Mars Hill Homemakers Give Activities Report

The Mars Hill Extension Homemakers of Madison County have been busy with activities since February. Each month a workshop has been held to work on crafts. Some of the members have volunteered to instruct in classes of honeysuckle basketry and making of macrame handbags.

Other crafts and skills pursued were needle work, needle point, quilting, crocheting, embroidering, creweling and crewel embroidering over net. Our members learn from each other on projects they are working on.

At the April meeting there will be an exhibit of the crafts we've made at our club's workshop, at Montreat and our county workshop.

A class of basket weaving with honeysuckle and reed was held in March at the Home Extension Office in Marshall. Mrs. Mollie Parker of Meadow Fork was our instructor. There were seven from our club who attended. Follow-up was done at one of our monthly workshops.

Another of the club's activities was attending the annual Western District Craft workshop in Montreat, April 1-2. The following members from Mars Hill attended the workshop: Owa Bradley and Sophia Navy in Bargello; Gladys Anderson and Mabel Carter in fiber basket weaving; and Violet Navy in wood-carving.

We are also looking forward to our Western District Meeting on May 7, 1980, in Franklin, N.C. Madison County will be in charge of the crafts display. Then there is our annual awards night, also in May. This is a county-wide program with a covered dish supper; and a time when club members receive recognition for accomplishments for the year's work. Awards consist of 1st, 2nd and 3rd, place recognitions according to a club score sheet, perfect attendance certificates and reading certificates. Also, with these awards 4-H members are recognized for some of their accomplishments in the field of home economics. Some form of entertainment and a speaker will complete this event. Details will be given later as to time, place and the speaker. MRS. THURMAN BRIGGS

Marshall Book Club Enjoys A Taste Of Spanish Culture

Marshall Book Club met in Mars Hill in the home of Mrs. P.R. Elam for the April 21st meeting. Mrs. James Story, presiding during the business session, welcomed Mrs. Julian Culvern as a new member. Mrs. C.M. Roberts will be hostess for the May meeting.

The group enjoyed a taste of Spanish culture during the program presented by Mrs. E.C. Teague. To set the mood she sang several Spanish love songs, playing the guitar for accompaniment. From her tour of Colombia as a member of Partners of America she brought slides of Bogota and the surrounding area. Pictured were sugar cane operations, city streets and traffic and tall buildings much like our American cities, large churches and small missions. Then she told the story of Maria written by George Isaacs, a Colombian born in 1837, whose father was a London Jewish merchant migrated to Bogota, and whose mother was a Spanish Catholic girl. Maria, a love story whose theme is "Love foiled by death," was published in 1867 and was the first widely-read novel in the Spanish-speaking world; it has been translated into many languages. Mrs. Teague used the original Spanish version and translated several excerpts which lost none of their beauty in the translation.

Attending were Mrs. J.L. Baker, Mrs. Gordon Clauss, Mrs. John Corbett, Mrs. Elam, Mrs. O.A. Gregory, Mrs. J.L. McElroy, Mrs. W.T. McKinney, Mrs. Julian Culvern, Mrs. C.M. Roberts, Mrs. Story, Mrs. Teague, and Mrs. J.B. Tweed.

Berea College Offers Courses On Appalachia

Berea College in Berea, Ky., will offer two courses in Appalachian studies as part of its 1980 summer curriculum. A six-week workshop in Appalachian history and culture provides six hours of graduate credit with the University of Kentucky College of Education, and a non-credit course - "The Frontier and the Gentle in Appalachian Literature" - is open to teachers and students interested in Appalachian studies.

Under the direction of Loyal Jones, head of the Berea College Appalachian Center, the six-week workshop, from June through July 18, will be an intensive study of Appalachian history, culture, literature, arts and skills. Lectures on Appalachian politics and economics also will be given.

Berea College professors involved in the workshop include Dr. Richard Drake, professor of history; Dr. James Gage, assistant professor of English; Dr. Pat Wear, professor of education; and Dr. John Ramsey, director of Recreation Extension. Guest instructor will be Dr. Jim Miller, poet and professor of German language and literature at Western Kentucky University.

'Spring Fling' In Franklin

Maco Crafts, Inc., is pleased to announce plans for the 4th Annual "Spring Fling" craft show and quilting competition to be staged at the Macon County Facilities Building in Franklin, N.C. on June 21 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The high spot of this year's fling will be the unveiling of the "World's Largest Quilt" now being assembled through the cooperative efforts of over 80 of Maco's top quilters. The quilt will be a sampler of over 110 different designs.

The Honorary Chairman of this year's "Fling" is Mrs. Jeannie Gudger, wife of the Honorable Lamar Gudger, U.S. Congressman from the 11th District. Because of the efforts of Maco Crafts and the excitement generated by the previous "Flings", a number of national and regional publications will be covering the 1980 event.

Mr. John Parris, well-known author of books on the mountains, will appear personally to sell and autograph his books.

There will be an old-fashioned barbecue dinner and a street dance on the grounds in conjunction with the "Fling" on Saturday the 21st.

Admission to this year's event will be $1. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

For further information contact Betty Gideon, Chairman of the Spring Fling at Maco Crafts, Inc. Rt. 2, Box 1190, Franklin, N. C. 28734.
