Hot Springs ABC Meeting Being Planned

RALEIGH—Action was initiated here Monday leading toward a meeting with the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and the new Hot Springs ABC Board aimed at resolving problems the state feels exists in the operation of Madison County's lone liquor store.

State ABC chairman Dr. L.C. Holshouser announced that the Hot Springs town council has appointed F.E. Smith and William Jess Whitson so local ABC board. Smith and Whitson are replacements for R.W. Ponder and Clyde Huntsinger who resigned early this month. The third member, T.A. Russell, is in the hospital, but is expected to hand in his resignation when he returns home to Hot Springs, according to a state official.

A public hearing requested by the three-member board was called off following the resignations of Ponder, the board chairman, and board member Huntsinger. The hearing was requested when the state board called for the ouster of the Hot Springs board.

Holshouser told Ponder in a letter May 1 that an investigation in recent months turned up "many discrepancies...which have caused us to feel you and other members of your board can no longer be considered fit to serve on the local board."

Ponder at first refused to step down, but later tendered his resignation to Hot Springs Mayor Joe R. Henderson. Henderson also received Huntsinger's resignation early in June.

Salaries, travel and laundry expenses, the lease on the building in which the liquor store is located, disbursement of store profits and general accounting procedures of the Hot Springs board are among specifics questioned by the state board.

State investigators have also charged Hot Springs liquor store employees with consumption of alcoholic beverages and violation of regulations by making sales to persons greater than can be legally transported and making sales at unlawful hours and on unlawful days.

Holshouser Monday asked W.T. Biggers of the state staff and Wiley Ruth, state ABC administrator, to work out a time with Smith and Whitson when they can go to Hot Springs to discuss with them the existing problems and attempt to work out solutions.

"And hopefully, within a month or so, the new Hot Springs Board and the state board will get together and discuss the problems," Biggers said.

Biggers said if Russell does not resign when he is released from the hospital, the state board will call on the town council to remove him from the local ABC board.

Trial of one of the store employees on charges of selling more than the legal amount of liquor is scheduled for June 28 in the Madison County Courthouse in Marshall.

Mars Hill College Funded For Local Gov't Program

Mars Hill College has been awarded a $25,000 grant under the Title I Higher Education Act of 1965 (Community Service and Continuing Education) to develop a program designed to facilitate the work of county boards and agencies in Madison County and surrounding areas.

Dr. Donald Anderson, chairman of the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, will direct the project and comments that "Migration from rural Appalachian counties has increasingly deprived these areas of the resource persons they need." The project will help develop additional community leadership capabilities in the region.

Specifically, the project will provide a mechanism for bridging the communication gap between community on various boards and committees and those agencies mandated to assist local communities. As Dr. Anderson noted, "There is an urgent need to develop expertise in the area of negotiation with regional, state, and national bureaucracy."

Among the project's activities will be eight seminars, each dealing with a different facet of county government. These will be conducted for elected county officials and selected community leaders. In each of these two hour sessions, the structure and functioning of a county government will be discussed and particular attention will be given to recent legislation action affecting county government as well as specific at-hand issues being confronted by local officials.

Dr. Anderson said — "We are looking forward to working with James T. Ledford, chairman of Madison County's Board of Commissioners, and the members of the board as well as the members of other county boards and committees."

The proposal was developed in consultation with Ledford and reflects his experience and commitment to the effective functioning of all levels of local government. Ledford noted that "Mars Hill College is increasingly aware of the opportunity for service in our area and we are happy to see the college expanding its services to our community."

James T. Ledford, Chairman of Madison County Board of Commissioners, has recommended a $3,113,329 million budget for the 1974-75 budget year.

James T. Ledford, budget officer, said the budget estimate was based on a tax rate of 75 percent per 100 dollars valuation. He said the rate was about 4c lower than the 1973-74 tax rate of $1.75. The 1973-74 access valuation of 45 percent on 100 dollar valuation.

The change to 100 percent taxation was due to a new state requirement.

The 1974-75 budget total of $3,113,329 compares with a $2,843,064 million total budget for this past year. Due to inflationary rise and operation expense the 1974-75 budget had an increase of about 18 percent.
