These products are grouped into three classes to make the value of all these products... The 3,800 manufacturers in the State gave... $455,000,000... in the employment of labor... The Great Smoky Mountain National park, characterized by a park official as "the greatest mountain masses east of the Rockies, lies almost at our door, though still uncharted and less known than the mountains of India. The Great Smoky Mountain National park, sets aside for the enjoyment and exploration of millions of American tourists a new land of scenic wonders, uniquely different from any other region in the world. During the summer months the whole region becomes one vast flower garden, a riot of color and beauty. Rhododendron and azalea spread over their delicate tinted blanket over mile upon mile of mountain slope and wild flowers and fern abound in profusion. On a 30-mile trip through the Smokies a famous botanist found more kinds of trees than one sees in traveling diagonally across Europe. Wild animal life is also found here in the same prodigious abundance as the vegetation. Tourists will also find most interesting a study of the primitive mountain people although few and widely scattered in the park area do exist.

OUR CHIEF RESOURCE
It is a wise people, who would build a democracy in which to training and opportunities of youth are not allowed to go up and down with the stock market but are kept equal, high, and as constant as the life stream of the people. We must pay on time dollar for dollar, and interest too. To tear down is a wasteful way to pay up. The schools and colleges are the chief resources with which in the long run the public debt will be paid. Let us pay off the longrunning debt by the long-run building up of the latent capacities and creative power of the people.—President Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina.
