Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced priced meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information that is provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, they should contact the school. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy, the school principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Mr. R. L. Edwards, Superintendent, Madison County Board of Education, P. O. Box 466, Marshall, N. C. 28753, Telephone No. 649-2424 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the office of the Board of Education has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by an interested party.

Telephone Company Offers Reward For Offenders

Some of our customers have experienced extended telephone service interruptions due to what is believed to be intentional and willful destruction of Western Carolina Telephone Company service facilities. It was reported today by Turner Rogers, Company Vice President.

The frequency of cable cuts or damage by firearms is of such magnitude that the Company has found it necessary to initiate strict security measures. Mr. Rogers said that as an example, the Weaverville Business Office building was entered illegally through the basement during early evening hours on August 1, and all communications were knocked out for an extended period of time. The long distance facilities serving Burnsville and Mcaville were out of service from approximately 10:30 p.m. on August 1 and service was not restored until late afternoon on August 2. Cause, Rogers said, was due to gun shots into the cable.

We are very concerned since the persons involved do not seem to realize that such willful acts endanger the very life and property of telephone customers who rely on communications due to illness or accidents. We fear the consequences to a family or business when a call for emergency aid cannot be completed because of needless destruction of our communications facilities.

Therefore, we are announcing immediately that a $1,000 reward will be paid by the Company to any person who furnishes information resulting in the arrest and conviction of the party or parties involved in a willful act of destroying Company property. Additionally, a security agency has been retained to guard certain strategic locations and they will be conducting intensive investigations into specific damage cases as directed by the Company. Of course, each incident that has occurred has been referred to the appropriate law enforcement office in the area as well as the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The reward offer will remain in effect until November 1, 1974, unless rescinded by the Company by public notice. Rogers concluded.

The annual Homecoming will be observed this Sunday at the Walnut United Methodist Church at the morning worship service at 11 o'clock.

Tour Of County Homes This Thursday

Six houses will be open to the public Aug. 8 at the annual Madison County Homes Tour sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Madison County.

The tour is designed to show a variety of housing treatments in the following homes:

Sarawill and Roger Bellamy home located on the picturesque ridge on Walker Branch Road near Mars Hill. In addition to the attractive structure, the home has many antiques gathered from many states. The popular couple also has two big gardens, some playful kittens, a hen and baby chicks and a split rail fence.

Clarence Fortner home, Upper Walnut Creek. The house is at mid-point in construction and contractor Wayne Gosnell will explain construction details in a "bird's eye" view of what is behind the walls.

James Allen home, Walnut Creek. An antique brick split-level, the house offers a study in four types of floor coverings, tile, carpet, wood and slate. It is considered a good example of planned outdoor privacy in a town setting.

Charles Burce home, Bruce Road. Designed with special accommodations for friends as well as family, the Bruce home features handmade furnishings, craft items and unusual picture displays.

Edsel Buckner home, Woodland Drive, Mars Hill. Of native stone and siding, this house is cited as an example of how "an impossible lot" with a panoramic view can be utilized to advantage with the use of decks and informal landscaping.

Roger Robinson home, Crooked Creek. Special purpose wall coverings and window treatments are of particular interest in this spacious hilltop home with a rustic flare that includes many of the latest building materials.

The tour is free to the public and will begin promptly at 9 a.m. from Plaza Shopping Center in Marshall. Luncheon will be available at the Mars Hill Methodist Church, sponsored by the Upper Laurel Bicentennial Committee.

Funds OK'd For Work On WNC Roads

Approval of a $2,100,000 allocation for secondary road improvement in the 13th Highway Division was announced Friday by Ted Smith of Swannanoa, the division's secondary road councilman.

The money will be split among the seven counties in the 13th division with Buncombe County receiving $462,558, Smith said. Allocation to Burke County was $272,911; to Madison $393,988; McDowell, $197,916; Mitchell, $187,556; Rutherford, $417,237; and Yancey, $177,762.

New traffic surveys and road ratings will be done in the fall to determine road improvement priorities for each county, Smith said.

He explained that road improvements are made according to a formula based on a combination of traffic counts, type of development along the road and the road's importance as a county thoroughfare.
