

SUNDAY'S Sunday School Lesson JESUS SHOWS HIS POWER

Golden Text—For I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. Timothy 1:12b.

Mark 4:35 And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

36. And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37. And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

38. And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awoke him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

39. And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

40. And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41. And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey?

Mark 5:1 And they came over unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gadarenes.

2. And when he was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit.

3. Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4. Because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces:

5. And always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying and cutting himself with stones.

6. But when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshipped him.

7. And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the most high God? I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not.

8. For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.

Mark 5:13 And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him.

19. Howbeit Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

20. And he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis how great things Jesus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

In the two great miracles recorded in the present passage Jesus in a most spectacular way showed his power: the one a physical wonder and the other a spiritual marvel. By calming the troubled sea he showed his power in the realm of nature. By curing the troubled soul he showed his power in the world of spirit. "That a raging tempest should in an instant at Christ's behest become a great calm—there is nothing more marvelous in the story of Christ's life from first to last. The power that swept this man's heart clean of the foul brood that haunted it and reclothed a raging maniac in his rightful mind is most amazing still." (Jones).

It was at the close of that great day of teaching with its sermon in ten recorded and many unrecorded parables delivered at Capernaum and the lakeside. Late in the afternoon or early night Jesus and the disciples while crossing the sea encountered the storm that was stilled at the word of the Master. That night or the next day the Gadarene demoniac was healed, but the visit did not extend beyond a single day for at the request of the Gadarenes, Jesus and his disciples recrossed the sea to Capernaum.

Work Of Haywood County Parent-Teachers Asso.

The Haywood County teachers, under the direction of Superintendent Henry, held their first meeting September 3, 1932. The group selected a President and Secretary-Treasurer and proceeded directly into the business of the day. One of the first things stressed by the County Superintendent was that Haywood County Teachers have one hundred percent membership in the North Carolina Teachers Association. The excellent work of the State Association was briefly reviewed and the group agreed unanimously to follow the example of previous years in joining one hundred percent strong. After the Superintendent had outlined the administrative policies of the county for the year the general meeting adjourned to the departmental meetings.

Leaders had been appointed for the departments of high school, grammar grades and primary grades. The program in the elementary departments was that suggested by the State Superintendent and outlined in the Handbook for Elementary Schools on Reading. Papers were prepared on each topic and presented to the Elementary departments and each paper was followed by a general discussion on the topic. The high school group had each member present a question or questions relating to high school problems for group discussion. This plan of procedure was followed for the five meetings held.

From these meetings the individual teacher receives new ideas and plans for meeting their immediate problems, added inspiration and professional growth in research. Too, the social contacts welded the individual schools and teachers into a closer more sympathetic body, making for better execution of county policies.

As the Legislative body of the county association, the School Master's Club, composed of principals, and a study of the training, experience, salaries, living expenses, cost of summer schools, and professional growth of teachers during the past two years. The results of this study and an interpretation of the findings were presented to both the Legislator and Senator from this district. Anyone wishing a copy of this study may have it by writing to Supt. A. J. Hutchins, Canton, N. C.

Another movement sponsored and executed by the Club was that of having each civic organization in the district draw up resolutions opposing any move by the State Assembly to curtail in any manner, the efficient operation of the State School System. This movement resulted in forwarding of resolutions and telegrams to the Senator and Representative from this district emphasizing the need of saving the children of North Carolina from further suffering from the errors of the present generation.

The success of the association has been largely due to the wise and efficient leadership of Superintendent Henry. The teachers of Haywood county following his leadership are looking forward and onward to greater professional growth and school efficiency regardless of salary cuts, fewer supplies, a greater teaching load and freedom from compulsory summer school attendance.

"Where did the car hit him?" asked the coroner.

"At the junction of the dorsal and cervical vertebrae," replied the medical witness.

The burly foreman rose from his seat.

"Man and boy, I've lived in these parts for fifty years," he protested ponderously, "and I have never heard of such a place."

2 Canton Men Were Badly Burned Last Saturday Afternoon

Arlie Smathers And Mark Hall Are Burned About Face, Hands And Feet.

Two men were painfully burned about the face, hands and feet as a result of an explosion in a smelter at the Champion Fibre company's plant Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The injured, who were taken to the Northern hospital, Asheville, are: Arlie Smathers, chief inspector of the general mill of the Champion Fibre company.

Mark Hall, operator on one of the smelters in the soda mill department of the Champion Fibre company.

Dr. F. M. Davis, company physician, said that while the burns are painful they are not considered serious. The men were given first aid treatment by Dr. Davis and they were placed in an ambulance and taken to the Asheville hospital.

The burns were caused by steam which burst from the smelter, believed to have been caused by water leaking into the smelter. Smathers and Hall were the only men near the smelter which is used for burning nitrate cakes. It was not damaged to any appreciable extent by the explosion.

LIBRARY NEWS

Rosamond Lehman's "Invitation to the Waltz" has just been placed on the library shelves. This book, written about a seventeen year old girl, will be found very delightful reading.

