

Chicken Stealing Is Said To Be An Organized Racket

Chicken stealing has become a serious menace to the success of the poultry industry by the poultrymen of the State, is the belief of Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at State College.

"In the past, we have considered chicken stealing as a necessary evil, more of a prank than anything else, but of late it has developed into something more serious and poultrymen must begin to take steps in their defense," says Dearstyne. "Under ordinary circumstances, this 'heaviness' is the lane of the poultry growers existence, especially where he is developing highly-bred birds but now with the use of the motor trucks and good highways, it is possible for thieves to steal chickens in large quantities and be off with them to market before the grower is aware of his loss."

Dearstyne says he has received numerous letters in past weeks telling of wholesale losses by poultrymen. One man said the thieves had taken every chicken except one old rooster and left a note tied to his leg.

In some instances, the entire living of a family is tied up in the poultry flock. The flock has been built up by the investment of hard-earned money, long hours of work and careful study. Under such circumstances, the wiping out of the flock in one night is a serious matter.

To combat this, Dearstyne urges community and country poultry associations and the cooperation of honest dealers. Courts should impose heavier sentences and every poultry owner should follow up the prosecution of thieves and insist that they get maximum sentences.

Trench Silo Solves Winter Feeding Problem

In many sections of North Carolina cattle and sheep get sleek and fat in summer only to become weak and emaciated in winter. This lack of an adequate supply of winter feed of proper quality is one of the greatest handicaps to the livestock industry in the State.

"We know that silage is one of the best winter feeds for maintaining cattle or sheep or for feeding dairy cows; however, the expense of building the upright type of silo has prevented many farmers from using this valuable feed," says L. I. Case, livestock specialist at State College. "Now that the trench silo is proving so suitable and economical, every man with a cow or two or a small flock of sheep can have silage in abundance. The trench silos now in use vary in size from a capacity of one ton to 150 tons and more. In practically all cases, the silage is keeping well."

Case gives as the two main requisites for a good trench silo, a stiff soil and a water table below the level of the bottom of the silo.

Corn is the best silage crop for this State, he says. Varieties of the sorghums are used in some sections, but about the only advantage these sorghums have over corn is that they will grow on poorer soils and with less rain.

While there are several varieties of silage corn, that variety which makes the best yield of grain is a community is nearly always best for silage also. The greater the quantity of grain in the silage, the more nutritious it is and the greater the saving in the concentrated ration needed to supplement the silage. Case says.

Russell Mull of Morganton, route 4, raised 1,000 baby chicks with a home-made brick brooder and had them ready for market as broilers at ten weeks of age.

Good Cream Butter Depends On Cream

The demand today is for a mild, flavored butter made from sweet cream or cream that is only slightly sour. Many North Carolina farmers and housewives are adding to their incomes during this period by preparing such butter for sale to boarding houses, on curb markets or to a selected trade in towns and cities.

"The first step in making good butter is to handle the milk with care from the time it is drawn from the cow until it is churned," says W. L. Cleveland, dairy manufacturing specialist at State College. "At milking time, no dust, dirt or objectionable odors should be allowed and the cow's udder, teats and flanks should be free from all filth. It is important too that the milker's clothes and hands be clean. When a sufficient amount of cream has been accumulated for churning, ten hours should elapse after the last cream is added before churning.

Cleveland suggests that the cream be brought to the proper temperature four or five hours before churning. At that time it should have a clean, refreshing taste and smell. The churning temperature varies from 55 to 60 degrees in winter. The butter should appear in from 20 to 30 minutes. If the churning is done at a lowish temperature, the butter will have a weak and greasy body.

In churning agitate the cream uniformly and use a churn that holds three times as much cream as that placed in it. If the churn is too full, poor results are secured.

Cleveland says it is highly important to keep the milk uniform and the churn thoroughly clean. Many of the troubles in making good firm butter may be traced directly to this lack of cleanliness. He suggests also that churning be stopped when the outer particles have attained the size of a pea.

H. W. Doub of East Bend, Yadkin County, sells 35 pounds of home-made butter each week at a price of 255 cent a pound. As he delivers the butter, he also sells eggs, broilers, meats and other farm products.

Burning of the land is one good way to eradicate profits. Trees cannot flee from fire but must stand and take it, says Extension Forester Graeber.

The Irish potato crop of eastern Carolina is reported up to a good stand and sweet potato beds sprouting well.

Prisoners Thank Beaverdam Folks For Their Kindness

We the prisoners of Hazelwood Camp wish to extend to the people of Beaverdam township our greatest appreciation for their united efforts in preparing the dinners they have so graciously given us.

We trust that each of their footsteps placed on the roads we have trod to God, and they may rest assured that their extreme kindness toward us will help make us live more like Christian men.

Vaughn Medford, an inmate wishes to state here: "I wish to thank the Beaverdam people for their generous contribution and I hope that each of you have played on my guitar will blend more harmoniously when we all get to Paradise."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sank and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. Pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your bowels ache and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.
