WIFE BEHEADED BY ENRAGED MAN

Milwaukee Real Estate Dealer Confesses To Horrible Crime

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 9.—E. Ray Tompkins, real estate dealer of White Fish bay, and former member of the Milwaukee Normal school faculty, is in the county jail formally charged with the murder of his wife whose headless body was found today near Douglas Bay, 11 miles from Milwaukee.

Tompkins confessed that he strangled his wife until she became unconscious, placed her body in a bath tub and placed her head under a tap of running water, according to District Attorney O'Shea's charge.

Mr. Tompkins disappeared from his home last Thursday, about 9 a. m., that morning she took her two children, Marjorie 14 and Robert, 7, to school and told them she would not be home in the morning but would return in time to prepare lunch.

She did not return, either met her husband or saw him since that time.

When her body was found, it was lying in the water, and the head was missing.

The police in their search for Mrs. Tompkins, learned from J. F. Douglas, owner of an estate in which the body was found, that Tompkins had talked with him regarding the location of the caretaker's home and that later an automobile of the same make owned by Tompkins had been driven to Lion's Den, a wooden glee near Douglas Bay. The imprint of the tire tread was the same as the tread of the tires of Tompkins' car. An investigation of the tonnage of the car revealed blood stains as introduced by a pair of overalls identified as Tompkins'.

County officials took Tompkins to the Lion's Den this morning and he aided them in their search for his wife. The body was covered by muck, leaves and stones in a well-hidden spot. Tompkins turned to Sheriff Phil Westfall and in a choking voice cried: "Who could have done this thing? Find the guilty one."

Three hours later, according to Sheriff Westfall, Tompkins' nerve broke and he confessed.

In her distress over the conditions at her home, Tompkins said, his wife addressed a letter to her father in which she detailed her troubles and told of her husband's infidelity. The letter said she intended placing charges against her husband unless he divided his property with her and consented to a separation.

"In his confession," Tompkins said he came into possession of the letter before his wife posted it. He returned home Thursday morning after the children had left for school and confronted her with it. After a stormy few moments he declared his wife said: "You are only good for tending furnaces."

"This taunt enraged him and he caught her by the throat, choking her into unconsciousness. He carried her body to the bathroom where he placed it in the tub, turned on the water and went to the kitchen, where he procured a large butcher knife, with which he removed her head. He carried her head to the basement, and placed it in the furnace.

"Later in the day he placed the body in a trunk, carried the trunk to the garage, where he loaded it into his machine, and at his convenience drove to the spot where he hid the evidence of his act."

Will Be Presented By Senior B. Y. P. U. At First Baptist Church

On Christmas night the senior B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church will give the Christmas pageant "Why The Chimes Rang" in the church for the benefit of the public at large.

In connection with the play, portraying the "Perfect Gift," there will be given several tableaux, accompanied by appropriate music and special lighting effects. The play will be given as last Christmas upon an enlarged pulpit. Thirty-five members, exclusive of the choir, will take part in the pageant. The pageant is being given primarily in order that the people of the town may enter into the real spirit of Christmas and witness the portrayal of the "Perfect Gift" to the world, in so far as it is possible for this scene to be enacted.

Last year the beautiful pageant "Bethlehem" was presented on Christmas night to overflowing crowds. So many were turned away on this night that upon special requests, it was repeated on the following Friday night with the church overflowing again. Special efforts will be made this year to accommodate as many people on Christmas night as possible.

Those taking part in the pageant are now in constant rehearsal and already a successful spectacle is assured. The work of pageantry is under the direction of Miss Janis Black, while the special musical program will be under the direction of Mrs. M. G. Under. A more extended program of the pageant will appear in a later issue of The Dispatch.

Marshville Business Man Kills Himself

Monroe, Dec. 7.—H. B. Marsh of Marshville, prominent business man, committed suicide here today by drinking poison. His body was accidentally found in the barn on his premises by a servant who was looking for eggs. By his side was an empty two-ounce bottle that had contained carbolic acid and the evidence that he had drunk the full contents was unmistakable.

No cause can be assigned, it is declared, other than bad health and melancholia. He was one of the largest business men of the county, being head of the Marsh-Lee Company at Marshville and other enterprises. Up till 2 o'clock today he was known to be going about his usual affairs.

He was a member of the Baptist church and had just subscribed largely to a new building in his town. He was married about a year ago. Two children by his first wife, both grown, survive. He was fifty-five years old.

Fast Train Robbed Of Safe By Bandit

Norfolk, Va.—A lone bandit last night robbed the express car of the Norfolk and Western "Cannon Ball" train, operating between Norfolk and Richmond, of a safe said to contain $5,000 in currency. The robbery occurred as the train was pulling out of Waverly, Va., about dusk. The bandit boarded the train at Waverly and proceeded immediately to the express car.

"Has a suitcase in here?" he asked J. H. Stevens, of Richmond, the express messenger. Stevens stooped over to examine the suitcases in the car. When he lifted his head he was looking into the muzzle of a revolver.

Binding, gagging and blindfolding the messenger, the bandit shoved a small iron safe through the door of the moving car. Stevens was found in the car by Conductor Thornton as the train was entering the yards at Petersburg.

The bandit was a white man and wore no mask. He was described as a "foreigner."

Advice On How To Keep House

Miss Shaffer Tells Members Of Woman's Club How To Best Keep House

(Reported)

Around seventy-five women heard Miss Shaffer's talk at the Woman's club room Monday afternoon. Her talk was both entertaining and helpful, filled with good advice along the lines of house-keeping. The outstanding theme of her talk was "How to Spend."

Seventy-two per cent of all incomes in the United States are less than $1,500 a year. Fourteen per cent of all incomes are more than $2,000, while one-half of one per cent is in the millionaire class. Is it not necessary that some thought be given to the spending of these incomes?

It does not little good to make definite statements as to how to spend money, as the output of an income depends largely upon local conditions and other factors. A budget is a plan for spending and a determination to live up to it. It should be made elastic enough so it can be lived up to easily.

Food, Clothing, Shelter—Three things should be considered—food, clothing and shelter. In food we must have an adequate diet, consisting of the right amount of protein in the form of milk, eggs, meat, cheese, etc. The standard amount of protein is one quart a day for every child and one pint a day for every adult. Two-thirds of the protein should be gotten from fish, as people as a rule eat too much meat. Meat once a day is sufficient. Too much meat gives undesirable products in the system, which cannot be eliminated. We should have bulky foods such as cereals and bread. We should also have plenty of fruits and vegetables.
