

The Moral Side Of America's World Position

of world unity. The economic unity of the world involves the whole question of justice and fair play in world trade. The political life of the world is not a legal unity, but mutual obligations between nations make that life a moral unity. Even the physical health of the nations involves a deep moral unity and mutual responsibility. A religious devotee crosses Asia Minor on a pilgrimage, drinks the poisoned waters of the sacred pool at Mecca, contracts Asiatic cholera, and upon his return communicates the disease to others. And then the health organizations of all nations begin to function to prevent the spread of the disease. Only the morally blind can fail to see the close interdependence of all the parts of the world upon each other.

My fifth reason is that in the world's life today enlightened altruism is the highest statesmanship and the best politics. A great many politicians would become great if they could have a moral vision and let the law of right dominate their course. They are constantly trying to do the expedient thing, or the shrewd thing, or the adroit and skillful thing in order to circumvent their foes, and they are constantly reaping what they sow, the reprobation instead of the approval of men. There is one path that leads to the heights of fame and glory for the political leader, and to the heights of progress for mankind, and that is the path of unselfishness and of right. The political leader with an eye clear enough to see this path, and courage and strength of purpose to follow it is the hero of posterity. Mankind never forgets the great man whose greatness took the form of service coupled with sacrifice and courage. America with her glorious history will never unfold her eagle wings and soar to the heights of her human history. Our highest contribution until she rises to the heights of the great moral vision. Finally, Europe presents the greatest civic and spiritual opportunity in wings and soar to the heights of her human history. Our highest contribution is our ideals. Europe is hungry for new spiritual forces. She is weary of state churches, of autocratic America to fulfill her destiny of service to mankind will be the greatest purpose for our nation.
