TOWNSEND'S RECORD UNUSUALLY GOOD

After sixty days of service to his State, Nat Townsend will return to his office here this week with a legislative record equalled by few of those who attend the biennial sessions of the State's law-making body. During this session Mr. Townsend had had unusual opportunity for service. Momentous measures have come before the body for consideration. All have needed the cool judgment and thought of such men as he. All of them have been given his attention, and he has had no small part in shaping the best actions of the assembly.

A close observer of legislative matters in Raleigh—a really able newspaperman—said to a representative of The Dispatch a short while ago that Nat Townsend was the logical successor of Rufe Doughton as the party's leader on the floor of the House of Representatives. He gave as his reason for this belief that Mr. Townsend was one of those rare men who come to Raleigh endowed with real brains and strong character—who are above politics and the selfishness that politics engenders.

Mr. Townsend was recognized by the press as the ablest man on the committee appointed to investigate the conduct of the Department of Labor and Printing in its dealings with State printers; he heads the committee on education and is admitted to have engineered this session the greatest educational bill ever put through the legislature; he was one of the principal advisers in road legislation; he was an active and helpful proponent of all legislation seeking to foster the commonwealth.

Were Mr. Townsend a politician, his name would have been emblazoned on the front page of every newspaper during the present session of the assembly. Concerned wholly with real service, however, he has not stooped to self advertisement. He has not sought out the newspaper boys to "help" them with their stories. Rather he has avoided the publicity that the fellows would gladly have given him.

In spite of this he will return to Dunn with the whole-hearted respect and the wholesome regard of every newspaper man who has covered the session. In addition he will possess a record of achievement of which his county may well be proud.

AN OPPORTUNITY PRESENTED

The opening of the fourth series of the Home Building and Loan association on Saturday of this week presents an opportunity to the citizens of the town to make an investment that will prove profitable to themselves and at the same time serve to make Dunn a "bigger and better" town. No one who is acquainted with what the Home Building and Loan association has accomplished in the way of new buildings since its organization last June will deny that it has meant much to the town.
 The town now has more than twenty new residences, completed or under construction, that most likely would not have been built had it not been for the activities of this organization. A number of other applications for financial assistance to build homes in Dunn are now in the hands of the officials of the association. These applications will be met just as fast as possible and will result in even a greater number of new homes being built in Dunn during the present year.
 A town can grow only as homes are provided to take care of the increase in population, and every person living in Dunn should be interested in the growth of their home town. People who own their homes should subscribe for stock in the association just as readily as those who wish to build through that channel. Money paid into this organization is not a donation, and should not be looked upon as such, but is an investment that will bring satisfactory returns.
 The number of shares already subscribed totals 5,200 and it is expected that the number will be increased to 6,000 with the fourth series. There should be no trouble in securing the 700 new shares desired, and will not be if the citizens of the town take the proper view of what a Building & Loan Association means to a town or city.

More stock subscribed to the Home Building and Loan association means more homes for Dunn.

The President has made an appeal that pleased the British, but we'll bet it does not please Congress.

Don't wait for George to do it—do it yourself by subscribing for stock in the Home Building & Loan association.

The fact that Henry Ford has purchased a glass factory would indicate that the 1924 model will be more "glassy," if not more classy.

It appears that Congress does not take President Harding seriously. In other words, his suggestions have but little bearing on that body.

The investigation of the management of the State sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis has at least given some folks a chance to let the public know what they think about it.

The woman who has entered suit against Ana G. Candler, the Coca-Cola king, for a half-million dollars as a result of his failure to live up to his promise to become her husband, evidently places a high estimate upon husbands. Yet, some husbands might be worth it.

THIRTY CENT COTTON

While the cotton market has played up close to 30 cents several times during the past few months, not until Tuesday of this week did 30-cent cotton become a reality. This is the highest price king cotton has commanded since 1920, and a higher price than many ever expected to see it sell for again after the 1920 drop.

The two outstanding reasons for the present price of cotton, according to the belief of The Dispatch, are the short crop produced last year and the inauguration of the co-operative plan of selling. With the major portion of last year's crop was sold on the open market, the warehousing of the more than 2,000,000 bales grown by members of the Co-operative Marketing Association, thus keeping it off the market during the "rush" selling season, no doubt has played an important part in bringing back 30-cent cotton. However, the fact that the Hoey staple is selling for 30 cents should not encourage farmers to take too much chance with the boll weevil.

