IMMIGRATION
There are now in the United States more than 26,000,000 persons of foreign blood. They are either immigrants or sons and daughters of immigrants.

In North Carolina and nearly every other Southern State the foreign born population or first-generation offspring of foreign born persons constitute an almost negligible part of the population, although more than one-third of all the people of the nation are so classified.

This means that most of the foreigners are packed into the northern and Middle Western and Western States, constituting practically one-half of the population of those regions. Of course the vast majority of these are Americanized according to the standards of the regions in which they are living. There is, however, a very real danger that they have had so strong an influence upon these standards that they are not so completely American as they should be, and that as the foreign population becomes greater the spirit becomes less American and more European. It would be good for the country if a reasonable part of the immigration could be turned to the South.

BROWN WINS
Although reports from Saturday's primary are not complete, it appears today that Caviness Brown, of Lillington, was winner over L. L. Lovinson, of Coala, in the race to decide who should be the Democratic nominee for the office of county recorder. His majority appears to be about 100.
Avenmore seems to have been the only Eastern township to give the Lillington man a majority. Both Dunn and Grove gave Lovinson a majority.
Dunn is attributed to the activities of the women supporters of the Lillington young man. Several of them made a house to house canvass Saturday in their efforts to get votes for him.

Brown's nomination means that the Democratic party has only three candidates in Eastern Harnett. J. W. Jordan is the nominee for county commissioner; N. A. Townsend for representative in the State Legislature, and Hugh Prince for county surveyor. Because of this paucity of representation in the east the Republicans are expecting to gain many votes and are confidently predicting that they will elect their ticket.

WELCOME, FOLKS
Thousands of Dunn's best friends are here today as guests of the community and to celebrate the nation's birthday. Dunn and its people are more than glad to have them here, and involving its own welcome. The Dispatch speaks for the whole of that great little town which proudly boasts that it is the "best under the sun."

Dunn hopes all of you will enjoy this occasion. It has done all it could to arrange an entertaining program and to provide for your comfort and safety. When night comes you will be tired, but we hope you will be happy and full—full of the joy of life and of the pleasures of the day.
Do any thing you want to do today. Break none of the more important laws and try as far as you can to obey all town ordinances. If you do, through not knowing all the traffic rules, park your old beat in the wrong spot or make a wrong turn, Chief Dawson will be as nice as possible. He will warn you to be good, but today, he'll not pinch you for any minor law fractures. Dunn wants you to enjoy the day and will not punish you for ignorance.

Remember when the day is over that Dunn has enjoyed having you here and that it will always be glad to number you among its best friends. Now go to it, and have all the fun you can.

INFLUENCE OF ASSOCIATION
There is no need to go to the window and look out when you hear the robin chirping cheerfully. The notes of that bird are recognized immediately. It is the same with the rooster, the canary the bob-link, or the lark—each has its distinctive message, and the song calls up a vision of the little warbler who is sending forth the golden notes.
It is the same with people. We know them by their conversation. Some people are optimistic and always giving inspiration and courage, and helpful ideas to others. They are welcome anywhere.

There are others who are always finding fault and seeing dire disaster in the way. They cannot see the good in anyone. They are pessimists, and scatter gloom. People learn to avoid them.
There are still others who are constantly looking for slight and unfriendly motives and expressions of envy and ill will. These people usually find what they are looking for, and they do not have to go far, either.

If every one could only realize it, our conversation is really the mirror which we hold up in front of ourselves. We stand before this and the reflection is what people conclude (and rightly, too,) that we are. It is a picture of the original.
If everybody talked hard times, and poor business and disaster, so many pictures of this type would be thrown upon the mental screen of the public that everyone would begin to be impressed, and soon there would be a business panic. Then the calamity howlers would nod their heads with satisfaction and say "I told you so."

On the other hand, if our conversation is cheerful, honest, unselfish, constructive and progressive—we will make pictures of that kind, and good times and prosperity will be realized even more easily than the opposite.
Let us learn to be the sort of birds who are welcome. Not crows, and ravens to foretell mournful things, and to croak "Nevermore!"
"A bird is known by its note, and a man by his talk."—Lenoir News-Topic.

CONDITIONS OVER THE NATION CONTINUE GOOD
New York, July 2.—While the usual uncertainty of the season and few others of a special character have dominated the country's markets during the past week, returns from industrial centers continue good. Steel production has maintained its latest gains, railroad car loadings have reached a new high level for the year and reports from a number of centers mention active co-operation for labor between makers of steel, automobiles and railroad equipment on the one hand and the building trades on the other. Allowing for the coal strike, which naturally affects the showing of railroads serving union mines, the May earnings statements of the carriers which are now being published testify to a further gain in the volume of traffic.

Regarding the seasonal uncertainties, principally relating to new crop, little in the way of news has developed. Fair weather in the cotton belt improved crop conditions and took the edge of the minor crop scare of two weeks ago. It also resulted in the cancellation of the advance in prices.

The wheat crop has matured and is being harvested. The condition of the crop is reported to be good. The yield of wheat is estimated to be 75 per cent of the normal. The condition of the crop is reported to be good. The yield of wheat is estimated to be 75 per cent of the normal.
The cotton crop is also being harvested. The condition of the crop is reported to be good. The yield of cotton is estimated to be 75 per cent of the normal.
The rice crop is also being harvested. The condition of the crop is reported to be good. The yield of rice is estimated to be 75 per cent of the normal.

State of North Carolina, County of Harnett, I, H. B. Taylor, Cashier of the above bank, do hereby certify that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Wheat prices stiffened slightly, partly on disappointing threshing returns. There were reports, also, of somewhat better foreign buying. In the course of a faltering rally the July delivery reached the vicinity of $1.15, but the market was thin and uncertain, as is, in fact, consistent with its between-crop character. A good yield remains in prospect and mail order business is picking up well. Despite flurries in call money which carried the rate on the New York Stock exchange as high as 5 1/2 per cent the money market still holds at the low levels of the year. The disturbance in call money is generally connected with the ead of the first half year. The best observ-
