I Athens Full of Idols (v. 181) Athens was the intellectual metrop olis of the world at that time, the home of the world's greatest elequence and philosophy. In spite of this fact the city was given wholly to idolatry, which so stirred Paul's spirit that he was there moved to preach the gospel. II. The Parties Concerned in the Controversy (vv. 17-21).

1. The Jews (v. 17). True to his usual custom. Paul went into the synagogue and entered into earnest argu ment with the Jews.

2. The devout persons (v. 17). This doubtless included proselytes to the Jewish faith.

3. The philosophers (v. 18). From the Jews and devout persons he turned to such as were found in the market place. Here he came into touch with Epicurean and Stoic philosophers. When these philosophers heard his preaching they desired to know what new doctrine he preached, so they in vited him to the Areopagus where he might speak to them. They inquired as to what this "babbler" might say. The word "babbler" means literally "seed-picker." They conceived Paul as a globe-trotter who had gathered up seeds of truth or error here and there over the world and that he was somewhat like themselves, interested in talking about that which he had seen and heard.

III. Paul's Address on Mars' Hill

1. The introduction (xv. 22, 23). He introduced his discourse in a courteous manner, stating that he perceived that they were very religious. He did not needs them of superstition as the A. V. would make it, but as the A. R. V. "very religious." He declared that as he was viewing their city lie beheld an altar with an inscription, "To the unknown God." He proceeded at once to connect it with the idea of the true God, implying that this after had been exected to him.

2. The body of his discourse (vv. 24-31).

a. A declaration concerning God tvv 24, 25).

(1) The true God created the mate rial universe (v. 24). This was a direct blow at the philosophy of both the Epicureans and the Stoics.

(2) God's spirituality and immensity (vv. 24, 25). Being essentially spiritual be demands heart-service, and being transcendent above all he is not confined to earthly temples.

(3) His active providence (v. 25) He gives existence to all things. He bestows needed gifts upon all creatures, and as sovereign directs all things.

b. His declarations concerning man (vv. 26-31).

(1) His common origin (v. 26). This was a blow at the foolish Athenian pride which supposed that they were superior to all other people. This proposition he proved from their own literature (v. 28). He argued that if men are the offspring of God and bear his likeness, it is ufter folly to make Images such as the idols were (2) Nations have their place by the re vereign purpose of God (v. 26). He argued that the position and mission of each nation is of God's appointment. (3) Men should seek God (v. 27). His goodness and grace in supplying all luman needs, and His sovereign ordering of the affairs of nations should move men to see and seek God. (4) Pressing obligations to repent (vy. 10, 31). This was his supreme message. Though God had formerly passed over the idolatrous practice of the nations, he now calls all men to repent in preparation for the com-Ing day of judgment, the guarantee or which is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. IV. The Results of Paul's Preaching

(vv. 32-34). 1. Some mocked (v. 32). Men and women are today moveling the preacher who dares to preach the coming

Judgment. 2. Some procrastinated (v. 32). This is the common way of men. Many of them do not mock, but they hesitate to accept and act upon the urgency of

3. Some believed (v. 34). Wherever the gaspel is preached there are some who believe and are saved.
