He earned the coveted Country Musician Comedian of the Year award in that same year also, and has been nominated twice for a Grammy. Campbell has been serving this year as president of Mars Hill's alumni association. As well known as he is as a comedy star, he has also given reely of his time to many charitable causes.

Miss Wallin, a native of Madison County, has served the college for 24 years as secretary of alumni affairs in the Public Information Office. The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wallin, she was

Following the death of her parents, Miss Wallin moved to Mars Hill to live with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ingle. She attended Mars Hill College from 1949 to 1951. The summer following the completion of her business program, she was hired by the Public Information Office.

Miss Wallin is a member of the Mars Hill College Secretarial Club and has been a member of that organization's work study committee. She is a member of the Mars Hill Baptist Church. She lives on campus and is in daily contact with both students and the school's 18,000 alumni.

CP&L Will Not Continue

Caney Fork Studies

Carolina Power & Light Co. will not continue its studies "at this time" of a site on Caney Fork and Frady creeks in Jackson County as the possible location for a pumped-storage hydroelectric generating plant.

J. A. Jones, executive vice president, said reductions in CP&L's construction program and preliminary studies have led to a decision that the company should concentrate its investigation on a "more feasible" site in Madison County.

The Federal Power Commission granted CP&L preliminary permits to study the Jackson and Madison county locations as prospective sites for a pumped-storage facility.

The Jackson County location had been considered capable of development for a one million kilowatt facility that was estimated to cost more than $200 million.

CP&L will not seek further access to property and does not expect to exercise options on any property in the Caney Fork and Frady Creek areas, Jones said.

Armed Robbery Suspect In Jail Here

Sheriff Ponder and Deputy Rex Sprinkle returned Sunday from West Palm Beach, Fla., where they apprehended Ronnie Harris, of Erwin, Tenn., and brought him back to the jail here. Harris is charged with armed robbery, along with Junior Lyons and Freddie Tilson, both of Tennessee, who are now out on bond.

The armed robbery charge stemmed from an incident involving Vestie Ingle, of Mars Hill Route 3, who was robbed in July, 1973.

Following the trustee meeting, the board will participate in a joint luncheon with the college's 100 member Board of Advisors.

On Sunday, the spotlight will shift from former students to present graduating seniors in the ritual of the baccalaureate and commencement services. The Honorable Robert B. Morgan, Senator from North Carolina will be the speaker for the baccalaureate service, which will be held in the college's Moore Auditorium at 11 a.m.

Commissioners Adopt Land Use Ordinances

Last week the Madison County Commissioners adopted Land Use Ordinances (zoning and subdivision) involving the eastern one third of the county. Effective immediately the new ordinances regulate land use in townships 3, 4, 7, and portions of 1 (the U.S. 70 By-Pass).

Chairman James T. Ledford indicated that many citizens had worked long hours in formulating the ordinances and in holding three public hearings.

The primary purpose of these ordinances is to insure the continued wise use of land and thus to encourage reasonable, planned economic development.

The ordinances, as adopted, were tailored to meet the needs of a mountain county. The following features of the zoning ordinance needs emphasis:

- Farm land is not regulated by the ordinance.
- All existing commercial and industrial sites are designated as conforming to the ordinance.
- Specifically the zoning ordinance will establish five districts: two residential, one commercial, one industrial, and one flood plain district.

The subdivision ordinances establish regulations when more than two acres of land are being subdivided for sale and/or development.

Copies of the Land Use Ordinances and Zoning Map are on file in the Madison County Courthouse. For information call Nick Kmecka at 689-1126.

Head Start Celebrates 10th Anniversary

On May 14, the Opportunity Corporation of Madison-Buncombe Counties Head Start Program joined thousands of Head Start Programs across the country in celebrating Head Start's tenth anniversary, as part of National Head Start Day.

This event honors the nationwide Head Start Program for preschool children from low-income families. Since its establishment in 1965, Head Start has provided comprehensive health, educational and social services to more than five million children and their families.

Project Head Start, launched by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity in 1965, is now administered by the Office of Child Development in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Reviewing the program's accomplishments, National Head Start Director James L. Robinson recently said, "Head Start continues to be an innovative and experimental program, using the past decade, it has had a dramatic impact on services for children throughout the country - and on the entire child development field. Head Start has pioneered such new concepts as parent involvement in planning educational programs, and the employment of non-professional classroom aides. It continues to be the largest health care program for preschool children in the Nation."

Over the past seven years, Head Start has launched a number of experimental programs, including Parent and Child Centers for families with children under age three; Home Start, a program using paraprofessional visitors who work with parents and children in the home; and the Child and Family Resource Program, which makes child development services available to children from the prenatal period through age eight.

"We're encouraging local Head Start programs to use these new experimental approaches," Robinson said, "to meet the varied needs of communities and of individual children and their families."
