

3-Legged Chicken Is Owned By Local Man

J. A. Fisher, route 3, Waynesville, who lives in the Ninewel section, about one mile and a half from Waynesville, said Tuesday he had a freak of nature on his place in the form of a three-legged chicken, and that a number of people had been out to see it.

He said the chick is two weeks old and is perfectly normal, except it has three legs, one being the front left leg, the leg of the other two and the right leg has six toes instead of the three toes of the normal ones. Mr. Fisher said the chick was noticed immediately after it was hatched out. The chicken makes no use of the third leg. It is the same size and activity of the others.

Mr. Fisher said he did not expect to have an operation performed upon this chick, but if it grew to maturity he might send it to some museum.

How to get to SLEEP

When you can't sleep, it's because your nerves won't let you. Don't waste time "counting sheep." Don't lose half your needed rest in reading. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin, drink a glass of water—and go to sleep.

This simple remedy is all that's needed to insure a night's rest. It's all you need to relieve a headache during the day—or to dispense of other pains. Get the genuine tablets of Bayer manufacture and you will get immediate relief.

Bayer Aspirin dissolves always immediately—gets to work without delay. This desirable speed is not dangerous; it does not depress the heart. Just be sure you get the genuine tablets stamped thus:

Hugh J. Sloan

Hugh J. Sloan, together with W. A. Bradley, of Bradley-Davis Real Estate Company, were responsible for bringing to Waynesville, Mr. W. E. Kirchoff, nationally known florist, who has had shipped here over 21 tons of gladiolus bulbs for planting on the 35 acres of land that he leased while here several weeks ago. Planting of the bulbs got under way Thursday morning. It has been estimated that there are a million and a half bulbs that will produce flowers this summer in the 21-ton of bulbs that were sent here from Oregon.

Timely Questions And Answers On Farm Problems

Question: Is it too late to plant corn in the mountains? Will varieties be best suited for local market? Answer: It is not too late to plant corn. The varieties should be planted at once. Later plantings will not yield the same amount of grain as the early ones. The varieties to grow in the mountains are Yellow Mountain and the Yellow Globe Danvers. With the Danvers variety plants should be used while the Yellow Globe Danvers can be grown in the mountains.

Question: What control is best for the apple and peach blight on apples? Answer: Spraying with Bordeaux mixture immediately after the blossom or soon will give excellent control. This is not a good hundred per cent control but it will reduce the blight sufficiently to insure a good crop of apples. Apply the spray when the buds are open. Second application will be necessary on the Golden Delicious, Stayman, and Red Winesap for effective control.

Question: Many of my chickens are sick and dying from what is locally called "limberneck." What causes this disease and how may it be cured? Answer: Limberneck is caused by a germ in spoiled meat, such as a dead rat or chicken, or by moldy hay. The disease, however, is not contagious. When the disease first appears all birds should be confined until the source of infection is found and destroyed. Before returning to range the birds should be given Pepsin (S.S. Co.) at the rate of 1 pound to each 100 pounds of live weight. The same may be given either in the wet mash or in the drinking water.

Rising Moon Enables Prisoner To Escape

Because the moon came over the mountains in all its blazing glory, Robert Wills, twenty-one, was at liberty today from the Bell Springs Jail at Charleston, W. Va., in which he was waiting trial on an accused robbery charge.

State police reported that the incident of the town mistook the appearance of the brilliant moonbeam for flames and turned in a fire alarm.

While a fire truck, its siren shrieking, toured the city in a vain hunt for a blaze, Wills calmly sawed his way out of the jail, unheard in the din. No trace was found of him today, according to State police headquarters here.

THE WRECK OF THE AKRON

"Stand by for a crash," the captain said. As the Akron plunged to her doom ahead; With her human cargo from yonder sky, In a watery grave now soon would lie.

No mariner's compass could then avail, No pilot could steer to a safer trail, The sound of thunder and the lightning's flash, Proceeded the order, "Stand by for a crash."

The prospect of death that was coming soon, The storm which obscured the light of the moon, Fought with weak humans and the battle had won, When darkness displaced the light of the sun.

The sea which takes toll of hundreds of men, Had coveted this prize for possession then; It took them beneath the wild angry wave, And no human being had power to save.
