

JOHNSTON BACKS UP CO-OPERATION

Smithfield, May 15.—Co-operative marketing is being backed to a finish in Johnston county. Several hundred farmers and business men pledged their help to put the movement over in this county at a mass meeting in the town hall, this afternoon. Straight talks from the shoulder were made by H. W. Kilgore, director of the agricultural extension service; W. H. Austin, president of the State cotton growers' association; R. B. Whitley, of Zebulon, and T. S. Ragdale of this city, brought assurance to the farmers that the movement is going to succeed. A. M. Johnson presided.

E. F. Boyette, prominent farmer and warehouse manager here for many years, was among those that signed contracts after the meeting. Homer H. B. Mask, field manager for the cotton association, received one of the surprises of his life when Mr. Boyette put down his name for 200 bales of cotton and a hundred thousand pounds of tobacco annually. Mr. Boyette said he couldn't stay out after seeing the intense enthusiasm of such men as Mr. Austin, a fellow townsman.

Idea Spreads Rapidly
"No question has spread over the country like co-operative marketing has within the last year and a half," said Dr. Kilgore. He said that the problem was not a political one but was economic and that the farmers who remained on the outside were not treating their neighbors fair, as they would all benefit and that those who did not come in would in a year walk around with something heavy hanging over them for not doing their part in putting the project over.

"The question has spread from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico and it has proven a success," declared the speaker. Touching upon misleading propaganda, Dr. Kilgore said that he had letters from bankers, merchants, and all sorts of farmers from Kentucky stating that the association was a success and that the farmers were satisfied.

Dr. Kilgore spoke very briefly and stated that it was the easiest part of the work and at the same time stated that the hardest work was yet to be done and that the farmers who had signed contracts were the ones they were after, now and that the members of the association were going after them. "When we get the farmers signed up in this association we will have the biggest tobacco selling business in the world."

Works Well Elsewhere
W. H. Austin, president of the State Cotton Growers' association spoke on conditions in Texas and other recently visited states where he went for the purpose of studying the situation. He made it clear to the farmers what they would have to do and that they would get the benefit from the association.

T. S. Ragdale of this city spoke on information gathered on a tour of Kentucky when he went there in the interest of the chamber of commerce. He also told of the results of a tour of Eastern Carolina and then on down into South Carolina where he accompanied Dr. J. Y. Joyner and Mr. G. A. Norwood. They made talks in several tobacco towns and their reports were very encouraging as to the number of signers.

Mr. Ragdale surprised even the leaders of the association when he told them there was a cooperative marketing system operating within a stone's throw of the city. "There is a warehouse which is operating on the co-operative marketing plan in this State. It is a success too, and the very men at the head of it are the very ones who are trying to keep you farmers out of this association. The first year they operated they paid 100 per cent interest on the investment. The second season they paid 125 per cent and then on the third year, 25 per cent. The warehousemen drew a salary of $37,000 for their work during the few months they were at work," said the local man.

R. B. Whitley a director of the association was present at the meeting and he made a forceful talk urging the farmers to sign the contract and also stated that he had been doing business for 25 years on the co-operative basis.

There is 60 per cent of the farms we signed up in Johnston county and this city is going to put on a drive to get at least 90 per cent before July first.

When asked how many would get out and work for the association and who would get 25 contracts each signed, five men walked up and 29 agreed to get as many as 10. Ten agreed to get five and 200 stated they would get from 1 to 5.

"We finished up seven large Dead Rat Pits Monday Using Rat-Snaps." So writes Mrs. B. E. Carpenter Woodbridge, N. Y. "We had 18 cats' chicks one killed by rats. Bought some RAT-SNAPS and picked up 7 large dead rats next morning. A 2 weeks didn't see a single rat. RAT-SNAPS to good and sure." Comes in on road to town. Three stars in rat trap. Sold and guaranteed by Butler Brothers, Wilson and Lee, and Hood and Grantham.
