TAR HEELS ARE SLATED TO GET FEDERAL POSTS

Raleigh Observers Believe Daniels, Gardner, Winborne And Others Will Be Appointed.

Although speculation has already begun as to who will get the patronage plum in North Carolina in the form of an appointment to federal jobs now that the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt is a fact. For one of the appointed facts in connection with the appointment of Roosevelt is that the appointments of his party going out will go out with it and that these vacancies will be filled from the ranks of the victorious party.

It is generally agreed that among those in North Carolina almost certain to receive recognition from Mr. Roosevelt are Governor O. Max Gardner; Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy under Woodrow Wilson, and under whom Mr. Roosevelt served as assistant secretary of the navy; Charles J. Wallace, Winborne, of the state Democratic executive committee; John Wright Hill, secretary of the state Democratic executive committee and ordinary campaign manager for Robert R. Reynolds, new senator-elect, and a number of others who took an active part in the campaign that has just closed.

It is agreed in political circles here that Governor Gardner has an excellent chance at a cabinet post if he desires it. Most of the opinion here is that he will probably be offered the post of secretary of agriculture, because he has been and still is a real "live farmer" and because of the nation-wide attention he has attracted through his "live-at-home" program here in North Carolina and his thorough understanding of the economics of agriculture. It has also been suggested, however, that he may be offered the post of secretary of commerce. This is the tremendous department built up by Mr. Hoover when he was its head and which now has become one of the largest and most expensive of federal departments. If Governor Gardner should be named to head this great department the appointment would have a double purpose, the first to carry out all the necessary and essential activities of this department, the second to eliminate all the unnecessary activities and to reduce the expenses of its operation to a minimum. Because of Governor Gardner's phenomenal success during his administration in this state in reducing the expenses of government and taxes as well in the face of steadily declining revenues many believe he would prove singularly successful as secretary of commerce.

Some believe that Mr. Daniels will be offered a post in the cabinet by Mr. Roosevelt, but most observers here think he will probably be offered some diplomatic post, probably an ambassadorship to one of the more important European countries, though hardly to Great Britain. It is generally agreed, however, that Mr. Daniels will almost be permitted to select the appointment he desires and that it will be forthcoming, both because of his long and close personal friendship with Mr. Roosevelt and because of the assistance given during the campaign that has just closed.

It is also generally agreed that Chairman Winborne will be well rewarded for the excellent work he has done as chairman of the state Democratic executive committee and director of the Democratic campaign this fall, which netted a Democratic majority of almost 250,000 here in the state, compared with the Republican majority of 62,600 in 1928. For while Chairman Winborne is an exceedingly modest and quiet man and has given no inkling of any desire for additional recognition, the belief in many circles here is that he will probably be offered the post of collector of internal revenue in North Carolina. This post is now held by Gilliam Grissom, arch strategist of the Republican party in this state. It is one of the choicest plums in the patronage pie and has the additional advantage of affording an opportunity for the distribution of a goodly number of political jobs to lesser political lights.

Secretary Hill of Wilmington, is also being mentioned for the post of U. S. district attorney for the eastern district and should have no trouble in getting this post if he desires it, since he will have no difficulty in getting this post if he desires it, since he will have no difficulty in getting the support of Governor Gardner and Senators Reynolds and Bailey, who will undoubtedly become the patronage dictators for this state. There are, of course, many other lesser appointments with which many other lesser political lights will undoubtedly be rewarded.

Yeast In Ration Makes Hens Lay

Test Is Tried And Hens Fed Fermented Mash Increase Eggs At Practically No Extra Cost

An experiment in feeding fermented laying mash to hens conducted at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station near Willard during the last year has indicated that the addition of yeast to the regular ration will give an increased number of eggs without adding to the cost of feeding.

The test was conducted under the direction of Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at State College. He selected 114 pullets and 26 mature hens and divided the chickens into two even lots. Feeding and laying ability were compared in making the division as near equal as possible. The first lot was fed the regular laying mash and scratch grain, while the second lot was given this regular ration in addition to all the fermented laying mash the hens would consume in thirty minutes. Mr. Dearstyne prepared the fermented mash by taking two cakes of yeast to ten quarts of the mash and adding enough warm water to make the mixture fairly moist. This was allowed to set for 20 hours.

The hens were tested from September 17 to February 3 and then started again on May 28 and continued until September 15. A careful record was kept of all feed consumed and all eggs laid. The birds fed the fermented mash were of improved physical appearance and seemed to have a higher vitality when the test was concluded.

Those hens fed the fermented mash consumed 6,319 pounds of mash and 5,293 pounds of grain as compared with 5,476 pounds of mash and 5,677 pounds of grain consumed by those in the regular ration. The birds fed the fermented mash laid 16,296 eggs and those fed the regular ration laid 15,885 eggs. The feed cost for the birds in the fermented mash was 12 cents a dozen eggs, while the feed cost of those fed the regular ration was 14.9 cents a dozen.

"I want my Telephone put back, please"
ALMOST daily people who discontinued their telephones during recent months are ordering their service restored. They found that the small cost of the service had been repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.
Others missed the close and personal contact with friends made possible by telephone service. Still others mentioned the loss of many pleasant, impromptu social gatherings when their friends were unable to reach them by telephone.
It is all true—what these subscriber friends of ours say. Telephone service costs so little and its value is so great that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.
