Wanted...Girl Scout Leaders

Mrs. Tania Rollman, beloved Girl Scout official, said last Friday during a visit to this newspaper office, "There are plenty of girls in Madison County who would like to join the Girl Scouts but we are finding it harder and harder to find adequate leadership." Tania went on to say that there are some troops which are active in the county but there are other sections, such as Marshall, which are not active at the present. She spoke highly of several former Girl Scout leaders but stated that many of them have been forced to slow down due to other responsibilities.

She highly commended the fine work and dedication of Mrs. Marie Davis, of Route 5, Marshall. "She is a great inspiration to all of us and her efforts are deeply appreciated by the girls and the Girl Scout officials of the Pisgah Girl Scout Council," Mrs. Rollman said.

She pointed out that to have a successful and productive Girl Scout Troop, it is essential to have leadership. She explained that any lady who would like to be a leader or assistant leader need not hesitate if she hasn't had Scout training. Anyone who is willing to devote time for the girls can quickly learn the duties from other officials and the Scouts.

Surely there are women who have time to devote to the development of young girls. If interested contact Mrs. Marie Davis, Route 5, Marshall, phone 649-2593. She will give you full information.

The Tate Family

(Bob Terrell Column)

Do you know the Tate family? If you go to church, you probably do. There's a Tate family in every church.

There is old man DICK TATE who wants to run the church, and Uncle RO TATE who tries to change everything.

Sister AGI TATE stirs up trouble wherever possible, and gets plenty of help from her brother, IRI TATE.

When new projects are suggested, brother HESI TATE is never quite sure and sister VEGE TATE wants to wait till next year.

Sister IMI TATE would have the church mimic other churches.

DEVAS TATE provides the voice of doom, and POTEN TATE plays the big shot.

There are, fortunately, two sides to every coin — and to every family.

Brother FACILI TATE is quite helpful in church matters. And a delightfully happy and cooperative member of the family is Miss FELICI TATE.

Finally, perhaps the two most thoughtful members are COGI TATE and his twin brother MEDI TATE who always think things over and lend steady hand.

Do you know the Tates?

Darlington Is Featured In Oct. Magazine

The October issue of Carolina Country will feature an article about John A. Darlington, general manager of French Broad Electric Membership Corporation at Marshall.

The magazine, published by North Carolina's consumer-owned electric cooperatives, circulates monthly to the homes of more than 220,000 families throughout the state. Darlington, who was formerly with Southern Engineering Company of Georgia in Atlanta, began work at French Broad EMC's general manager January 1, succeeding D. M. Robinson who retired from the post after serving since 1942.

The article tells of the interest Darlington and French Broad EMC have in the development of the French Broad service area and says the cooperative continues to be active in community programs.

French Broad EMC provides electric service for more than 16,600 consumers in Madison, Mitchell, Buncombe and Yancey counties in North Carolina and Unicoi and Cooke counties in Tennessee.

Heard And Seen

By Pop

I am always glad to see any native son of Madison County "make good" such is the case of the Rev. Calvin Metcalf, pastor of the Eau Clair Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C. Calvin, a native of this county and a 1952 graduate of Marshall High School, was guest minister at a revival held in the Baptist Church here last week. His messages were meaningful and inspirational. His delivery was excellent. One member commented that Calvin is "a second Billy Graham" that's quite a compliment, isn't it? Last Wednesday night following the revival, Bill and I were invited up to Mr. and Mrs. Maco Wallin's home for a "jam session" on the piano and organ. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Faulkner were also invited. Marvin had his violin (or fiddle) and we made plenty of noise. The piano, over 100 years old, has recently been remodeled and tuned and it is a fine piano. A "short concert" after a "rassy action" I attempted to play Winnie's Hammond organ. It's a fine organ but I know very little about "setting it up." I did enjoy the opportunity, however, playing by ear has its advantages and disadvantages, and I am positive I have more disadvantages and shortcomings than I have advantages. I'd like to go back again and try again. That is if Maco and Winnie could stand it. I predicted a closer game against T. C. Roberson's Rams last Friday night but after seeing the perfect execution of plays by the Rams, both offensively and defensively, I realized that the Rams deserved the

