

FROCKS AND WRAPS FOR EVENING.

Froiled and Fur-Trimmed of Satin, Taffeta and Net.

New York, Nov. 22.—Now that winter is upon us and the season of gaieties has begun, we find ourselves scurrying about, here and there, hearts in a flurry and brimming over with happy expectation of the coming festivities where we may dance away the merry hours, oblivious of time and the many perplexities of this little world of ours, except for the ever present question of dress.

Alarming Silks and Satins
There are numbers of dainty silks and sheer fabrics, such as taffeta, gros de Londres, soft satins, chiffons, nets, and novelty brocades which are charmingly suited to dance and dinner frocks. Gros de Londres come plain and striped, combining often two of the most delicate pastel shades. The soft satins and taffetas are particularly effective, under the web-like tunics now modish. Although many prefer the effective simple frock, others delight in the swaying of tiny ruffles and frills, and the swishing of crispy fallies and taffetas, panniers of filmy fabrics, puffed, shirred, and pleated, quaintly mimicking creations of decades ago. These are carefully

The Scarf of Chiffon.
As the frame is to the picture, so is the dainty, filmy scarf to the frock for evening wear; endless ideas may be carried out with these. They are beaded, embroidered, fringed and hand-colored; developed in the sheerest of nets, chiffons, gauzes and wonderfully patterned Oriental fabrics, designed with visions of Houris and dreamy harem beauties in mind. One of the many effective uses of the scarf is with the sleeveless gown; it may be draped in most becoming ways. A charming example of this was brought to my attention the other evening. The dress was of canary colored taffeta made with an eight gored skirt, in which alternating gores were of the canary taffeta and satins of a delicate blue. Each gore was rounded at the lower edge and finished with a narrow quilling of chiffon matching the taffeta bodice. Over this striking skirt hung a tunic of canary colored chiffon, while a wonderfully tinted scarf, with blended tones of canary color and blue, was draped around the shoulders in a wing-like arrangement giving the effect of sleeves when the arms were raised. The ends were wound loosely around the neck, quite as one would use the regular throw scarf of heavier material. It was exceedingly practical and pleased the eyes of those who appreciate daintiness and grace.

TREATMENT FOR BURNS
Prevention is Best Treatment.

The best advice about burns is to prevent them. They are the most painful of common injuries, slow to heal and often result in life-long disability or severe disfigurement. Fortunately, they are at the time of the accident free from infection, and if kept clean will not result in blood poisoning.

The best thing to do in case of a simple burn of the skin is to treat it with a coat of vasoline, lard or other greasy substance to exclude the air. A paste of soda and water, or flour and water, will excite the air and may be used with good results. The same treatment may be used in case there is a blister, but if the burn is deep and the flesh is destroyed, a physician should give the treatment. The after-treatment of burns consists mainly in keeping the injury clean and free from infection.

Some of the most serious burns have resulted from accidents that could have been avoided. Mothers too frequently leave their little ones in a room where there is an open fire or a stove with a fire in it. A fire or a wire screen before an open fire removes this danger. Last year North Carolina made a very good showing in her interest in the Red Cross Christmas Seal movement. Of the seventeen states in her class, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis gives North Carolina fifth place in the number of seals sold. It is more than probable that this year our rank will be still higher, as we are beginning to appreciate the value of these little stamps, not only in expressing our Christian sentiments, but in the more practical ways of helping stamp out tuberculosis literature, nurses, or for paying some one's way to the Sanatorium.

North Carolina Coming. Suggested Fertilizer Formulas for North Carolina. On account of the high price of potash and in some cases the total lack of it in sufficient quantities for fertilizer formulas have been suggested by Director Kilgus as suitable for conditions in the State. These formulas give the correct proportionment of plant food and will give good results at a low cost. They are advisable to use for the purpose of meeting the abnormal fertilizer situation arising from the necessity of omitting potash almost entirely from fertilizers during the coming season. For Coastal Plain or Eastern Carolina.

And every story a good one. They are entertaining, but that is not all you can say about them. You know there is hardly a periodical published that is not full of time-wasting stories, but not a single story in the Youth's Companion is a time waster. Take the stories of C. A. Stephens. It would be hard to pick out one from which you cannot learn something useful and yet entertaining. Some of the Companion refresh your knowledge of geography and tell you the mysteries of chemistry; some reveal the secrets of forestry, and of general farming. They cover a wide range. They are chosen with an eye to the possible likings of every member of a Companion family—stories of vigorous action and stirring adventure for boys, stories of college life and domestic range all the way from sheer drollery to deep seriousness for men and women. There are no stories quite like those in The Companion. If you are not familiar with The Companion as it is to-day, let us send you sample copies and the forecast for 1916.

New subscribers who send $3.00 for 1916 will receive free a copy of The Companion Home Calendar for 1916, in addition to all the remaining 1915 issues from the time the subscription is received.
