

A PLANT IS IMPORTANT TO THIS COUNTY

Hundreds of Workers From Haywood County Are Employed At Rayon Plant.

Haywood County does not have the claim the American Enka her own, but she is proud to privilege of claiming many of the workers that are now employed at the rayon manufacturing plant. Several buses leave Haywood county each day carrying hundreds of the Haywood citizens to the plant which is situated about 5 miles beyond the Haywood county line in Buncombe county.

The plant was erected only four years ago, but has grown in capacity and has created among its two thousand workers a spirit of contentment and loyalty. The village of Enka is built not far from highway Number 10, which connects Asheville and Waynesville.

Thousands of dollars are paid out each week at Enka for payrolls and

Appeal Made To County To Get Welfare Worker

Half Of Salary Of Worker Would Be Paid By State, Says Director.

In a statement received here this week, Miss Lois Doshier, Director of the Division of County Organization for the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, appealed to the citizens of Haywood county to further consider the matter of employing a welfare officer.

"A well-rounded program of public welfare could save Haywood county much money and much duplication of effort," Miss Doshier said. "A good welfare officer can enlist the cooperation of all the local organizations and agencies in a program of social betterment. This has been demonstrated in the community in the welfare program, and secured their cooperation in carrying on the work of this important office. In other counties not having a welfare worker, such leadership is greatly missed, and organizations frequently find their work overlapped."

The pauper dole has been found to be a weak spot in the administration of county funds unless a trained worker is on hand to investigate every case of need. Miss Doshier said that every dollar should be spent to advantage in these hard times, and for that reason a welfare worker should supervise the expenditure of poor relief funds.

The depression has been particularly hard on children who are not only poorly fed, but are subject to frequent moves as their parents are unable to pay the rent. These children must pay eventually for the hardships they are undergoing, as their bodies and minds will be irreparably damaged. Miss Doshier said that every county should have a trained welfare worker to see to the welfare of the children.

"The state makes available from state funds half of the salary of the welfare officer, and half of his traveling expenses. This makes it easy for a county to finance a full-time welfare officer."

FERRINGHAUS CONFIDENT

J. C. B. Ehringhaus and his State manager, Major L. P. McLendon, are losing no time in whipping their campaign organization together again for this last two weeks of campaigning preparatory to the second primary with Lieutenant Governor R. T. Fountain on July 2 for the Democratic nomination for Governor. For while both Ehringhaus and McLendon are confident that with the lead of 47,000 votes which Ehringhaus received in the first primary and the new pledges of support that have been coming in ever since Fountain issued his last-minute call for a second primary, Ehringhaus will win by anywhere from 75,000 to 10,000 majority in the second run-off, they are leaving no stone unturned to assure victory.

A group of Edgemont farmers sold 218 hogs weighing 40,390 pounds for $1193 last week.

It has been the full-time working of this plant that has helped keep business in Western North Carolina from getting to as low an ebb as in some other sections of the country.

Blowguns Used In Smoky Park Area By Indians

Many Quaint Old Weapons Still Used By The Cherokees.

When Uncle Sam opens up his new national park in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee he is going to have within this magnificent play-ground area a hunting weapon, an "air gun," that cannot be equaled in any other national park in the country.

This peculiar gun, is none other than blowgun, that primitive, nine foot, hollow, tube-like weapon through which the Cherokee Indians blow 18 inch arrows "feathered" with thistle down.

Some of these quaint old weapons which are nine feet long and which have counterparts among the savage tribes of South America and the South Seas, still can be found in the possession of the Cherokee Indian nation living in Western North Carolina. The reservation of this tribe is in the

Waynesville Hardware Company Furnishes Builder's Hardware

The builder's supplies that were used in the new court house were supplied by The Waynesville Hardware Company, R. G. Coffey, manager. The builder's hardware included the door knobs, door stops, window fixtures and one hundred and one other items that are too numerous to mention. Mr. Coffey also furnished all the nails and also many of the carpenter ters and stone masons with their tools. The Waynesville Hardware Company has the distinction of being the oldest hardware store in Waynesville and one of the oldest west of Asheville.
