

Dr. Bentley To Be Named Southern Assoc. President

Dr. Fred B. Bentley, president of Mars Hill College, will be elected president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) when the association holds its annual meeting in New Orleans next month.

Dr. Bentley began his relationship with the accrediting agency in 1966 when he participated in the association's initial evaluation of Mars Hill as a senior college. In 1979, he was named chairman of the commission on colleges, one of the agency's major divisions. His appointment as president of the association marks the first time that a North Carolina educator has served as head of the college section and then as president of the entire organization.

colleges for cooperation and mutual assistance; to elevate the standard of scholarship and effect uniformity of admission requirements; and to develop preparatory schools, freeing the colleges from that area of education.

The role of the organization has gradually expanded over the years so that it now functions as the chief accrediting agency for 9,638 elementary and secondary schools, 723 colleges and universities, and 214 occupational educational institutions, mainly technical schools, in 11 southern states.

In order to win official accreditation by the association, an institution must meet certain prescribed standards in its academic programs, its financial operations, its philosophical basis, and its physical facilities.

Dr. Bentley is a native of Roanoke, Virginia. Following his undergraduate career at Baylor University, he enrolled in Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., where he earned the Master of Religious Education degree. He also holds a doctorate from Indiana University.

as a significant recognition of the achievements of Mars Hill College."

SACS was founded in 1895 by representatives from six southern colleges: Vanderbilt University, UNC-Chapel Hill, the University of Mississippi, Duke University, the University of the South, and Washington & Lee University. Its original purposes were to organize southern schools and

4-H Awards Presented At Madison High School

By SHARON CARTER

The 1983 4-H Awards Night, "Your Friend 4-H," was held at Madison High on Nov. 22. President Kandy Riddle welcomed the group of 4-H'ers, leaders and 4-H families. Pledges were read by Allen Lamberson and Maria Wise and a devotional was given by Laura Ledford.

Elizabeth Cheek was awarded $20 for being a district cumulative record winner in Peanut Foods. Heather Streppa was awarded a $50 savings bond for being a district winner in the Horticulture Production demonstration area. Randy Riddle was recognized for being selected for the North Carolina Life Savers Club. This was for the work he did in the 1982-83 State Project on Safety.

The "I Dare You Awards" were given to two outstanding 4-H'ers, Randy Riddle and Elizabeth Cheek. They were given the "I Dare You Award" book.

Calendar Of Church Events

Calvary Baptist Bazaar

There will be a Bazaar at Calvary Baptist Church on Bailey St. in Mars Hill, on Dec. 3 from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. We will have a large variety of crafts, baked goods and hot dogs. There will be a drawing for a hand-made quilt. All profits will go to the Youth Training Union. We would appreciate your support.

Mrs. Herring To Teach

Mrs. Ray Herring from First Baptist Church, Kingsport, Tenn. will teach the 1983 Foreign Mission Study at the Mars Hill Baptist Church on Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. The study, entitled "THE IMPERATIVE IMPULSE," is the story of the opening of doors for Southern Baptist Missions in Eastern and Southern Africa. Everyone is invited. A nursery will be open.

Hot Springs Service Planned

Asheville District Superintendent O.L. Hancock, Jr. has announced that a service of worship will be held at the Hot Springs United Methodist Church in Hot Springs, at 3 p.m. Sunday, December 4. The Church has been closed for about 3 years and interest has been expressed in establishing a United Methodist congregation in Hot Springs. All who are interested are invited to attend.

Lora Scott Featured In Vocal Recital

Lora Scott and Jennifer Radeker, voice instructors in the Warren Wilson College music department, will give a voice recital on Friday, Dec. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Kittredge Community Arts Theatre at Warren Wilson College. Songs by Handel, Bellini, Schubert, Faure, Pasatielli, and Vaughn Williams will be performed, along with duets by Bach and Rossini.

Scott, a mezzo soprano, has been on the college's music faculty since 1972. She is a soloist with All Souls Episcopal Church in Asheville and was most recently featured in Mendelssohn's "ELIJAH" and the Durufle "REQUIEM." Before coming to Asheville, Scott performed with the Ithaca, NY, Civic Opera and the Turnau Opera Company.

Radeker, soprano, is a recent addition to the WWC faculty, having been with the music department just less than a year. She recently served as Assistant Director of Music at Trinity Episcopal Church in Asheville, and has taught in the Buncombe County schools. Her accomplishments include the Madrigal Dinners at Trinity Episcopal Church, and a leading role in the 1980 Junior League Follies. She earned her Bachelor of Music Education degree at Mars Hill College, and has done graduate work at Converse College and Western Carolina University.

Scott and Radeker will be accompanied on violinello by Evelyn Affolter, and on piano by Warren Wilson's music department chairman, Warren Gaughan.

The performance is free and open to the public. For more information, call Warren Wilson College at 298-3325.

Lora Scott has lived in Madison County since 1974 and is a local piano teacher. She is currently an accompanist for the Madison High School chorus.

Pritchard

Madison County. He was elected three times and served in the sessions of 1885, 1887, and 1891. Pritchard was the Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina in 1888 and did not seek a legislative seat that year.

Pritchard made an imprint in the legislature by his diligent attention to duty and the conviction with which he expressed his views on the issues. Pritchard was cognizant of the obligation to serve the best interests of the state as well as the county he represented while in Raleigh. He made himself heard on the leading questions of the day, such as honest elections, improved public schools, public roads, the equalization of taxation, the care of Confederate veterans, appropriations to the University of North Carolina, and other state institutions.

Pritchard practiced law on the circuit, including Madison, Yancey, Buncombe and other Western North Carolina counties and because of his skill, knowledge of the thinking and mores of the mountain people, was in great demand, especially in murder cases. In fact, Pritchard holds the record for rendering legal services in more homicide cases than any other lawyer in North Carolina in 1888.

Pritchard's legislative career paved the way to his election to succeed Zebulon B. Vance in the United States Senate where Pritchard served from 1895 to 1903 before being appointed to the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1904.
