REMEMBER THE ORPHANS ON THANKSGIVING DAY

A beautiful custom in which practically every person in the State may participate with little inconvenience or sacrifice is that of contributing the income of a day to the support of our fatherless and motherless children. And the Thanksgiving season is a most propitious period during which the charitably inclined people of North Carolina may show their appreciation of the meritorious service the twenty-one child-caring institutions are rendering in the care, protection, training and education of helpless children who might otherwise become a menace to society and objects of scorn on the face of the earth.

That the present wants of these homes will continue to receive proper care and attention there is little reason to express the slightest concern. But there are literally thousands of bright boys and girls out on the highways and in the by-ways of the State who cannot be admitted into either of these homes because there is no room for them! It is this class of children that the people of the State should interest themselves in to the extent of contributing the earning of a day at Thanksgiving, so that the management of the homes may be provided with funds to warrant reasonable expansion.

Let it not be said of North Carolinians that they neglected, at any time, the care and protection of helpless little children right at their own doors. It should be borne in mind that our charitably inclined citizens, both men and women, really constitute a great corporation, organized for the purpose of relieving the distressed, burying the dead, caring for the widow and educating the orphan. Every member is an equal shareholder and all members are directors, with the same powers. Its dividends are not recorded in dollars and cents, but are set aside as treasury stock, which is held in the hearts and affections of the beneficiaries. The larger the dividends, the greater will be the reward for duty well performed. In the race between the child and the dollar the interests of the child should bleed easily in our humanities. In our fulness of heart we hear the tender words of the Master: "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

It is of the duty of today that we should be most concerned. Tomorrow the sun will either rise in splendor or behind a mask of weeping clouds. Concomitant of duty well performed is the source of all happiness. Remorse comes for something that happened yesterday, or the dread of what tomorrow may disclose. But let us remember that the same love and patience that are anticipated for tomorrow will shine with leader promise into the heart of today. Then let us journey one day at a time, laying aside as we go along the income of a day to be forwarded to the orphanage of our choice when we reach the glad morn of Thanksgiving. By so doing we shall comply with the imperative command to protect and educate the orphan.

In no other one channel of effort is our mission so vividly and practically exemplified as in the work of the orphan homes. Here are gathered the fatherless and motherless children of our State, where they throughout the years of their youthful development. Here they are given the education and training so essential to their success when they go out to battle for themselves in this heartless world of ours. It is to one of these splendid institutions that every man, woman and child in North Carolina, who is blessed with earning capacity, is asked to contribute the amount of One Day's Income during the Thanksgiving season. This is a reasonable request, and should meet a liberal response. Not one in a hundred is unable to set aside the income of one day in 365 to a cause so worthy. This appeal is to all classes and conditions, and those who respond are asked to forward the amount they may wish to contribute to the orphanage of their choice. The Publicity Committee handles no funds.

And while we are assisting in providing comforts of life to the little ones bereft of parents and the comforts of home, "let us forget the past with all its cares and frets, with all its pains and aches—all its faults and mistakes. Every act we have wrought, either for good or for evil is in the hands of the Mighty Love that is capable of bringing honey out of the rock and sweet waters out of the bitterest desert—the love that turns weeping into laughter, weans little joys, and gives the garment of praise, for the spirit of heaviness. Only for the beautiful memories, sweet and tender, that linger like the perfume of roses in the events of the days that are gone will thoughts of yesterday serve any good purpose. Leave everything to the love that is higher than the stars, wider than the skies, and deeper than the seas; the love that holds for all, the treasures for the days that are gone."

"Leave not until tomorrow things that should be done today." Men and women, boys and girls of North Carolina, discharge your duty to the State and society by sending the earnings of a day to the orphanage of your choice, on or after November 23rd, the day on which all the people of this great and glorious country of ours shall return thanks unto Him who doeth all things well.

The call is urgent. Let no one fail to respond.
SUPERIOR COURT MET MONDAY
November term, 1920 of Harnett Superior Court convened Monday, with His Honor Judge W. A. Devin of Oxford on the bench, Judge Devin was here in September and made friends with both bar and the people of the county on account of his business-like manner of conducting the court and because of his intense zeal for fairness.

A jury from the panel was quickly picked and this jury, except in one instance, has passed on all the cases to press. The one exception was in the case of Coe-Mortimer Co. vs. W. R. Coats, when His Honor asked that the jury box be filled at no expense to the county. At once almost the entire Harnett County Bar made a rush to the box and it as a peculiar sight to see Judge John C. Clifford, his partner and Harnett's next representative in the General Assembly N. A. Townsend, Chas. Ross Neill Salmon, Charlie Day, Deputy Clerk L. M. Chaffin and Miss Carrie Speight court stenographer, besides the others, in the box trying to look jury-like.

This case will, perhaps, always stand out as the first case in North Carolina which had a woman to sit on the jury which tried it. As might be expected from a jury of this complexion, the plaintiff was given all the asked for. Mr. R. L. Godwin, attorney for the defendant, realized that it would not do to make a speech to his jury because there was grave danger that one member of the jury at least could not refrain from making a reply of greater length, thereby acting on any manner except as a juror should act. Needless to say, the juror was from Dunn, and owed the reputation of discouraging longer and more loquaciously than any other person in the court—a habit which adds much to his ever increasing popularity.

The following cases were disposed of:
Cannady & Tighman vs. Carrie Hodges. Agreed to pay one-half the costs each and call it even.
In the case of Simon Cameron vs. Henry Davis et al, the plaintiff was non-suited for failure to appear and prosecute his suit.

All things having been amicably settled and compromised in full, the case of F. R. Rose vs. J. W. Bida was dismissed.
The case of J. J. Lane vs. James McCreary et al, was dismissed.
Mrs. A. V. Coats won out in her suit against the Durham Notion Co. Johnson Paint Co., was given a judgment of $18 and interest against W. F. Dawson.

C. S. Stanton et al. were the winners in the case of J. H. Ballance & Co., against them.
The Bank of Cape Fear was given a judgment for $172.66 with interest against J. T. Lee.

The court began on the case of Buckhorn Land & Timber Co. vs. Mary B. McDonald Wednesday morning and it is expected to consume the balance of the week.—Harnett County News.

The American Farm Bureau Federation will meet in Indianapolis, December 6, 7, 8, for the purpose of formulating a national agricultural policy.

Pains Were Terrific
Read how Mrs. Albert Gregory of R. F. D. No. 1, Black River, got rid of her illness. "During... I was awfully weak... My pains were terrific... I thought I would die. The bearing down pains were actually so severe I could not sit on the lower part of my stomach... I simply lay in bed for a short time. My husband was worried... One evening while reading the Birthday Almanac, I came across a card that said to mine, and I went right for some Cardui to me to try."

CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

"I took it faithfully and the results were immediate." Adds Mrs. Gregory. "I continued to get better, all my fits left me, and I went right on with no further trouble. My baby was fat and strong, and myself—thank God—am once more hale and hearty, can walk miles, do my work, though 61 years old, feel like a new person. All I owe to Cardui." For many years Cardui has been found helpful in building up the system when run down by disorders peculiar to women.