LOOK OUT FOR THE POULTRY DEMONSTRATORS

For the benefit of those who know but very little about poultry, Mr. L. P. Surles has been very fortunate in getting some demonstrators from the Purina mills to be here for several days, any time you may give them will be well worth the time. They will be only too glad to help you in any way they possibly can. Don't hesitate to ask them any question you wish. They will be able to answer any question for you in regard to poultry. Adv. 1t.

A NEW CHARACTERIZATION
 Mary Pickford's United Artists production, "The Love Light," which will be seen at the Colonial Theater on Monday is an entirely different story and an absolutely new characterization from anything in which this celebrated screen star has heretofore appeared.

Ever since Miss Pickford has had her own producing organization and could dictate as to the type of photography in which she was to appear, she has adopted the policy of never adhering entirely to one line of parts, not only because she believes the public like variety, but because she believes the different lines of characters tend to increase her ability as an artist.

Miss Pickford has appeared in comedy-dramas but never in an emotional drama of the type of "The Love Light," and it was only after careful study and deliberate consideration that she felt herself equal to the tremendous role she plays in this story.

Miss Pickford has surrounded herself with a splendid cast, which includes such artists as Jean DuBruc, Raymond Blower, Edward Phillips, Albert Prescott, Evelyn Dumo and George Rigas.

Many Attend Burial Of Mr. Duncan Parker

Was One Of Barnett's Foremost Citizens And Beloved By Many People

The funeral of Duncan J. Parker, who died Monday night at his home in the Bunnville section, was conducted at the grave Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment was made in the family cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Albert McCall, pastor of the Missionary church at Bunnville, of which deceased was a loyal member, assisted by Rev. J. A. Campbell and Rev. Mr. Edgerton, both of Bible's Creek. A large crowd of friends and relatives attended the funeral and beautiful floral designs were banked high upon the grave, the offerings of the friends of the deceased.

As was stated in Tuesday's Dispatch, Mr. Parker had been in ill health for several weeks and his death was not unexpected. He is survived by his wife, who is seriously ill, and several children: two daughters—Miss Laura and Lucretia—and five sons, —Cornick, who lives near Raeford, John A., of Washington, D. C., Owen of Charlotte, Chalmers, who lives in the Bunnville community, and Franklin, who lived with his father.

Mr. Parker was about 80 years old and was one of the oldest and most prominent citizens in Barnett county. He was a mason, a faithful member of the church and a man of fine character and influence. In his passing Barnett county lost one of its very best citizens, and one that will be sorely missed, especially in the community in which he lived.

"Touch the top--and off they drop"

With my method, it is easy for the farmer to protect his cotton from the boll-weevil, and keep this pesky insect from getting one boll of his crop. All you have to do is fill an old bucket with Hill's Mixture, make a mop of a stick with a rag at the end, and walk through your cotton fields, touching each stalk as you pass. Inside of a few hours, every weevil on the plant will go to the Hill's Mixture, get one good mouthful and off he drops, a dead weevil.

Full Protection Against Boll Weevils at Lowest Cost

Five to six gallons of Hill's Mixture, 72c per gallon, will fully protect an acre of cotton against the boll weevil. This is the cheapest and surest protection that you can buy.

Not only is Hill's Mixture the most economical boll-weevil poison, but it does not require expensive machinery for its application, and it DOES NOT HAVE TO BE PUT ON AT NIGHT. Machinery and night-work have always been the greatest objections to the dusting method.

Hill's Mixture is composed of three elements; calcium arsenate as a poison, molasses as a bait, and a third (secret) element, which attracts the weevil to the mixture, and makes him eat it in preference to ANY PART OF THE COTTON PLANT!

HILL'S THE BOLL WEEVIL EXTERMINATOR MIXTURE

The Most Successful Boll Weevil Poison of All!

Hill's Mixture was tried out by scores of Georgia Farmers in 1922, on thousands of acres of land, AND EVERY FARMER WHO USED IT LAST YEAR IS GOING TO USE IT IN 1923. I can send you, or my agent in your territory whose name appears below, will show you testimonials from prominent farmers, and from the President of the American Cotton Assn., endorsing Hill's Mixture.
