great deal of personal soul-searching and preparation. We must be willing to devote a great deal of our free time to study of the Gospels, that we may be well prepared to meet the challenges which a God-oriented life inevitably entails. We must be willing to negate ourselves in service, as did Jesus Christ. We must be willing to take upon our already burdened shoulders the woes and tribulations of our fellow men. As Christ did! Buckner, McAlister Enjoy Beef Cattle Tour

The annual WNC Development Association Beef Cattle Tour held last week was attended by forty-eight cattlemen from eight Western North Carolina Counties. They made a four day trip which carried them into Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio. Jack C. Buckner and Maurice McAlister attended the tour from Madison County.

Each stop on the tour was made with a particular item of interest to be seen. In Indiana, several management techniques were observed including use of a "Gomer" Bull and closed circuit TV from a maternity stall to the herdman's bedroom. Also in Indiana the tour stopped at two of Purdue University's Agricultural Research Centers and Pioneer Beef Cattle Company, a Division of Pioneer Seed Company.

In Ohio, the group visited several large feedlots, some of which were stocked with cattle from the Carolinas. The most unique feedlot held 530 head on a slatted floor, under roof. The last Ohio stop was at the Schearbrook Farms, Dayton, Ohio, the headquarters for cattle operations in six states. Among many items of interest here was a computerized record system and Angus Chianina crossbred cattle. At other stops on the tour, Semmental crossbred cattle were seen.

Modern Cattle Management Company in Lexington, Kentucky was one of the last stops made. This farm manages several separate herds of cattle for other owners on a management contract system.

Farmers Should Keep Computation Statements

Most North Carolina farmers enrolled in the 1973 set-aside programs have received their payments, according to Nila R. Mann, Acting County Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Mrs. Mann cautions farmers to be sure and keep the computation statements that came along with their payment drafts. These statements provide these important items:

John Goforth Wins Honors In Contest

John H. Goforth, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goforth, of Laurel, Maryland, was awarded fifth place in July in the "America, the Beautiful" contest. He was awarded a Covey Cooler.

The Goforths are formerly of Madison County where they resided on Route 5, Marshall.

ACCEPTS POSITION
 Mrs. Margaret E. Ramsey of Marshall has accepted a position as cashier in the business office at Memorial Mission Hospital and assumed her duties last week.

County Students At MHC Make Dean's List

MARS HILL.—19 percent of the student body made the Spring Dean's List at Mars Hill College. 274 students earned a grade point ratio of 3.5 or better on a minimum of 12 semester hours of study and did not receive any grade below a "C" for one or both semesters.

The lists were prepared by Robert R. Chapman, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, who named the students from the 1407 enrolled here for the Spring term. Mars Hill bases its grades on a 4-point system, with an "A" representing 4
