Few American Presidents have been wealthy when they assumed office; few have left office much better off than when they entered it; few have died more than moderately well-to-do.

Very few professionals have made literature pay so well as did Colonel Roosevelt, who made it only a sort of side issue.

Whatever he did, Mr. Roosevelt did with all his might. He could not do anything except with his whole heart.

NO PEACE YET.

New York World. Having received many inquiries as to the outlook for the World War in the future, the World has published a special issue.

"The duration of the armistice (except as to the disposition of United States and Allied prisoners of war) is to be thirty days, with option to extend.

If this formal authorization of a renewal of hostilities is not enough to satisfy the controversialists to insist that an armistice is a peace, we must refer them to the instructions issued by all military commanders which follow the signing of this document.

In law and in fact, we and the Western Allies are at war, and so far as the United States is concerned there can be no peace until it shall have been officially proclaimed by the President after the ratification of a treaty by the Senate.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE. Letter from Private Harvey Avery, with the American E. F. to his sister, Claude Avery, of near Dunn, Nov. 14, 1918.

Dear Sister: Just dropping you a few lines to let you know I am all right. I am just coming out of a hard battle. It was the worst battle I was ever in.

Well, sister, how is everything at home? I hope all is well. Sister, I want to tell you how I will be home with you soon. I suppose you all are very busy now days about the holidays.

Well, sister, as I have not much more to say I will close by saying I remain ever yours. Good bye. Your loving brother HARVEY.

TO THE MEMORY OF MR. JOHN MONDS.

Man that is born of a woman has but a few days, then he is cut down; he is like a flower that grows in the midst of the garden it is plucked and soon withers away.

So it was with this Christian gentleman. He grew in the garden of human flowers, was plucked by the chilly hands of death, and his life withered away.

So it was with this gentleman, Mr. John Monds. His memory shall live that others may live thereby.

He knew that life on earth was but a brief pause, between the cradle and the grave, and he lived this brief pause as a true Christian gentleman.

His life was to this community as a copious fountain, filled with happiness and social welfare.

He is gone from us to receive his blessing in that beautiful land above, where no more sickness and pain distressing.

But joy, peace, happiness and love. By ALLIE WORMACK. Dunn, Jan. 20th.

HOME DEMONSTRATION WORK.

The Home Demonstration and Betterment Club met Monday afternoon in Miss Martin's office at four o'clock.

The subject for discussion was Home Decoration. Miss Jaunita Crockett, Art and Expression teacher of the Lillington Farm Life School, gave a helpful and interesting talk on "Suitable pictures for the Home."

bringing out the common mistakes made by most housekeepers, viz: Having too many pictures in a room; choosing pictures for show rather than for real beauty and the meaning they convey; and spoiling the effect of a picture by not knowing how to mount, frame, or hang it.

A round table discussion on Home Decorations in general followed, in which all present took part.

Mrs. Susan V. Hollowell, a woman well known throughout North Carolina for splendid public work she has been doing for a number of years for her native State and who is now connected with the Insurance Department of the State in organizing safety leagues for the protection of life and property, spoke.

The following program for the next meeting which will be the first Monday afternoon in February was assigned:

1. Talk by Club Members. The use and abuse of washing machines and wringers.

2. The proper use of lining, starch and ironing.

3. Demonstration—Removal of rust, mildew or other stains. Recipes on good homemade soap.—Harnett net News.

SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF MR. JOHN MONDS.

All Dunn was made sad and each head bowed in tears and sorrow on Wednesday evening, Jan. 16th, 1919, when the evening shadows were of the west, and night was silently wrapped from home to home that John Monds was dead.

He was a noble man of beautiful character, honest, truthful and reliable under all circumstances.

He was only forty years old, just in the prime of life. Yes, it was Spring with him. He saw the morning stars and the horizon, and shoot sunbeams at the vanishing darkness of night; then reach up and gather the stars and hide them in her bosom.

The flowers and meadows fall asleep just as he died, when the spirit of the great I am entered that peaceful, happy home and claimed him, waded his pure gentle spirit in wings of love to its eternal home, a home not made by hands, eternal in the Heavens.

All was done by skilled physicians and loved ones to stay the hand of death, for all loved him. Anxious eyes were ever upon him, willing hands ever anxious and ready to do all that could give relief, but God knew best. He called him, and with his dear companion kneeling by his side with his hand in hers he peacefully fell asleep in the arms of Jesus.

He loved his dear companion so but few ever love for he knew she was worthy of all earthly love. She did all in her power to make him happy.

Everybody loved John Monds. To know him was to love him. A worthy tribute to his life, is the fact that among the many who mourn his death, none are more genuine in their sorrow than the colored people who were his servants and friends.

He is gone, where he will be waiting to welcome all loved ones that live the life he lived.

He was buried Thursday evening with Masonic honors, funeral services being conducted at the Baptist church by his Pastor, Rev. Luther Davis after which his remains were taken to the Greenwood cemetery for burial.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. His family and relatives here have heart felt sympathy of not only his home town people but his many friends far and near.

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke. Image of a man smoking a pipe and a pack of Prince Albert cigarettes.

Say you'll have a streak of smoke-luck that'll ring in your smoke-motor, all right, if you'll ring in with a jimmy pipe or cigarette papers and nail the Prince Albert for packing!

Just between ourselves, you never will wise up to high-spot-smoke-joy until you call a pipe by its first name, then, to hit the peak-of-pleasure land square on that two-flavor man-tobacco, Prince Albert!

Well, sir, you'll be so all-fired happy you'll want to get a photograph of yourself, wearing up the pipe with your sun-breath wide open! Talk about smoke-sport! Quality makes Prince Albert so appealing all along the smoke line.

You know Prince Albert cigarettes are tobacco to suit. They are the only ones that keep the tobacco in each perfect.
