ASCS Administrator Speaks

August 22, 1973 Providence, R. I.-The American consumer is now part of a complex trade network that extends far beyond the supermarket or department store and into the affairs of other nations around the world

That point was stressed today by Kenneth E. Frick, Administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), the agency that administers the Federal Government's farm commodity programs. "The U. S. Consumer is a world consumer," Frick said. "His monetary and commodity needs are only a thread woven into a worldwide economic system. That's why the causes of our rising food prices are more complex than at first apparent."

Frick told the ASCS Eastern Regional Conference here that a major part of the food picture is a growing food appetite around the globé. He noted that not only is the world growing by about 80 million people a year, but the world's peoples are getting more affluent; and increased buying power, he said brings increased demand for more and better food. For example, he said that is being developed as a Christian Ministry. It began in the mind and heart of a local pastor about five years The Rev George A. 820 Moore, while a student pastor was drivein into Madison County to lead Sunday worship in the local Presbyterian Churches, and coming along the river road God impressed him with a vision and leading to encourage the local christians to build a place where people may gather for christian worship, recreation, and fellowship; a place where people from far and near might come to learn and to share the wonderful promises of God through Jesus Christ and to seek the "Abundant Life" which He promised.

This summer that order from God is being carried out as Glory Ridge becomes the site of people worshipping and working to give birth to a new and different Christian Ministry in Madison County. Many people have been involved to date in making Glory Ridge possible, but the land site was made available in 1970 by Mr. Ernest Goldsmith, Sr. One Sunday aflernoon Mr. Moore and Mr. Ernest Ramsey drove over to Mr. Goldsmith's place for Mr. Moore to inquire about a cabin site. Mr. Goldsmith brought them to the west end of his arm, and on that site Mr. Houre saw the vision of the which God had bur-him to initiate.
