Grace Cunard and Francis Ford In a Huge Scenic Drama

The Mad-Cap Queen of Gredschoffen"

Grace Cunard as the willful and disobelient girl queen, to whom the throne of Gredschoffen has been left by an aged father, is seen in an 't ssually strong role, which is ideally suited to her. Francis Ford, as the rich American traveler, plays the hero in his usual dashing style. This is the first of a number of f-aturns played by this duo of stars. We shall endeavor to secure more of them if possible. But he sure and

MRS. A. E. NORRIS PASSES

After being a sufferer for several nonths Mrs. A. E. Norris closed her eyes in peaceful, everlasting slumber at her home late Friday afternoon. Her illness had been long and trying, but through it all she bore her trials with strong Christian fortitude. Her patience was inspiring; calmiy she swaited the end, knowing that it would place her "Safe in the Arms of Jeaus."

Mrs. Norris was a good we kind neighbor, a loving and faithful wife, and her passing brings grief to many hearts. And to the many sorrowing relatives and friends the Dispatch extends its heartfelt symbathy.

A LITTLE BABY SLEEPS

James Hodges, the one-ye non of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pool, of this city, is dead, his pure little soul passing to the home of his Heavenly Father into last Friday afternoon, after the little body had suffered ter-
