Calling The Bluff.

A man with a big bunch of cash went through Wall street a few days ago looking for the Hughes money, that was said to be going begging at odds of two to one. He failed to find it. This man in search of Wall street bargains: furnished $10,000 which he wanted to put up on Wilson against $20,000 for Hughes, but the man who wanted to bet that way was not in evidence, and thought the intruder of the Street stated that he meant it just as a starter, he could receive no encouragement. Nor could he get any takers at six to five. The wall street bluff was quietly called. This offering of odds on Hughes is a bluff, or why a taker when a man appears begging to get rid of Wilson money?—Charlotte Observer.

Rev. J. A. Campbell the great head of Duke's Creek Academy, and well known Baptist minister, has been pastor of Spring Branch Baptist church in Sampson County for twenty-seven years. Mr. Campbell is one of the State's really great men. He has during the past twenty-five years built up a school that stands at the top of all North Carolina preparatory schools, and in addition to this has conducted a fine school regularly a number of Baptist churches in Sampson and Harnett counties. He is an educator of the first rank, a church builder and a leader whose equal is seldom found.—Smithfield Herald.

We have received an attractive illustrated circular of 16 pages from the Agricultural and Mechanical College. It presents a clear conception of the buildings, machinery and laboratory equipment of the College. Parents and young men wishes copies should write to the Registrar at West Raleigh.

Too Late.

She kissed the old man; she showed upon him kisses and tears. She told all the people how good he was. I thought if she had only given him a dozen of these kisses a year for the last ten years, how the tender-hearted old gentlemen would have smiled through his tears. But now he took it all very coldly. He was dead. He was old and poor, she was young and rich. She had ten rooms but no room for father. Yet he made room for her when he had only two. The old man was not expected. She was—at his expense. He had had and clothed her for twenty years at home and college, until she had risen into more refined and cultured society, and married among new friends. The old people's address and dialect were too coarse. She kissed him and buried him in a beautiful coffin. Dear father, how have a beautiful monument. A woman kiss while living is better than a marble when dead.—Selected.

THE VOGUE OF THE COTTON FROCK

It Frequently Takes the Place of the Evening Gown.

Pastel Shades Favored

New York roof gardens, afternoons and evenings, display most charmingly the present vogue of summer cottons. Earlier in the season when popularity of silk for blouses and frocks was commented upon because, owing to conditions abroad, cotton was going to waste, it was predicted that cotton and lingerie frocks would take first place for mid-summer wear and the prophecy has come true. That dainty cotton frock is worn both for afternoon and for evening.

Unusual Freedom Shown in Dress While a few years ago, we should perhaps have frowned upon these simple cottons and the great vogue of bright colors now favored in the sports clothes, at the present moment we find them perfectly appropriate and becoming, not at all a breach of taste. First of all, comfort and simplicity go hand in hand and along with our other emancipated ideas, we have come to the point where we dare to assert ourselves in the matter of dress instead of following blindly as we have done for ages. The bright-colored sports clothes, which are daily becoming more popular, are very becoming and youthful; there is life and spirit in the greens, oranges, blues and purples, which are used in the skirts, coats and hats composing nine out of ten of the costumes dotting the gray sands of the beaches and the soft green sward of the country clubs, and since we have had the courage to adopt them we are not going to give them up, by any means. The sports clothes idea promises to be one of the strongest notes of early fall, and in all probability sports clothes as we know them at the moment, will have a permanent place in the American woman's wardrobe.

Wide drooping Brims on Mid-Summer Hats

The wide, soft-brimmed, Bankok, Wen-chow, Panama, Leghorn, hair or hemp hats, with just suggestion of trimming, are the favored hats of the moment. These may be worn with sports clothes and quite as effectively with lingerie and soft silk frocks. The flarries, cretonne, and the various striped canvas weaves are liked for sports wear, combined with harmonizing coats and skirts.
