Waynesville Country Club Entertains

On Friday night, October 29, 1926, the Waynesville Country Club gave a most enjoyable Halloween party. Hundreds of invitations were sent out and apparently all were accepted. There were approximately from four to five hundred guests who were there from time to time. The guests were met at the door and ushered into the dance hall by devils and spooks of all kinds.

The Waynesville Club House was most attractively decorated with the season's colors, pumpkins, corn stalks, apples and all the samples of the season's crop.

Refreshments were to be had at all times. Pop corn, dough nuts, cakes, pumpkin pies and great kegs of sweet cider.

Old-time square dancing was the most popular amusement of the evening and a splendid orchestra entertained the guests while as many as four sets were in swing at once.

Perhaps no entertainment has been enjoyed more than this informal gathering of the citizens of Waynesville.

Great interest is being taken in the Waynesville Country Club.

Mr. J. M. Long and Mr. R. L. Prevost are very active in the success of the new club and many citizens are taking stock in the new country club. Work is now being done on the nine hole golf course.

The sponsors of Halloween country club festivities were: Mrs. H. G. Stone, Mrs. C. W. Miller, Jr., Mrs. C. M. Dicus, Mrs. Floyd Rippetoe, Mrs. C. F. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. J. W. Reed, Mrs. H. B. Atkins, and others.

New Bakery to Open on Saturday

Waynesville is endeavoring once more to have a bakery and it is up to the housewives and merchants to support it. Why should we patronize bakeries in Asheville and Spartanburg when we can have bread as good in our own town?

The bakery opens Saturday in the old bakery building on Church street under entirely new management. Dr. John Smathers who owns the building, has built a new concrete oven and there will be expert bakers in charge. This bakery is well equipped and will equal to those in cities much larger.

Everyone is urged to co-operate with the new bakery and at least give it a fair chance. Let's do away with these big bread trucks that come to town every day. Many towns smaller than Waynesville support one or two bakeries. Why can't we?

Rush Work On Big Power Development

By A. D. Jones.

Where the Big Pigeon river plunges through mountain gorges along the North Carolina-Tennessee border line, 50 miles west of Asheville, preliminary work is getting underway incident to the development of one of the most colossal hydro-electric power projects in the South.

With the harnessing of the Big Pigeon and the installation of dams, tunnels, power plants and other machinery the Carolina Power and Light Company proposes the ultimate development of approximately 70,000 horse power. Engineers estimate it will require two years to finish the job and the cost, it is figured, will approximate $10,000,000.

The survey of a route from Waterville, the site of the proposed project, to Asheville is well underway. The Carolina Power and Light Company has applied to the Federal Power Commission at Washington for license for a transmission line in Transylvania county, within the Pisgah National Forest from the company's Canton station, to a connecting point with the Southern Power Company's system at Greenville, S. C.

License Secured

The Carolina Power and Light Company last week secured a license for 50 years from the Federal Commission for the power project on the Big Pigeon. With the securing of the permit, it was learned last night, the company, which serves Asheville and other cities and towns in the Carolinas, proposes to proceed at once with the actual construction work on the power project.

The work will involve construction of a concrete arch dam which will ultimately be 180 feet high; a water conduit more than six miles long, comprising a tunnel under a mountain; a power house with installation of 35,000 horse power initially, and 70,000 horse power ultimately.

While Asheville will benefit from power to be generated on the Big Pigeon River project, it was learned last night, that power from new sources will be available here within a year, or a year before the Big Pigeon job is scheduled for completion.

Those in close touch with power developments throughout the country declare the Pigeon river plant will mark a significant move in the industrial growth of Western North Carolina and the South. Large power companies, other than the Carolina Power and Light Company, it is pointed out, will benefit from the Pigeon River project by reason of a recent arrangement between the companies providing for the interchange of power of strategic points where

Business Is Good With Job Rep't

While the Waynesville Mountaineer has had more orders for commercial job printing, engraving, ruled work, punching, binding, etc., ever known in the history of this printing office in the month of October, we deem it advisable to inform the general public through these columns, that this printing office is so well equipped we are able to handle anything in the printing or engraving line.

