BANNER YEAR OF ASSEMBLY

SERVICES AT LAKE JUNALUSKA ON SUNDAY, THE FOURTH.

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 4. With sermons and addresses by Dr. E. D. Soper, of Duke University, Mrs. Mary Harris Armour of Georgia, and Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory University, Independence Day, Sunday, July 4, was observed as a day of religious patriotism, and officially launched the fourteenth season of the Junaluska Southern Assembly of the M. E. Church, South.

Manager J. Dale Stentz expressed himself as well pleased with the initial attendance, which he says surpasses any previous season. Judging from attendance at auditorium assembly program last night and the series of addresses which marked Sunday, Mr. Stentz said he believed the present summer would be the banner year of the assembly.

Services today were preliminary to the conference on social service which will hold its first business session Monday and will continue through July 11 under the auspices of the board of temperance and social service of the M. E. Church, South.

Bishop James Cannon, president of the board of temperance, is directing the conference and has secured as speakers prominent men and women from many sections of the country, who will lead discussions on various phases of "Youth and the Future."

Daily addresses by Dr. W. N. Edson of American Hygiene Association and Willis H. Parker of Playground Association of America, will be features of the present week.

Dr. E. D. Soper of Duke University will deliver daily devotional addresses during the season.

State Superintendents of the Anti-Saloon League organization of the Southern states are expected to arrive Wednesday and will hold a meeting Thursday, July 8.

"The Ten Commandments," moving picture will be the entertainment feature Saturday night, through the courtesy of the Junaluska management.

While only two summer institutes have begun as yet, the social service conference and the leadership school for you people, each day is bringing inquiries about accommodations and program activities. Hotels and boarding houses report a daily increasing registration and there is evident everywhere an atmosphere of expectancy and enjoyment.

Improvements in the buildings and grounds are subjects of first comment by new arrivals. The grounds are in the pink of condition and the thousands of plants and shrubs which were planted during the winter and spring are now in full bloom.

The new club house erected by Dr. A. W. Anderson, St. Petersburg, on the golf links, is one of the beauty spots and is attracting many visitors.

Camp Cheonda for girls, has reached its limit of nearly one hundred girls. This camp is under the auspices of the Sunday school board, M. E. Church, South, and will close July 13, when a similar camp for boys will open on the same site.

Junaluska Woman's Club will hold its first meeting Tuesday, July 6.

The educational commission of the M. E. Church, South, created by the recent general conference of the denomination, will meet here Tuesday, July 6th. Session will be held at the Terrace hotel. Members are: Rev. W. M. Alexander, Fayette, Mo.; Mrs. D. N. Bourne, Greenwood, S. C.; Rev. J. L. Cunningham, Nashville; Rev. J. L. Decell, Jackson, Miss.; Rev. J. S. French, Bristol, Va.; Rev. E. O. Goddard, Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. Paul Kern, Dallas, Mrs. W. A. Newell, Mt. Airy, N. C.; Rev. W. F. Gilliam, Macon, Ga.; Rev. C. M. Reeves, Little Rock, Ark.; Rev. C. T. Talley, Beaumont, Texas; and Dean Goodrich White, Emory University, Georgia.

CIVIC LEAGUE HONORED.

The Waynesville Civic League received the Jefferson Centennial Certificate from the "Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation committee," being the first club in this section to receive this honor. The Sulgrave Club of America will soon receive the second honor. The Waynesville Civic League will be one of the clubs to be entered on the books of the Archives of Monticello.

FEDERAL BOARD WILL ACT UPON POWER PERMIT.

$12,000,000 Pigeon River Hydro-Electric Project Hearing Thursday.

Asheville Citizen.

Action of the application of the Pigeon River Power company for permission to construct a $12,000,000 hydro-electric plant near this city will be taken following a hearing before the Federal Power commission which starts Thursday in the Federal building at 2 o'clock in Asheville.

Attention of business interests all over Western North Carolina will be centered on this hearing which is expected to be the final one on the matter of a permit for the construction which the company announces it is ready to carry forward at once.

Major H. C. Fiske, district engineer of the war department, with headquarters at Chattanooga, Tenn., will preside at the hearing which is expected to draw representatives from all new developments in this section. C. E. Ray, of the state department of conservation and development, arrived in Asheville yesterday from Raleigh to attend the hearing today. Major Fiske is expected to arrive in the city this morning.

