There is an aluminum sale. Every woman who could get into the Barnes and Holliday stores Monday and the Draughton store today bought and bought the pretty shiny ware until there was no more to be bought. All of the stuff went at attractive prices—pure aluminum kitchen utensils being sold for less than the price of the ordinary enamel ware. Nearly every kitchen in the surrounding country is now adorned with the ware that is easy to clean and looks pretty all the time. The Barnes & Holliday sale was a feature of the ten-day sale of hardware and furniture being conducted by the company, although the aluminum was offered for Monday only. The Draughton sale is for today only.

The Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin—254 letters, perfectly formed and correctly spaced. That is what Edward Burke, of Seattle and Spokane, is showing on the streets of Dunn today. The prayer was engraved by Mr. Burke while he was in the employ of a newspaper in Spokane. Three years were required to complete the work which was started in 1914 and completed in 1917, when Mr. Burke started a tour of the country showing his curiosity. Since that time he has visited practically every State in the Union, and wherever he has gone his work has been viewed with much interest by hundreds of people. The pin head upon which the prayer is engraved is made of gold and is only one-thirtieth of an inch in diameter.

"The Philathea Class"

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church, held its regular monthly business meeting Tuesday evening March 14, at the home of Miss Ida Mae Pittman. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Sallie Naylor, and the opening prayer was led by Miss Lela Strickland.

The class song was sung, after which upon the call for business, it was decided that the Philathea girls make cards and sandwiches each week to be sold by Miss Evis Lackey at Wilson and Lee's Drug Store. The money received to be used to help support our orphan and to raise a sinking fund for the maintenance of our class.

Business having been finished Miss Pittman very beautifully served a delicious salad course, while Misses Myrtle Pope and Madie Bull rendered several selections on the piano. Latest Edison records also played a major part in making the evening a happy one for all who were present.

CLASS REPORTER

The 14 girls and boys in the Oxford Singing Class are representing about 375 children in that splendid institution. Hear them sing and see how you like them.

A county campaign committee consisting of the farm demonstration agent, the home demonstration agent, the superintendent of education, the superintendent of health and the welfare officer in each county has been appointed by Governor Cameron Morrison and charged with the responsibility of "putting over" the "Live-at-Home" movement, through which it is hoped that North Carolina may win economic independence and be started upon the road to greater prosperity and better conditions of health and physical fitness.

The county officials named are declared by Governor Morrison to be in better position than anyone else to realize fully what a deplorable handicap North Carolina has had from a financial and health standpoint, in the practice of a large part of its farming populations of neglecting to raise at home proper food for the family and feed for live stock. These officials are in close touch with the situation and are already working upon the proposition. In this campaign they will organize, secure the assistance of their local newspaper men and other interested citizens and conduct an intensified campaign in which they will have the assistance and backing not only of the Governor, the Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture and Engineering, but also of the Department of Education, the State Board of Health, the Board of Charity and Welfare and other agencies, including the special central campaign committee at Raleigh, of which John Paul Lucas is executive secretary.

It has been emphasized in arguing this campaign that the big idea is the production of food and feed products for home consumption and not for the market. In some sections of the State there are commercial possibilities for the growing of these products, but this is declared to be a negligible factor as compared with the importance of every farm family producing its full supply of food and feed stuff on its own premises.

Sylvan Expression

(By SAM THOMAS)

Full of pleasure was my walk When a voice rang in my ear; From a lonely grove, it broke, And I heard these words so clear.

"Sweet and 'air sing me to sleep, Let my heart rejoice in Thee. Love be mine, thy promise keep Though I go beyond the sea."

All the trees have felt the strain Clapping hands and waving high 'Een the flowers on the plain Kissed each other with a sigh.

It was not a fairy land, It was not an Angel's tongue, It was not the chirping band, It was but a maiden's song.

Peeping from behind a tree, There a maiden stood in white, Grecian art though wondrous be, Failed to give a face so bright.

And the Venus of their time Shrinks to nothing when compared. Beauty gives what time and clime, To the world in store, have spared.

Yet behind this beauty lies Something that is deeper still 'Neath the magic of her eyes Is a heart that passions fill.

Oh the heart: That noble shrine Where all virtues grow and thrive! Home of hope and love divine In whose holy place they live.

Calm stood I near for awhile Then I thus addressed the maid: "Angel thou art heaven's smile, Speak, if thou art like us made."

"Toll me sweet in sign or more With thy loveliest eyes or tongue, Pour thy voice my pretty bird Pour it on my heart in song."

"Fair eyes upon me shine, Soar in Beauty's sky my dove, Pour thy melodies 'tis wine, I'll my cup with burning love."

Further then her voice again, Rang through vale and valley green, While I heard I looked in vain, But nobody could be seen.

"Sweet and fair sing me to sleep, Let my heart rejoice in thee. 'Love' be mine thy promise keep, Though I go beyond the sea."

"Think of me when I am gone, I shall be forever true. None is faithful, Oh there's none, In this world but God and you."