We are making a specialty of putting new backs on old Bibles and find that there are many people who have Bibles in their homes which are kept on account of sentimental reasons. These Bibles can be made as good as new with new backs and gold title burned in at very little cost. Bring them in.

We also do special ruling and embossing, engraving and print anything from a small card to a large volume. At the present time we have one order for 9,000 vouchers for Norris Motor Co., and we just finished 28,000 cards for R. N. Barber.

Our samples of Yuletide greeting cards are now on display. We urge our customers to come in and order early as there is a large percentage deducted if orders are given in the next few weeks.

Thanksgiving Proclamation by President

Washington, Oct. 30.—(INS.)—America, prosperous, happy at peace with all, is blessed among nations of the earth. President Coolidge declared today in proclamation setting Nov. 25 as Thanksgiving Day.

The proclamation follows:

"As a nation and as individuals we have passed another twelve months in the favor of the Almighty. He has smiled upon our fields and they have brought forth plentifully. Business has prospered; industries have flourished, and labor has been well employed. While sections of our country have been visited by disaster, we have been spared any great national calamity or pestilential visitation. We are blessed among the nations of the earth.

"Our moral and spiritual life has kept measure with our material prosperity. We are not unmindful of the gratitude we owe to God, for His watchful care, which has pointed out to us the ways of peace and happiness; we should not fail in our acknowledgement of His divine favor, as are necessary, the prizes to which has bestowed upon us so many blessings. Neither should we be forgetful of those among us who, through stress of circumstances, are less fortunately placed, but by deeds of charity make our acknowledgement more acceptable in His sight.

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November, next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work and in the homes or in their accustomed places of worship, devoutly give thanks to the Almighty, for the many and great blessings they have received and seek His guidance that through good deeds and brotherly love they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

"Done at the City of Washington, this thirtieth day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1926, and of the Independence of the United States, one hundred and fifty-first.

(Signed) Calvin Coolidge.

HON. W. N. EVERETT TO DO PHILANTHROPIC WORK FOR N. C. TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Hon. W. N. Everett
State Seal Sale Chairman

Honorable W. N. Everett, Secretary of State has accepted the appointment of State Seal Sale Chairman for the coming Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale which is conducted from Thanksgiving to Christmas.

Mr. Everett says that for many years appreciated the seal sale and the splendid and wonderful work done by the state and national associations and he is glad to render any service possible in this worthy cause.

The most outstanding and comprehensive piece of research work in tuberculosis is in the tubercle bacillus and is being done at this time by the National Tuberculosis Association. This is done in a co-operative way by using the best laboratories and scientific workers in this line connect it with our leading universities and is financed by grants from the National Tuberculosis Association. At the same time they are securing the co-operation of the leading sanatoriums of America in clinical research which is a very necessary part of the program. The North Carolina Tuberculosis Sanatorium is included in this last year's the North Carolina Tuberculosis Sanatorium has conducted clinical research and is glad to join in this nation-wide movement. This clinical research not only proves or disproves new discoveries in laboratories or elsewhere, but it assures the patients of more careful and thorough examinations and better treatment.

Among other things, the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association is doing a most important piece of work in health education. This being interpreted in concrete language, means teaching the child proper health habits in order that he may remain healthy, and training the undernourished child in nutrition classes in order that he may become so. In some class rooms one hundred per cent of the children have reached a normal state of nutrition, while in a school of five hundred, ninety-six per cent were successful. It is felt that the proper nutrition of our children is the most important thing before our people.

The many friends of Mr. Everett throughout the state and elsewhere will be delighted to know that his health is greatly improved, and that he is regaining his old-time vigor, so much so that he feels able to take up this philanthropic work for the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association.