The hearing is expected to be the final preliminary to the commencement of work on the twelve-million-dollar project on the Pigeon river. All latest plans will be read Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Major Fiske. The hearing has been transferred from the offices of the United States Geological Survey to the court room in the federal building.

Hope has been expressed by officials and citizens in general that the hearing today will be purely a matter of formalities and that no further delay will be caused in connection with the beginning of actual work on the giant project. The power situation in Western North Carolina is said to be acute and great interest has been manifested in the proposed project on the Pigeon river. The development of the great water power resources in Western North Carolina is now one of the main issues in this section.

The federal power commission is composed of the secretaries of war, agriculture and interior, and one district engineer. The hearing will be attended by members of the North Carolina department of conservation and development, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the Pigeon River Power company, E. D. Burchard, district engineer of the United States Geological Survey and others interested in the development of the project.

DR. WALDROP KILLED.

Friends in Waynesville will learn with regret of the death of Dr. O. Stanley Waldrop of Kinston. Dr. Waldrop was a very popular young dentist and practiced his profession here several years ago. The following account is taken from Monday's Asheville Citizen:

Dr. O. Stanley Waldrop, about 31, prominent Kinston dentist, was instantly killed late last night when his automobile crashed through the embankment barricade on the south side of route 40, 100 yards north of the Castlehayne river bridge 10 miles north of the city and burned. Emmett Kerr, of Raleigh, Dr. Waldrop's traveling companion, was only slightly hurt. He dragged the body of the Kinston dentist from the flaming car immediately after the machine caught fire.

The machine, owned and driven by Dr. Waldrop, was headed toward Wilmington and was said to have been travelling at a rapid rate of speed. The machine failed to take the curve leading between barricades to the north end of the river bridge, crashing into and through the barricade with terrific force. Five sections of the fence were torn away as the car with its two passengers toppled over the embankment and into the marshy lowlands. It caught fire immediately and burned quickly.

Mr. Kerr said he and Dr. Waldrop were en route to Wilmington's beaches to spend the week-end.

MRS. BRYSON INJURED.

Mrs. Robert Bryson, who lives near Lake Junaluska, was painfully injured Wednesday morning when she was thrown from a moving automobile somewhere in the vicinity of the Lake. The injuries sustained are not believed to be of serious nature.

INDEPENDENCE DAY—GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Address of Hon. Charles R. Thomas. Sunday, July 4th, was a very interesting occasion at Grace Episcopal church. The usual service was held in the morning, and at the evening service Rev. Albert New officiating, patriotic songs and hymns were sung, including America and The Star Spangled Banner. In the chancel was the American flag, which was carried into Havana, Cuba, by the Waynesville company of soldiers during the Spanish-American War.

This particular occasion being the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, and being on Sunday, in accordance with the request and proclamation of the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina, was observed in many churches throughout the state and United States in some special appropriate way.

At the request of the rector and members of the congregation, Honorable Charles R. Thomas delivered an address, which was acceptable to the congregation and delivered in an impressive manner, containing much interesting and valuable information appropriate to the occasion. A brief outline of his address is as follows:

After referring to the many scenes and shrines of American patriotism at Philadelphia and Valley Forge, near that city, and a complimentary reference to the work of the Daughters of the American Revolution in finishing North Carolina's part of the Cloister of the colonies at Valley Forge and to the Revolutionary soldiers of Haywood county (including Robert Love and Anthony Wayne, after whom Waynesville is named), Mr. Thomas then described the group of colonies along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Georgia inclusive, and how this sparsely settled country, becoming the United States of America, had won the admiration of the world by its marvelous progress.

He then described the first English settlements in North Carolina upon Roanoke Island under Sir Walter Raleigh, referring in that connection to the first Christian baptism upon this continent, being that of the Indian Chief Manteo, and also the baptism of the first white American child, Virginia Dare, characterizing the Raleigh settlement on North Carolina soil as the beginning of American History, and the baptism of Manteo and Virginia Dare as the beginning of the life of the Episcopal church and all other protestant churches in the New World.

He suggested that the English colonization of America, later made permanent at Jamestown in 1607 and at Plymouth Rock in 1620, was providential, being about the time of the destruction of the Spanish Armada, in that the English colonization established the dominion of the English-speaking race upon this continent, and also establish here the protestant religion. He then described briefly the causes leading up to the American Revolution and the Declaration; the attitude of the people of England and of America; and showed that the people of the colonies inheriting from English ancestors the love of liberty and the privileges of Englishmen, could do nothing else than to declare their independence, and it was for the principles of liberty, inherited from their English forefathers, that they fought the eight years war of the Revolution.

