Mrs. Morgan's daughters, Mrs. Robert J. Rice, assisted by Mrs. Jack L. Peoples, of Winston-Salem entertained approximately 50 friends and staff members in the dining room of the Nursing Home between 6 and 8 p.m.

A color scheme of pink and green was used throughout.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Fisher visited her mother on Sunday, April 13. Dr. Monroe T. Morgan visited his mother on Sunday, April 20 in honor of her birthday. Those who were unable to attend but called were Coy B. Morgan and Frank W. Morgan of Portland, Tenn. Dr. Joe L. Morgan of Marshall and Mrs. Myrtle Paulson of Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

The Hawaiian Islands grew from a chain of volcanoes. Oahu is the oldest of the islands, and none of its volcanoes is active. Diamond Head, the dramatic landmark that towers over Waikiki Beach, is a wall of the huge crater of one such extinct volcano.

Hot Springs Day Care Center Gets Beauty Treatment By Seniors

The grounds of the newly-opened Hot Springs Day Care Center have recently been given a genuine beauty treatment by a group of Senior Citizens of that community.

The new lawn and grounds were carefully tilled, fertilized, raked and sowed with grass. A small plot for a garden for the Day Care children was also prepared by these workers. The grounds were landscaped with dogwood, maple, white pine, rhododendron, holly, mountain laurel, nandina and other flowering shrubs. Items for the project were donated by members of the group - some as outright gifts and some as memorials. Special mention is due to Floyd Waldrop, Clayton Moore, John Garenflo and Homer Rathbone for some of the 'muscle work' of this project. This exciting undertaking will surely encourage even the most indifferent among us to contribute something to the current clean-up, fix-up and beautification campaign. For any who choose to visit this site, the grounds are on Highways No. 25&70 just past the entrance to the Hot Springs Elementary School.

The building also serves as the nutrition site for senior citizens of the Hot Springs area.