No. 1 rating in WNC — when any team can score 34 points while holding the Patriots scoreless, plus minus yards rushing, it is a powerful team although the Patriots were defeated, the players never quit trying. I'm expected them to "bounce back" this Friday night at East Yancey and get back on the victory road. The Patriots are a fine team, believe me, but it must be remembered that they're playing in a tough conference with other excellent teams. I'm proud of them, win or lose. I watched Billie Jean King defeat Bobby Riggs, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, in the tennis match termed as the Battle of the Sexes. Imagine the Astrodome filled to capacity to watch the match plus millions watching on television. It was quite a show. I wouldn't mind losing a match to Billie Jean for a cool 1 million dollars. Thanks to Betty Wood for "shipping" me an RC Cola while I was PA'ing the game Friday night. I saw a Marshall woman recently walking up the street casually smoking a cigar. Quite unusual. Marshall has lost another fine senior citizen in the passing of Mrs. Zora Barnett, the beloved Negro lady was a truly a fine Christian person and leaves behind a fine family — her son, Everett, has taken loving and patient care of her for many years and is a fine example of a devoted and Mars Hill Marshall Little League game on the Island Saturday night was a real exciting contest. There are many fine varsity prospects on both teams who will no doubt be Patriots in the future.

Since this issue goes to press on Tuesday night it will be impossible to have a story this week on the county-wide Boosters Club. Will have a story next week. Hope it's successful. Congratulations to the Marvin Martins on the birth of a son. Wonder if he'll be as good at croquet as his dad.

Good Response To New Employment Service

Initial response to the new employment service being brought to Madison County by the N. C. Employment Security Commission was encouraging, according to Charles N. Erwin, Jr., Asheville office manager.

Last Thursday was the first day of this new weekly service and, even though this news had not yet reached most of the people in the county, those who were aware of it took advantage of the opportunity.

Bob Raymond, Veterans Employment Representative for the WNC area, was on hand and talked to eight applicants, two of them veterans. Job openings listed with the ESC were reviewed and discussed with each applicant. Those who were interested in a particular job were referred to the employer for an interview for a definite job opening. This system saves the applicant the time and expense of traveling all over the county, filling out application forms and waiting to be called.

Among the applicants for whom no appropriate job opening was currently listed was a bricklayer, a sewing machine mechanic, a waitress or sales clerk, and a secretary-bookkeeper. Employers with job openings in these or any other fields are encouraged to contact the ESC office, 48 Grove Street in Asheville, phone 253-5601, during the week, or see the employment representative on the second floor of the Madison County Public Library in Marshall on any Thursday morning between 9 and 11 a.m. Applicants seeking employment should do the same. The ESC is a state agency and there is no charge for its service.

Garden Club Met With Mrs. Jimmy Ramsey

"Insects and Pest Control" was the topic of study at the September meeting of the Marshall Garden Club on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Ramsey in the Beech Glenn Community. A discussion of the role of the insect in relation to man, both the harmful and the useful and the control of both, preceded a review of the North Carolina Pesticide Law of 1971. Chemical pesticides must be used responsibly so that soil, water, wildlife and beneficial insects are protected. It is folly to assume that we can do without pesticide control, personal health and agricultural production depend upon their use. Man must avoid accidents by the simple practice of reading manufacturers' instructions and all information on the label before using. Insects have lived side by side with many thousands of years, the only lasting trouble came recently when man upset the complex balances within the natural world. Qualifications for pesticide dealer license and dealer responsibility and penalties for failure to comply with the law were discussed briefly. Two books by Frank Graham, Jr., "Since Silent Spring" and "Disaster by Default," were recommended reading on the subject. Mrs. Overton Gregory was program leader.

During the business session, the club voted to write to district legislators endorsing enactment of the bill prohibiting sale of beverages in cans or non-returnable bottles. Mrs. John Corbett, president, and volunteer members will represent the club at the District I meeting of the Garden Club of North Carolina, Inc. on October 2 at Calhoun.

The next meeting of the club, on October 18, will be in the form of a tour, traveling by way of Celo and the Parkway to Boone for sight-seeing and a visit to the Center for Continuing Education.

"Jungle Rot" and Psoriasis Advances

An anticancer agent called azaribine has been reported by a team of dermatologists from Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, California to be an effective cure for psoriasis. Doctors still do not know the basic cause of the disease which produces dry, scaly skin, but early tests on patients with long-standing psoriasis, produced "excellent" results. As yet, the drug has not been cleared by the FDA for general use. In another area of skin diseases, Army doctors have launched a big research effort aimed at checking "jungle rot," an itchy, often runny type of skin sore associated with athlete's foot. The search is expected to lead to a curative vaccine, capable of stopping the disease after it has already taken hold.