The Declaration of Independence was a protest against the king just as much as Magna Charta; and as much as the demand for the Habeas Corpus Act and other great documents guaranteeing the rights of both Englishmen and Americans.

He quoted the speeches of great Englishmen like Pitt and Burke and others in England, and of Patrick Henry and John Adams in America, to show the mental attitude of the people of Great Britain and the colonies.

He then briefly gave the history of the Declaration in the Continental Congress from the time of the introduction of the resolution of Richard Henry Lee of Virginia for independence until the adoption of the Declaration on July 4th.

In this connection, quoting from a Virginian, Howison, in his history of the United States, he showed that (Continued on another page.)

PATRIOTIC PAGEANT AT LAKE JUNALUSKA.

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 4, (Special.)—The spirit of '76 interpreted in the light of 1926, lived again Saturday night, when students of the Junaluska Summer School affiliated with Duke University staged a patriotic pageant at Lake Junaluska.

Inaugurating the observance of the Fourth of July, an enthusiastic audience filled the open air auditorium when the pageant and a moving picture, "Desert Gold," an entertainment feature furnished by the Assembly management, composed the program. Special music by the Junaluska Double Quartette was a feature of the entertainment.

President B. G. Childs of the Junaluska Summer School and Prof. R. O. Edgerton, a faculty member, staged and directed the pageant. Prof. G. W. Harmon of Leigh University, in a brief prologue explained the purpose of the pageant, which brought out in five episodes historic facts that played an important part in the birth of the American nation.

Episodes in the order of their portrayal were: Boston Tea Party; News of War; Spirit of '76; Song of Marion's Men; Continental Congress and Signing of Declaration of Independence.

Colonial costumes and pastimes of the pre-revolutionary days lent color and atmosphere and furnished an effective background for the more martial scenes which came to a climax when members of the Continental Congress, asserting there should be no more taxation without representation, declared the colonies independent of England and the tyrannical reign of King George.

Those taking part in the episode portraying the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the characters impersonated were: Mrs. Samuel Knight as John Hancock; Miss Fannie Noland, Benjamin Franklin; Miss Eva Price, Thomas Jefferson; Miss Eva Yarbrough, Robert Livingston; Miss Debrayda Fisher, Charles Carroll; Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick, Benjamin Harrison; Miss Ruth Noland, Robert Morris; Miss Annie D. Kirkpatrick, John Adams; Miss Winnie Price, Josiah Bartlette; Mrs. John W. Kirkpatrick, Samuel Adams; Miss Sara Pauer, Richard Henry Lee; Miss Annie Lou Walker, Edward Rutledge; Miss Esther Rogers, Roger Sherman. This event was staged by the primary language class.

Participants in the Virginia Reel, which preceded the announcement of war, included Misses Bernice Crum-packer, Mae Osborne, Creelman Rowland, Stuart Maddox, Misses Rogers, Florence Price, Winnie Price and Blankenship. Miss Florence Morelock of Nashville, Tennessee was the accompanist, and Zeb Rogers announced that war had been declared.

The spirit of '76 was portrayed by James Osborne, R. W. Crawford and Hugh Rogers.

Miss Sara Powers and Robby Wiggins as readers were convincing in their parts.

The Oxford Orphanage Singing Class will give a concert at Waynesville Tuesday, July 13th.

LOG CABIN CAMP TEA DANCE MONDAY.

Honoring the girls attending Log Cabin Camp for Girls this season, Miss Fannie Belle Cutler of Atlanta, secretary of the camp, entertained with a tea dance from 3:30 until 5 Monday afternoon at the new So Big Tea Room at White Sulphur Springs Park. Solo dances by Miss Marion Bailey of Atlanta, instructor in dancing at the camp, Miss Beth Kehler of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Miss Mary Crenshaw of Atlanta, assistant athletic director, featured the afternoon. About twenty-five guests enjoyed the occasion.

St. John's Catholic Chapel, 145 Church street, Waynesville. Mass on Sundays at 10 o'clock, Mass during the week at 7 o'clock.

REV. FATHER McDEVITT, Pastor.

Mrs. M. L. Knight, Messrs. Kenneth and Jamie Knight, Rogers Christy and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peters of Emory, Va. were guests of Mrs. W. S. Christy several days last week.
