

Lunsford Festival Opens October 5 At Mars Hill

The first weekend in October will be a busy one for Mars Hill College. The Bascomb Lamar Lunsford Mountain Music and Dance Festival will be held that weekend as will the school's Alumni Day.

The 12th annual "Minstrel of the Appalachias" will open Oct. 5, with a program featuring old time mountain fiddling. Of nearly all the instruments popular among mountain music aficionados, the fiddle remains the most celebrated. Easier to carry than the guitar or banjo, the fiddle was consequently the first instrument many of the early settlers of the region brought with them. Entitled "Mountain Fiddling: From Hornpipes to Hoedown," the Friday evening program will feature many of the region's best known fiddlers including Byard Ray, Liz Smathers-Shaw and Lynn Shaw, Luke Smathers, Tommy Hunter, Mac Snodderly, Gordon Freeman, and Arville Freeman. These musicians will present their program in a more intimate, workshop-type event in Owen Theatre beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday remains the big day for the festival. Lunsford originally conceived of the festival as a celebration of the mountain way of life—a time when old friends could get together, play the familiar tunes, dance the dances, and preserve these traditional ways by passing them on to the new generation. To this end, festival officials have enlisted the help of numerous craftsmen, home-makers, musicians, and dancers who know the old ways intimately and still practice them. Beginning at 10 a.m. Oct. 6, demonstrations in spinning and weaving, wood carving, quilt and doll making, shingle splitting, and whittling will be held on the green in front of the college's new administration building, Blackwell Hall. A homemaking skills demonstration will also be held featuring cooking on a woodburning stove, making sausage biscuits, buttermilk churning, and making apple butter.

There will be workshops in most of the musical instruments, a special attraction for children, and of course the jam sessions that go on all day. On Saturday evening, the "Minstrel of the Appalachias" will get started at 7 p.m. in Moore Auditorium. Musicians and dancers from throughout the region will gather to celebrate the memory of Mr. Lunsford and the way of life he dedicated himself to preserving.

Saturday will also be the day former students of the college return and celebrate Homecoming with a full slate of activities. Registration will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the first floor lobby of Blackwell Hall, and class reunions will start at 10 a.m. From 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., a Homecoming buffet will be available in Coyte Bridges Dining Hall, and at noon, a special luncheon will be featured for the 50th anniversary class, 1929, and the Golden Year classes—all classes from 1900 through 1928—will be held in the Blue Room of Bridges cafeteria. A Luncheon honoring the Alumnus and Alumna of the Year will also be held at noon, in the Gold Room of the cafeteria.

The traditional homecoming parade will begin winding its way to the athletic field at 1:15 p.m. and the football game between Mars Hill and Guilford will start at 2:30 p.m. An alumni dinner will be held in the gymnasium at 5:15 p.m., and the day's activities will wind up with a Theatre Arts and Dramateers alumna celebration in Owen Theatre at 8 p.m.

Additional information concerning the festival is available from Dr. Harold Herzog, chairman of the Lunsford Festival committee, Mars Hill College, Mars Hill, N.C. 28754, telephone 689-1332; and information concerning Alumni Day activities is available from the Alumni Office, Mars Hill College, Mars Hill, N.C. 28754, telephone 689-1102.
