

A $13,400 GRANT from money released by N. C. House Bill 456 through the Governor's Technical Advisory Committee, was presented to Madison and Yancey county chairmen of boards of commissioners at the Madison-Yancey Achievement Home in Mars Hill last week. The money will enable the home to continue to serve the two counties by providing an alternative to the usual treatment of juvenile cases. The home also serves as a temporary emergency shelter for children. Shown at the ceremony are, left to right, Bernie Lewis, program coordinator for Western Region for Division of Youth Services who presented the grant; Carl Carter, chairman of board of commissioners of Yancey County; Mrs. Virginia Anderson, chairman of board of commissioners of Madison County; Mrs. Jo Ann Croom, director of Madison-Yancey Achievement Home; and Lynn Hughes, member of Technical Advisory Committee and chief court counselor for the 24th Judicial District.

Heart Attack

Usually There's A warning

Because an estimated 25,200 people in North Carolina will die from heart attack this year, because approximately 50 percent of heart attack deaths occur before the victim receives medical attention and because many of these lives might be saved if victims had recognized the signals of impending heart attack and acted immediately, the News Record in cooperation with the North Carolina Heart Association will publish a series of seven articles on the signals and actions for survival of heart attacks.

According to the Heart Association, "heart attacks seldom come without some prior warning. The more people we can make aware of these signals and what to do when these signals are experienced, the more lives will be saved."

In the series of articles the signals of heart attack will be described:

—uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain in the center of the chest, behind the breastbone.

—pain may spread to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.
—pain or discomfort may be accompanied by sweating.
—nausea, vomiting or shortness of breath may also occur.
—pain may go away, then return.

If discomfort is experienced in any or all of these areas, call the Emergency Medical Service. Before any emergency, find out which hospitals in your area offer 24-hour emergency cardiac care. Select in advance the facility nearest your home and office and tell your family and friends so they will know what to do. Also plan in advance the fastest, safest way to get to the emergency room.

"The sooner these signs are recognized and reported, the better the chances to treat the suspected heart attack patients effectively," the association adds. "Too many times people will pass off these signals as indigestion, or some other minor ailment."

BETHANNE FLETCHER, left, a third century artist from the John C. Campbell Folk School, is showing Mrs. Beatrice Kuyker of the Bull Creek community how to start a card weaving. A one-day craft workshop was held in the county library here Friday, sponsored by the county home extension department and the county arts council. Fifteen county women attended the workshop.

Theatre Changes Hands

The Mars Theatre in Mars Hill is under new management.

A native of Jacksonville, Fla., Ma. Judy McCullers and her two children, Scott and Kelly, are the new owners of the theatre. The family moved to Mars Hill from Titusville, Fla., where Ma. McCullers was the administrator of a community development project for the city of Titusville.

When asked why she moved to Mars Hill she replied, "I wanted to take the children out of a large city and Mars Hill appealed to me and the children because of its size and makeup."

She further stated that they loved Western North Carolina and said this was their first experience with snow. "We wouldn't go back to Florida, not even for the sunshine and warm weather," she remarked.

Ms. McCullers said the ownership of the Mars Theatre is a new venture and she was excited about building it up and giving the people of the Mars Hill area the best in moving picture films.

News From Agricultural Extension Office

A combination of at least two factors may cause fertilizer materials to be more expensive and less available to farmers in spring of '77.

Natural gas shortages have necessitated the shutdown of several nitrogen fertilizer manufacturing plants. The length of time these plants will be shut down cannot be determined accurately at this time. It will be strongly dependent on the severity of the remainder of winter across the major industrial and farming sections of the nation.

The transportation of raw materials to and from fertilizer plants is dependent largely on the Mississippi, Illinois, and Ohio River system. The Illinois, Ohio, and Mississippi north of Cairo are closed to barge traffic.

The curtailment of barge traffic on the major rivers coupled with the decreased production due to natural gas shortages indicate that it would behoove farmers to make very early purchases of fertilizer supplies to insure adequate supplies for 1977.
