

Raleigh Will Hold Great Fall Festival

Raleigh, Sept. 20.—Raleigh has long been in the limelight as the capital of North Carolina, but it was not until last year that the retail merchants began a concerted drive to put it on the shopping map.

The first Fall Festival proved such a big success that it is to be repeated again this fall. For three days Raleigh is going to forget politics, and devote its time to getting acquainted with its business men, and the folks who come to the Capital City to trade.

The dates for the second Fall Festival are September the 25th, 26th and 27th. On these three days, thousands of Tar Heels are expected to get together in a grand Fall Get-Acquainted festive occasion.

The Festival will open on Tuesday, September the 25th, with a general value-giving day by the merchants, on which reduced prices on standard merchandise will be made. This will be known as "Dollar Day," and will be designed especially with a view to getting out-of-town shoppers to come and get acquainted with Raleigh merchants, their stores, their salesmen and salesladies, and their merchandise. There will be every effort made to see that the visitors are made to feel at home, both in and out of stores.

To Have Street Carnival Historic Fayetteville street, over which Tar Heel Governors have travelled for a century, when they went to the Capitol to be inaugurated, will be closed to traffic on the evening of September the 25th, for a street carnival. It's to be a real carnival, too, and everybody will be expected to shake off dull care, and enjoy the freedom of the city in a very realistic sort of way. Of course, there will be only good-natured fun; nothing smacking of rowdiness will be tolerated. Raleigh merchants found this event last year to have been one of the biggest drawing cards of the Fall Festival. Thousands of people thronged the streets, and made merry until midnight.

Wednesday, September the 26th is to be another trade day, but special attention will be given to the observance of Civic Clubs Day. Members of the booster organizations of the various cities and towns in the State have been invited to come to Raleigh on that day, and break bread with their fellow-laborers in the Capital City. Already, many have accepted, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. The day will be concluded with a Fancy Dress Ball that will have many unique features.

But the biggest event of all will come on Thursday, September 27th. This is the Beauty Contest. Some fifty towns and cities in the State have been invited to send their prettiest girl to the Fall Festival, and practically all of them will have representatives. That means a bevy of the fairest maidens to be found in America, for North Carolina folks do feel proud of their women.

The prettiest of the bunch is going to get a silver loving cup, but that will be as nothing compared to the thrill of being crowned as queen of the Festival, at the formal ball to be held in the evening. This will take place with due ceremony, and will be the closing event of the Festival.

While the Beauty Contest will be one of the big features of the third day of the Festival, it will not be the only event. There is a good-sized committee of Raleigh merchants working out plans for the parade which will take place in the morning. All of the high State officials will be invited to review the parade.

The star feature, of course, will be the bevy of beauties, but that will be by no means all. There are to be numerous floats, by civic and public organizations, and the best one will get a silver loving cup. Several brass bands, and the various public organizations, will have their members in the line of march. This parade will be expected to show Raleigh as she really is, and will be for the special purpose of acquainting visitors with what Raleigh has to offer.

The Beauty contestants will be guests of the Merchants association at a luncheon at the Woman's club, which will be attended by several notables, as well as by the officials of the Merchants association. As a part of the Fall Festival program, the merchants are offering a profit-sharing event. Coupons are given for five per cent of the value of any purchase, and these are for cash at any other store in the city that is a member of the association.

While particular emphasis will be given on the third day of the Festival to the showing of Raleigh as she is in the parade, the stores will offer reduced prices on this day, as on the others.

A part of the street carnival, on the first day of the festival, will be a costume review. There will also be a masquerade parade, which will be followed by a boxing bout, greasy pole contest, and other street dancing. The event will be formally opened with the presentation of the key to Raleigh to the Fall Festival committee, by Mayor Es-gene Culbreth, which will take place in front of the Capitol.
