The scholarship to the college of her choice was awarded by the Beta Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa International Honor Society for Women Educators. One of the purposes of Alpha Delta Kappa is to promote educational and charitable projects and activities, to sponsor scholarships and to further and maintain worthy standards in the field of education.

Ford, Wallin Named 'Outstanding Young Women'

Sandra Wallin Ford of 280 Long Branch Road in Marshall and Lisa Kay Honeycutt of 83 Roberts Road in Weaverville have been selected as Outstanding Young Women of America for 1987.

Ford and Honeycutt were selected after 150,000 nominations were received from political leaders, university and college officials, clergymen, business leaders as well as from various civic groups and community organizations.

This program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in many fields, including service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement and business advancement.

Girl Is Poster Contest Finalist

Melissa Ann Mathes, 8, a second-grade student at Mars Hill Elementary School, has been named a finalist in the national poster child contest sponsored by the Council for Better Hearing and Speech Month.

She was selected from more than 150 entries from across the United States.

The Council annually promotes the contest as part of the activities leading up to a nationwide public awareness campaign during May, which is designated as Better Hearing and Speech Month.

Jessica Riley of New London, Conn., was named the 1988 Poster Child and will appear with President Reagan in an upcoming television spot and in other promotions. Both Riley and Reagan have a hearing loss.

The poster child contest is open to children between the ages of 5 and 8 who have a significant hearing, speech or language problem.

Melissa, the daughter of Roger and Nancy Mathes of Mars Hill, has a speech articulation disorder due to a cleft palate. She has had numerous surgeries for this birth defect and her speech has been greatly improved through speech therapy.

Since entering kindergarten, she has been a student of Frances Cosgrove, speech-language pathologist for Madison County schools. Academically, Melissa performs near the top of her class, Cosgrove said.

Barbee Receives Engineering Award

Brooke Barbee of North Buncombe High School recently received an Outstanding Pre-Engineering Student Award from the Western North Carolina Chapter of the Institute of Industrial Engineers.

This award is presented to two students in the Western North Carolina area who plan to pursue a career in some field of engineering. Selection of the student is based on academic achievements, extracurricular activities and recognition for various scholastic accomplishments.

Barbee's credits include a host of awards in math and other subjects while maintaining a 4.09 grade point average during her senior year. She has served as president of various school clubs and has lettered in more than one athletic field.

She is the daughter of Tom Barbee of 1 Maney Branch Road in Weaverville. She plans to attend N.C. State University and receive a degree in civil engineering.

Re-Enlisting Again

Master Sgt. Clarence L. Pegg, left, is sworn in for the last time in his career in the U.S. Army Reserve by CW-4 David Fortune, right, as Staff Sgt. Ricky C. Turner watches. Pegg, a member of the U.S. Army Reserve since Aug. 19, 1961, will retire from active reserve on Aug. 15, 1993, after serving 32 years. He is currently serving as senior supply sergeant for the 2nd Brigade Headquarters in Hickory.

Leadership Workshop Held In Spruce Pine

Participants from Madison, Mitchell, Yancey and Avery counties attended a leadership workshop held at Pinebridge Auditorium in Spruce Pine Friday and Saturday.

The workshop was provided by the Family Community Leadership Institute, a leadership development program designed to encourage participation in public issues which affect families. The goal is to improve the physical, economical and emotional well-being of families and communities.

Janice Lloyd and Carol Schwab, specialists of Family Resource Management or Raleigh, assisted the Home Economics Extension Agents of the four counties in conducting the workshop. Ethel Wallin served from Madison County.

A panel of elected officials from the state and local level addressed the issue of influencing public policy. Other topics covered in the FCLI curriculum were: resolving conflict, bases of power, leadership styles, family and public policy issues, analyzing issues, a guide to public testimony and parliamentary procedure.

The FCLI program is specially funded by the W.G. Kellogg Foundation and the Extension Homemakers Association of each participating state.

Madison's Jarrell Wins Honors Band Position

Emily Jarrell of Madison High School has won a position in the North Carolina Honors Band.

Jarrell had to pass two auditions in competition with players from all over the state. She participated in the Honors Band clinic held at N.C. State University April 28-May 1.

The Madison High band and the Mars Hill Elementary band also participated recently in the WNC Band Festival. The high school band received a rating of "excellent" and the elementary band received a rating of "good."

IS YOUR ROOF WORN OUT??

Don't wait until you get ceiling damage. Watch for streaking and fading, shingles curling up. Watch for grit in your gutters and where your downspouts spill for loose grit. If you have this problem, the recent HAIL STORMS could have been responsible.

We will be glad to inspect your roof for hail damage and give you a written estimate so you can apply for help from your Homeowners Insurance company to cover the cost of replacing the roof.
