PARTY FEALTY

Why are you a Republican? Or why a Democrat? It would be interesting to learn of the reason for the party affiliation of the individual, and to learn how much of party history he may know. That most men inherit their party allegiance is patent, and that bigotry has more to do with party prejudice than judgment cannot be denied.

Party names are no indication of continuous party sentiment. The Bourbon Democrat can trace his party ancestry further into the past than can his political rival. Yet if he goes back far enough he will find himself classed by the detested rival name. For when, after the political rivalry of Jefferson and the elder Adams, party conventions succeeded congressional caucuses, the followers of Jefferson called themselves Republicans, while the Hamiltonians were Federalists.

Madison, Father of the Constitution, was a Republican of the stripe of Jefferson, yet he was the projector of the protective principle in the tariff on imports, while the modern Democrat is in theory a Free Trader, except that he has not the courage to say so, and suggests the tariff is justified only as a revenue producer.

The name Democrat was applied to the Republicans in derision by the aristocratic Federalists. Since 1858 the principal political organizations have been known by their present names, but in character both have changed. Could Lincoln visit us today he would have difficulty in recognizing as his own the party that has wandered so far from his teachings. And who would think of making the policies of a Cleveland tally with those of Jefferson?

Jefferson, the Democrat, was the first public advocate of the abolition of Negro slavery. Lincoln gained immortality by achieving it. Madison, the Democrat, fostered the protective tariff principle, and while it is inconceivable that he would have supported it as it is in present practice, the idea has been a vital part in the theory of government of the latter day Republican.

The student of political history must be aware of these facts, and the student of political history is becoming cynical regarding the reasons for party affiliation on the part of the masses. There are explanations of the situation other than mere inherited fealty, but they are hardly complimentary to the ideal of American citizenship.—The Dearborn Independent.

TEXTILE DEPARTMENT HAD VERY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The Textile Department of the North Carolina State college, which is the North Carolina Textile School, has had a very successful year's work. More students have been registered this year than in any previous year, and also a larger class has been graduated. The graduating class, which numbered twenty-four have all been located and will work in the different mills and allied industries.

At the commencement exercises Mr. L. W. Carr, General Manager of the Carolina Cotton and Woolen Mills, Spray, North Carolina, presented to Mr. Wesley Irwin Pickens of Charlotte, North Carolina, the student's medal which is given annually by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers to the student work. In order to obtain this medal the school must fill the following requirements: There must be a good equipment for instruction in cotton manufacturing. The instruction must be of recognized standard. There must be at least fifty students taking the textile course, and at least four competitors for the medal. The Textile Department fills all these requirements, as there were registered one hundred and seventy-two students and a graduating class of twenty-four. This is the only textile school in the South that has been awarded the medal.

The New & Better USCO Tire

with many improvements

The price remains the same

$10.90 for the 30 x 3 1/2

WHEN USCO announced its new low price of $10.90 last Fall, the makers were already busy developing a still greater "Usco" value.

The new and better "Usco" as you see it today—with no change in price—and tax absorbed by the manufacturer.

You'll note in the new and better "Usco" these features—

- Thicker tread, giving greater non-skid protection. Stouter sidewalls.
- Altogether a handsomer tire that will take longer wear both inside and out.
- The greater money's worth of fabric tire in the history of pneumatic.