Another book which has just been presented to the library is "Samuel Seabury—A Challenge." And a challenge it is to the thinking reader.

Walter Chambers, in writing the life of Samuel Seabury, has presented facts which ought to make every American citizen more vitally interested in the problem of cleaner politics and better government throughout this entire country of ours.

"Wid" Medford Was Famous Bear Hunter

he had close calls with bruin and on one occasion when his hounds were chasing a bear "Wid" took a short cut in order to get in ahead, where he could shoot the bear when it came. In a few minutes the bear appeared. "Wid" shot and wounded it but the shot was not fatal. As there was now no way of escape on account of the dense forest, and no time to reload, the only chance was to use a butcher knife which he carried with him at all times. The only chance was to meet the bear in open combat. In the struggle "Wid" with quick forethought, straddled the bear's back and with sure aim with his knife, he succeeded in slaying the bear.

On another occasion, while digging, ginseng he saw a bruin lying behind a log enjoying the sunshine while asleep. Without any gun, after meditating a few minutes he decided to try his luck with his knife, he quietly slipped up on the opposite side of the log, administered the blow killing the bear instantly.

And many other experiences of similar nature were told by him.

When it came to killing rattlesnakes he said he slow enough to build a fence two feet high around Haywood county.

In a write up in a Greensboro paper, the writer who was at the press meeting, seemed to doubt the truthfulness of "Wid's" yarns, and referred to him as the "Boss Liar of the Mountain Section." "Wid" being unlettered was informed of the article and expressed himself highly complimented, as he had the distinction of out-lying one editor.

On another occasion, a murder trial was transferred to Haywood for trial from Madison county. The parties were a man and a woman accused of murdering an infant child. "Wid" was called on the jury and after hearing the evidence which was very strong, but being all circumstantial, was not sufficient to satisfy the jury beyond a reasonable doubt of their guilt, returned a verdict of an acquittal. After rendering the verdict,

"Wid" took occasion to lecture Meadows, one of the defendants, and warned him of the danger of becoming mixed up with a woman of low character telling Meadows if he had a wife to go home and try to be a better man, notifying him that this woman had come within one half inch of breaking his damn neck.

"Wid" was a great organizer. One of the chief promoters in the bear hunter's organization. On election day it was interesting to see them coming to the polls fifty to a hundred strong "Wid" with his bear skin coat and coon skin cap in the lead giving order. Sometimes on foot and sometimes mounted on horseback and sometimes carried on the shoulder of two strong men. Under "Wid's" command the vote was solid for democracy.

"Wid" served one term as county commissioner. During his term he was sent to make a settlement with some parties. As "Wid" was uneducated he could not count, and by figures they could not agree. The parties went to the full board, somewhat indignant that a man unlettered had been sent to them that could not even sign his name was sent on such important business. Another one was sent and it was found that "Wid's" contention was not far from right. "Wid" remarked that he was "illiterate and without book learning" but he possessed common sense enough that these college educated men could not pull the wool over his eyes.

"Wid" was full of sport. When it came down to business he could act the part of a business man. During the period of reconstruction, he played a prominent part in helping throw off the Carpet Bag rule and restore white supremacy in North Carolina. There was not a more loyal citizen in Haywood county, and he was always ready and willing to defend the principals of the southern cause.

NOTE—Another article by Mr. Francis will appear next week along this same line. Next week's article is about a well known character who found a mountain of dead dogs near Waynesville. Watch for it, its a "corcker."

THE HUMAN CRICKET

BEATS OLYMPIC RECORD!

ILLUSION:
Josie, the lovely trapeze artist, stands upon a small platform. At the will of the magician she leaps twenty feet into the air to reach her trapeze. She uses no ropes, no ladder! A phenomenal leap for a woman... or a man!

EXPLANATION:
Josie didn't jump... she was sprung! The twenty-foot leap is not dependent on Josie's ability, but on a powerful spring mechanism hidden beneath the stage which propels the artist upward through the air. The force is so violent that the lady wears a light steel jacket which protects her from injury as she starts her astonishing leap.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED

...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Magic has its place...but not in cigarette advertising.
Consider the illusion that there is a mysterious way to give cigarettes a superior "flavor."

EXPLANATION: Cigarette flavor can be controlled by adding artificial flavorings. By blending. And by the quality of tobacco used.

Cheap, raw tobaccos can be "built up" or "fortified" by the lavish use of artificial flavorings.

Such magic, however, seldom holds the audience. Your taste finally tells you the truth.
The cigarette flavor that never stales, never varies, never loses its fresh appeal, comes from mild, ripe, fragrant, more expensive tobaccos...blended to bring out the full, round flavor of each type of leaf. It's the quality of the tobacco that counts!

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Because Camel actually pays millions more every year for choice tobaccos, you find in Camels an appealing mildness, a better flavor.
And Camels taste cooler because the welded Humidor Pack of three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane keeps them fresh.
