

How To Make Cold Pressed Grape Juice

Raleigh, N. C. Aug. —How to make a delicious drink and one that is easily sold at the nearby drug stores is shown by Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, district home demonstration agent to the State College and Department of Agriculture, in a recipe for cold pressed grape juice. Mrs. Morris says that this drink retains all the delicate flavor of fresh grapes. It is made in the following way:

Crush grapes (do not cook) strain through cheese cloth and let stand one hour. Strain or filter through a flannel bag, being careful to keep back the sediment. Pour juice into quart jars that have been sterilized, adjust new rubbers that have been washed in hot soda water (1 teaspoonful soda to 1 quart water) place tops on jars and adjust the clamp, but do not seal tight. Place jars in sterilizer (a tin wash-boiler with wooden rack in bottom may be used) and surround with cold water, allowing the water to come to the shoulder of the jar. When the water reaches the boiling point 212 F. (a hard, jumping boil) keep that temperature for 2 minutes, remove jars and seal immediately. The juice inside the jars will be only about 185 F. A higher temperature or longer cooking impairs the flavor. No sugar will be required as the cold pressed juice contains a high percentage of fruit sugar.

The following well-known varieties of Muscadines are especially good for this cold-pressed juice: Scuppernon, Thomas, Mish, Eden, Memory, Smith, Flowers, James, and Luola. Thomas is perhaps the best. bunch grapes can be used in the same way.

Charge of Malpractice
Kinston, Aug. 22.—Frank Howard, elderly blind negro, will stand trial here tomorrow on the charge of causing the death of a woman of his race by a criminal operation. The State alleges that following the conviction of his wife, a professional abortionist, now serving several years for malpractice, the blind "uncle" assumed her "practice" and committed a technical murder. The alleged offense occurred several months ago.

To Show Results Of Lime With Legumes

Raleigh, N. C. Aug. —E. C. Blair, extension agronomist of the State College and Department of Agriculture will hold a number of meetings during the month of September to show the excellent effect secured by using lime and legumes in a combination to improve the fertility of the soil. Mr. Blair is conducting demonstrations with lime in about nineteen counties of the State. The general plan of the work is to use lime on one acre of land, to grow a legume on this soil, turn under the legume and note the resulting effect on the following crop. Good increases in crop yields have been secured from this practice, as shown by comparisons with a strip of land left unplowed in each demonstration.

Demonstrations are made with farmers under the direction of the county agents. Soybeans, cowpeas, velvet beans, crimson clover, red clover and vetch are the legumes being used. Mr. Blair has found that lime is very beneficial to all of these legumes, having nearly tripled the yield of red clover hay in one instance. One crop of crimson clover turned under made an increase of 15 bushels of corn per acre in addition to paying for itself with grazing.

Farmers of the Counties in which these demonstrations are to be held should attend the meetings to see the effects of lime and legumes, advises Mr. Blair. The meetings will begin the last week in August and continue through September and parts of October and November. Mr. Blair states that many farmers in North Carolina have soils that need improvement, and a visit to one of these demonstrations will prove both beneficial and valuable. Some field meetings will be held during the same period to show how field selection of seed corn and cotton is conducted.

The meetings which Mr. Blair has announced to date are as follows: August 28 at P. H. George's farm at Comfort in Jones County, September 7 and 8 in Alamance County to show seed selection, September 10 at Connally's View farm near Milton in Caswell County, September 11 at T. L. Caudle's farm in Davie County, September 12 at C. J. C. Chick's farm near Woodleaf in Rowan and J. F.

to get his girl—done got his licenses. All he lacked was tying the knot and he was almost ready for that, so when he got all the way to Axton he found that his girl had run away and married another boy and Irwin was just a few minutes behind, so he came back home heart-broken and sad. Poor boy, we all feel for you but we can't reach you. Maybe hereafter you will be a little ahead of time as it seemed your girl was first come first served. So a Mr. Wingfield happened to be the first there.—Spray Arrow.

Maxwell

Since Corporation Commission Maxwell has no fallbergs and State Administration on the "kick" matter, there has been no talk of running him out of town next time.

Let's hope not. He is at home dealing with "facts and figures" as much so as a duck is in the water. That is his natural element. That is where he can do his best work. To make him governor might possibly be spoiling a fine statistician to make a poor executive, of which we have a sufficiency at present. Let Maxwell stay where he is, for the present; and if another opportunity presents itself, then move the elements in an attempt to have him promoted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, a position he could fill with honor to himself, his state and the nation.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

Not Old Guards

The Greensboro News editorial writer at Raleigh hatched out "a panic" among the Old Guard Democrats of the State. He has the Administration and its friends in a demoralized condition—and all because of Cooper. It is well for the public to bear in mind a few facts of political record. The Coopers do not belong to what The Greensboro News correspondent is pleased to particularize as "the machine." Nor did Norwood ever belong to it, but when Norwood resigned he was played up as an old guard. The past records of the State will prove that Norwood was a bitter organization man. So was both the Coopers. They were anti-organization and enthusiastic supporters of Kitchin in 1912. That was the only campaign in which the supremacy of the organization, which represented the working Democrats of the State, has been seriously challenged. They are still playing up Watts. The man cannot even go to Raleigh in promotion of his private business except that he be made the target for heartless ridicule. But while Watts was an old guard, the incident in which he was involved hurt no one but himself. Simmons is generally referred to as head of "the machine." Both the Coopers and Norwood were fighters against Simmons.

The responsibility of the Morrison Administration for the scandals growing out of the bank failures, if there is any responsibility at all, is the sort to be commended. It is traceable to his recognition and support of his former political enemies.—Charlotte Observer.

Saunders Answers Bill Of Complaint

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Charles Saunders yesterday filed in Federal court here his answer to the bill filed yesterday by the Piggly Wiggly Corporation, which asked an accounting of his expenditures while president of the company and an injunction restraining him from disposing of further stock of the company. The answer denies that any stock belonging to him personally was bought or sold and that any stock of any kind was purchased or sold for his personal account.

In an amended bill also filed today, the former head of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., and the Piggly Wiggly Corporation asks that the court determine the amount which the corporation owes him from any dry transactions in addition to asking a receiver for the corporation as sought by the original bill filed last week.
