

Native Wild Flowers

The great variety of wild flowers in the vicinity of Enka is almost unbelievable by anyone who has given the subject only casual thought or attention. It is said that this region is prolific in the largest number of such plants to be found in any other part of the United States.

The newspapers have recently told of the possible collection to be found in our mountain regions. It is said that Miss Catherine Morton, a sixth grade teacher at Andrews, has gathered specimens of wild plants and flowers. Many rare specimens have been found by Miss Morton and some of them were identified with great difficulty. One of these, known as Ruellia, was found on the banks of the Tuckasee river near Dick's gap. This plant lives in damp soil and blooms early in the season, having a lilac colored flower. It is a native of tropical countries but is sometimes found in the United States. It was first discovered in the Carolina highlands near Rutherfordton. Other unusual specimens in the collection are the pitcher plant, sometimes called hen and chicks or flycatcher, and is found in the eastern part of the State; another is the carrion flower, the nectar of which is said to be fatal to the insects that suck it.

In her search for flowers Miss Morton's attention soon became attracted by the butterflies which were always present. These she began to advantage of the discount now allowed. This is in effect taking away from him who has not and giving to him who has.

During the 1927 session of the General Assembly a law was enacted which provides that the owner of land, after its sale for taxes, shall pay a penalty of 20% on the entire amount of taxes, together with sheriff's costs for the first 12 months, and 10 per cent thereafter until the tax is paid. The same law provides that in cases of foreclosure by the Court the cost shall be taxed as any other civil action, and shall include five per cent of the sale price for a commissioner and in addition a reasonable attorney fee. In 1929, the General Assembly reduced the penalty from 20 per cent to 12 per cent, for a period of twelve months and from 10 per cent to 8 per cent thereafter until paid. The 1931 session reduced the penalty from 12 per cent to 10 per cent.

During the time the law has been on the statute books, hundreds of cases have been instituted against the small land-owners of Haywood County resulting in the collection of Court costs, penalties and attorney's fees, and in each instance those least able to bear it have had to pay this unjust and unfair expense.

If I shall be elected it shall be my purpose to exert all the influence at my command to bring about the repeal of this unjust law, and to enact in its stead a law which shall be just, equitable and fair to all the citizens of the County.

"I am positively opposed to the general sales tax as a revenue measure for it more directly affects the masses of the people, with the possible exception of our present tariff act. Other ways should be found and can be, to raise the necessary money without imposing additional burdens on those least able to bear them. Approximately 80 percent of this sales tax would be paid by individuals whose incomes are less than $3,000.00 catch and mount. Her collection of 100 individuals presents an impressive spectacle of shapes and colors. Among the group are two tiger swallow tails, the only pair of this species seen during the summer. These were caught near Cullowhee.

Miss Morton was born in India, her mother being a missionary to that country. At the age of 12 she came to America and received her higher education at Asbury college, Wilmore, Ky. She has been a teacher in the North Carolina school for the past five years. She finds the search for and identification of wild plants and flowers a most fascinating pastime, and the hills and valleys of Western North Carolina an inviting place in which to pursue her hobby.—Harvey Holleman in The Enka Voice.

Clean Up Orchard For Quality Fruit

One of the best ways to control insect and disease pests in the orchard and to improve the quality of fruit this season is to give the orchard a thorough cleaning. This applies especially to apple orchards.

Apple scab, for instance, spreads from dead leaves which have dropped from trees that were infected with the disease last season. The leaves should be raked up and burned or placed under as early as possible.

The codling moth winters over under the loose bark and among the refuse where cut apples were piled or boxes and other containers were stored. This bark might be scraped from the trees, raked up and burned.

"Make a general cleaning of such places as the codling moth is likely to hibernates," says H. R. Niswonger, field horticulturist at State College.

"This clean-up practice will reduce the number of worms in the fruit this season. Mummied fruit hanging to peach trees and those on the ground should be collected and destroyed because the brown rot spreads from such dried fruits. Countless numbers of leaf hoppers are hibernating in the grass and weed strips bordering the apple orchard. Burn these over where there is no danger of setting fire to the trees. Plowing under these strips as well as the sod of the orchard will destroy many insects."

San Jose scale and other insects multiplied greatly during the latter part of the 1931 crop year because of favorable weather conditions, says Mr. Niswonger. Spraying the trees with lime sulphur will keep this scale under control and the use of the commercial oil sprays will give control of the scurfy and oyster shell scale insects.

a year and that it would amount to an average of $6.00 a year each for every man, woman and child in North Carolina, and take from the pockets of the people who are least able to pay, thus increasing the burden of the poor, and lifting the burden from the rich. The sales tax was the largest single issue in the 1931 General Assembly, holding in Raleigh for five months instead of two, where it was finally defeated only by a narrow margin. The same issue again promises to become the largest single issue of the 1933 General Assembly, and the same forces that sought to compel the enactment of the general sales tax in 1931, to wit foreign corporations, railroads, power companies, and the tobacco companies, are already starting the propaganda for the placing of such a tax in 1933, since it would reduce their income and franchise taxes, also reduce their property tax.

"I favor enactment of laws that will absolutely protect depositors of all banks. It is the abuse of the present banking system and consequently enormous loss to depositors which has caused the average man to become his own banker, with what funds he may have left.

"Since 1923, we have had over 8,000 bank failures in Carolina, resulting in the loss of millions upon millions to the trusting people, widows' savings, laborers' earnings, farmer's hard earned cash, saved for payment of his taxes.

"Reports show that in 1930 over 1345 banks failed in the United States, among which were several in Western North Carolina, when some 35,000 depositors lost millions of dollars. In the first eight months of 1931, there were 932 bank failures, and the losses from closed banks had reached the stupendous sum of $700,000,000. These figures would naturally put any one to thinking about how to save the depositors and how to save the banks.

"There is only one way to restore absolute confidence in banks, and that is by enactment of a law by both State and Federal governments securing deposits in their respective banks. The problem is to strengthen banking and safeguard depositors.

"What the farmer, the laborer and the little business man need is fair legislation, just taxation, and a chance for educational advantages for their children, and I shall favor legislation looking to that end."

Hints for Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

FRAGMENTS of broken glass are always dangerous. One way to pick them up safely is to spread a wet piece of flannel over the particles and pat lightly. Then burn the cloth.

The next time you make tart shells, pie crusts or rolls, brush them lightly with a sugar water solution a few minutes before removing from the oven. It will both improve the appearance and add to the flavor, especially with rolls.

Left over pieces of linoleum make excellent covers for drainboards.
