DEMobilIZATION OF THE U. S. FORCES

After The Return From France and How It Is To Be Brought About

BIG TASK OF PRESERVING BALANCE OF POWER LABOR

Washington, Nov. 12.—Demobilization of men in the military and naval service of the United States after their return from France will be carried out largely on a basis of the ability of trades and occupations to absorb them, under a plan worked by the Labor, War and Navy Departments and the War Industries Board. It was said today that the plan will be submitted to President Wilson in a few days.

The War Industries Board has sent questionnaires to employers in all industries, asking the needs of each for men and the answers will show where when and how rapidly jobs will be ready for discharged soldiers and sailors and what trades are most in need of them. Supplementing this information will be that received from draft boards and community labor boards.

Balance of Power of Labor Supply. The war labor policies board and the United States employment service will be combined to handle the Labor Department's end. General Crowder was suggested by some officials as the man best qualified to deal with the task of preserving the balance of power of the labor supply without delaying demobilization operations.

Officials pointed out today that with the ending of hostilities there be a great resumption of private construction and manufacturing held up and restricted because of war work, and that thousands of skilled laborers soon will be needed in all parts of the country for this work.

Being Carefully Studied. Secretary Baker said today that every phase of demobilization of the army is being carefully studied by war Department agencies, but as yet no plans have been finally formulated.

The question of the number of American troops to be retained in France or elsewhere in Europe is being studied on that side, Mr. Baker said, while the General Staff is preparing recommendations as to the number to be kept under arms in this country. The problem in Europe remains one of joint operations with the Allied nations in after-the-war guarding and other work to be done by the military forces and no conclusions of this point can yet be made.

Order of Release. Mr. Baker said several factors will govern the order in which men will be released from the army. It is obvious, he said, that as a matter of justice, men who had been longest in the service should be released first, but the industrial situation and the special need of men of a certain calling probably will modify the principle of making length of service a guide to order of muster out.

STENAY LAST CITY OUR BOYS CAPTURED

Town Not Badly Damaged by Shell Fire, But Has Been Plundered.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE MEUSE AND MOSELLE,

Monday, Nov. 11.—(By The Associated Press)—The last French town to fall into American hands before the armistice went into effect was Stenay. Patrols reported they had found it empty not more than a quarter of an hour before 11 o'clock. American troops rushed the town and in a few minutes allied flags were beginning to appear from the windows. As the church bell solemnly tolled the hour of eleven, troops from the 90th division were pouring into the town. Only a line of glowing campfires marks the front tonight. Except for the rattle of thousands of trucks and other noises incident to the stirring of enormous armies there is not a sound to indicate that two great forces are still facing each other. So far no violation of the armistice has been reported, there not being even accidental burst of machine gun fire.

The greater part of the 800 odd persons still remaining in Stenay were still in their cellars fearfully awaiting the bombardment which they believed would surely come as the Americans entered the town. Many had yielded to German persuasion or force and had retreated with the enemy. The few who dared last to venture into the streets greeted the Americans with tears in their eyes and fairly deluged them with questions. The majority seemed too dazed to be able to understand that fighting had stopped. With trembling hands they offered coffee and bread to their deliverers.

The town is not badly damaged by shell fire but, according to the remaining inhabitants, has been plundered of nearly everything of value. The street were barricaded with huge heaps of furniture, indicating the intention of the Germans to hold desperately if attacked before the armistice was effective. At the last moment, however, they withdrew without a struggle.

WHY BOYS LEAVE THE FARM.

New York Evening Post
A new book why boys leave the farm is given in a poem printed in the New Letter of the University of North Carolina. "Thinkers of pulp platform, press," sings the bard, "are wallowing in deep distress," seeking to know the hidden cause of the migration. Is it longing for a taste of faster life? Not at all, replies the farmer boy:
I left my dad, his farm, his plough,
Because my calf became his cow.
I left my dad, 'twas wrong, of course,
Because my colt became his horse.
And so with lamb, pig and even garden truck, which "was his to sell, but mine to hoe." Can this dark picture be true? If so, what of the pretty stories of the giving of a tiny pig to a tiny child, who carefully reared it to maturity and then disposed of it for a sum that started the boy on the highway of prosperity? A cynical poem tells how the pet pig or chicken always died and cheated its youthful owner, but there cannot have been an uninterrupted series of such tragedies. Surely, the boys and girls who win prizes for making more corn or cabbages grow in a certain space than ever grew there before are not compelled to see their earnings brigaded with those of the entire family.

BUY SPRING FERTILIZERS. to insure having them filled. There are several advantages of buying early and one is that during the winter months there is more time for hauling the goods from the station. Spring is a rush season on the farm and the time taken to do any sort of hauling means just that much less for other important duties connected with the preparation for crops. With the fertilizers stored in the barn, one responsibility is lifted. This is an important matter and should receive the attention of every farmer.—Indiana Farmer.

RED CROSS FAMILY REMEDIES.

Many able Chemists and Doctors were called into service in perfecting this line of Red Cross Remedies. This is an age of Specialists, and while one may have distinguished achievements to his credit in one particular line, another is excelling in something else. That very thing makes it possible for us to have a Red Cross Remedy for each ailment, and enables us to give the consumer more than we promise or charge for. Each formula is compounded with as much care and precision as if our entire success depended upon that one Remedy. That's why NEURITONE repairs shattered nerves, and Red Cross STONE ROOT and RUGHU Red Cross Remedies are not Patent Medicines. The formula is printed on each carton in plain English, so that you know what they are composed of and what you are taking. More than one hundred Red Cross Remedies and Toilet Preparations are sold and guaranteed only by WILSON & LEE, Dunn, N. C.

THE FAITH OF OUR LEADERS.

One of the outstanding and significant things in connection with the war is the attitude toward God and spiritual things of the great leaders of the Allied forces. Almost without exception—we do not at this moment recall a single exception—they have avowed themselves reverent believers in God and in the necessity and efficacy of prayer to him in this world crisis. This was true of Roberts and Kitchner at the beginning of the war. It is no less true of their successors, Haig, Byng, and Foch and Joffre, and Pershing. In view of this attitude assumed by the men whom they admire and most adore as the exemplification of everything and manly and heroic, it will not be easy for the boys who come home from the front to take up again the old sneer that religion is something good for women and children, but having no appeal to real men.—Watchman Examiner.

In reply to a message sent him recently by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, General Pershing gave his memorable testimony to his faith in prayer: "The invisible, unconquerable force let daughter of the social climber."

W. S. Jackson, retired merchant, 402 E. Broad St., Dunn, says: "I had a dull aching in my back and I was sore and stiff. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and my kidneys acted irregularly. I heard about Doan's kidney pills and bought some at Wilson & Lee's Drug Store. They gave me relief, strengthening my back and benefiting me in every way."
(Statement given June 20, 1914)
On July 8, 1918, Mr. Jackson said: "I never miss a chance to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know they are a fine kidney remedy. I still use them occasionally as I need them and they always fix me up in fine shape." Price 60c, at all dealers.
